Putting The

As the excitement of the first week of school died down and the realization of being in an academic situation hit again, students began to feel the pressures of high school life. "There are so many things to get done!" remarked Melissa Chang.

This feeling was one common to many at SPHS. The busy students joined clubs, participated in leadership, and involved themselves in their areas of interest; all the while trying to excel in their studies.

The availability of diverse activities on and off campus was unlimited; the options during lunch alone included protesting for peace, performing scientific experiments, or participating in impromptu soccer games.

Whether the goal was going to college or getting a job after graduating, Tigers had the ability to create any kind of lifestyle they wanted. It was like a puzzle, the pieces being whatever each person chose. As the year progressed, the puzzle was slowly put together.

1. Anita Gutierrez gets strange looks from Marsha Wong and Leslie Caudill as she fixes her sock.
2. Laura Hollcraft and Jannet Kim rush to meet a COPA deadline.
3. Lacy Endo and friend find a quiet place to eat lunch.
4. Paul Wu concentrates on his work.
5. Al Hart and Derrick Jones set up speakers for lunchtime music
6. Darlet Yee and Jeremy Taylor put in last-minute study time on the Tiger Patio.

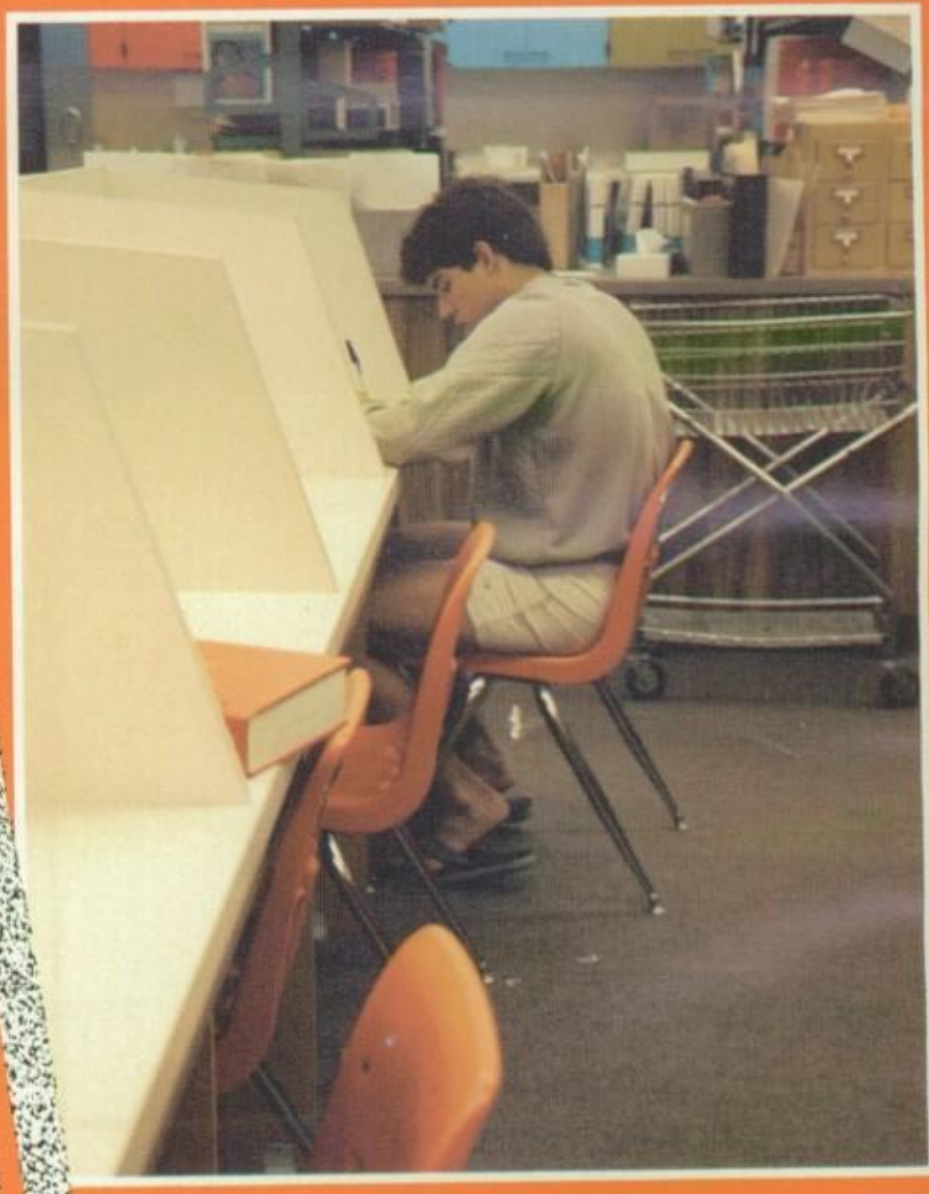
Finding A Place

A unique characteristic of SPHS is its diversity. Many ethnic groups are represented as well as people with vastly different personalities. Finding a place to fit in wasn't hard for the Tigers. Groups of friends usually spent most of their free time together during the day, often at the same place on campus. Their "hangouts" were soon informally designed as their own.

The most popular hangout was the Cafeteria/Tiger Patio area where a good number of students spent their brunch and lunch. The rest of the student body dispersed into the other parts of campus, such as the auditorium steps or behind the Girls' Gym. In this way, everyone literally "found his place to fit" into the puzzle that makes up SPHS.



1. Alejandra Gonzalez-Pacheco and Laura Hollcraft lunch at their typical spot in Baird's patio.
2. Chih-Fen Lee tries to find privacy by the science building.
3. Students camp out during lunch in an unusual spot between lockers.
4. Ken McCarthy goes to the library to be alone.
5. Jana Bunn finds space around her in which to get organized.
6. Caitlin Sasser finds solitude on the Tiger Patio.

Taking Time Out

Often during the year there came moments when Tigers were simply "burned-out" from the business of their everyday lives. Students became edgy or over-stressed, especially during Finals Week. So, they were in great need of a break. What did Tigers do to relax?

Tom Schiller, junior: "I listen to music."

Kathy Nguyen, senior: "I go to the beach and listen to the waves."

1. Senior Karen Cross demonstrates her latest modeling pose.
2. Friends Ashley Cunningham and Jennifer Werner strike a cute pose for the camera.
3. James Jenson and Alane Chang enjoy a good laugh during lunch.
4. Lorena Liberman doesn't seem to like the COPA photographer who took her picture.
5. Brett Lyda's fans help him celebrate his birthday.
6. Alan Gornick and Mike Garcia listen to their favorite music.

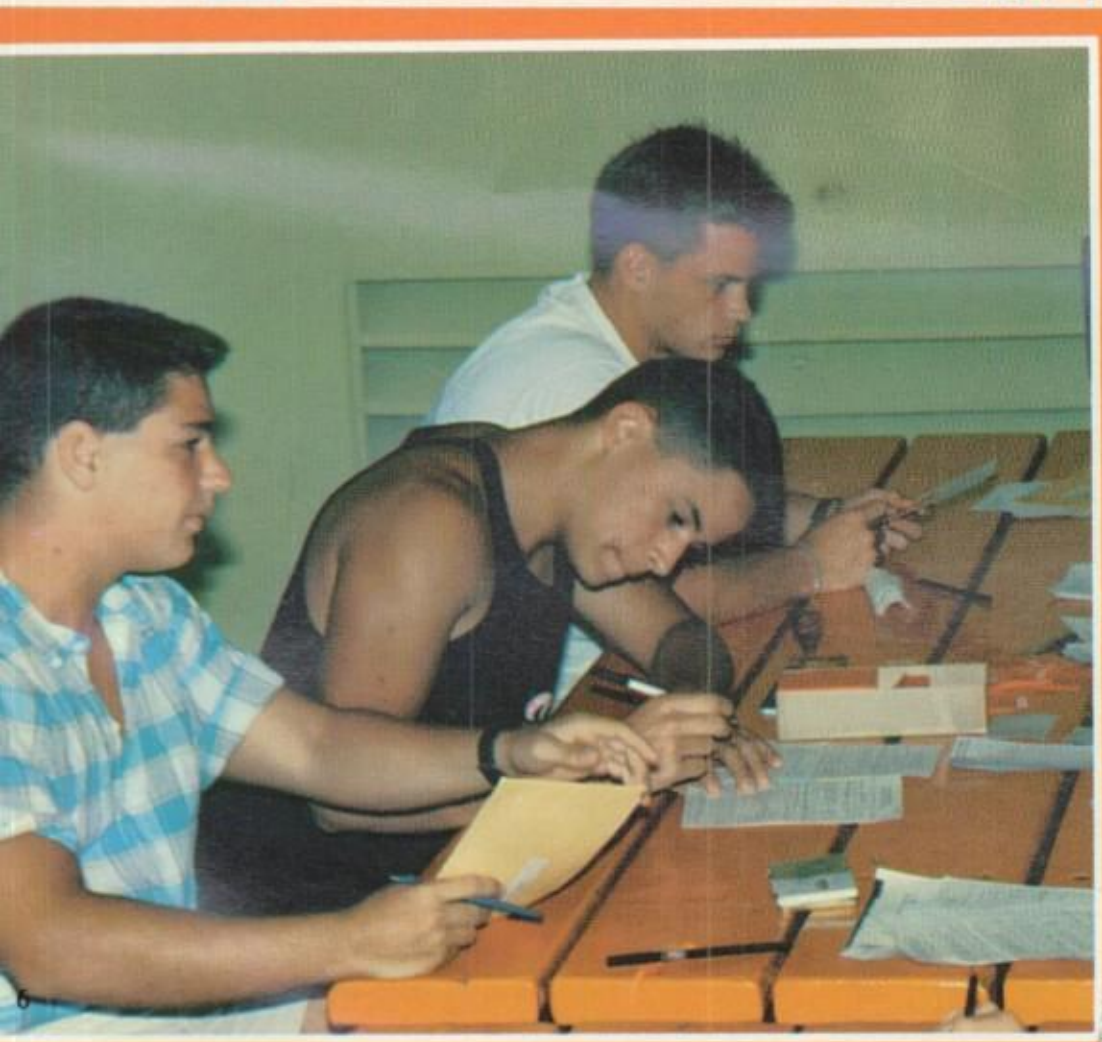
Of The Puzzle



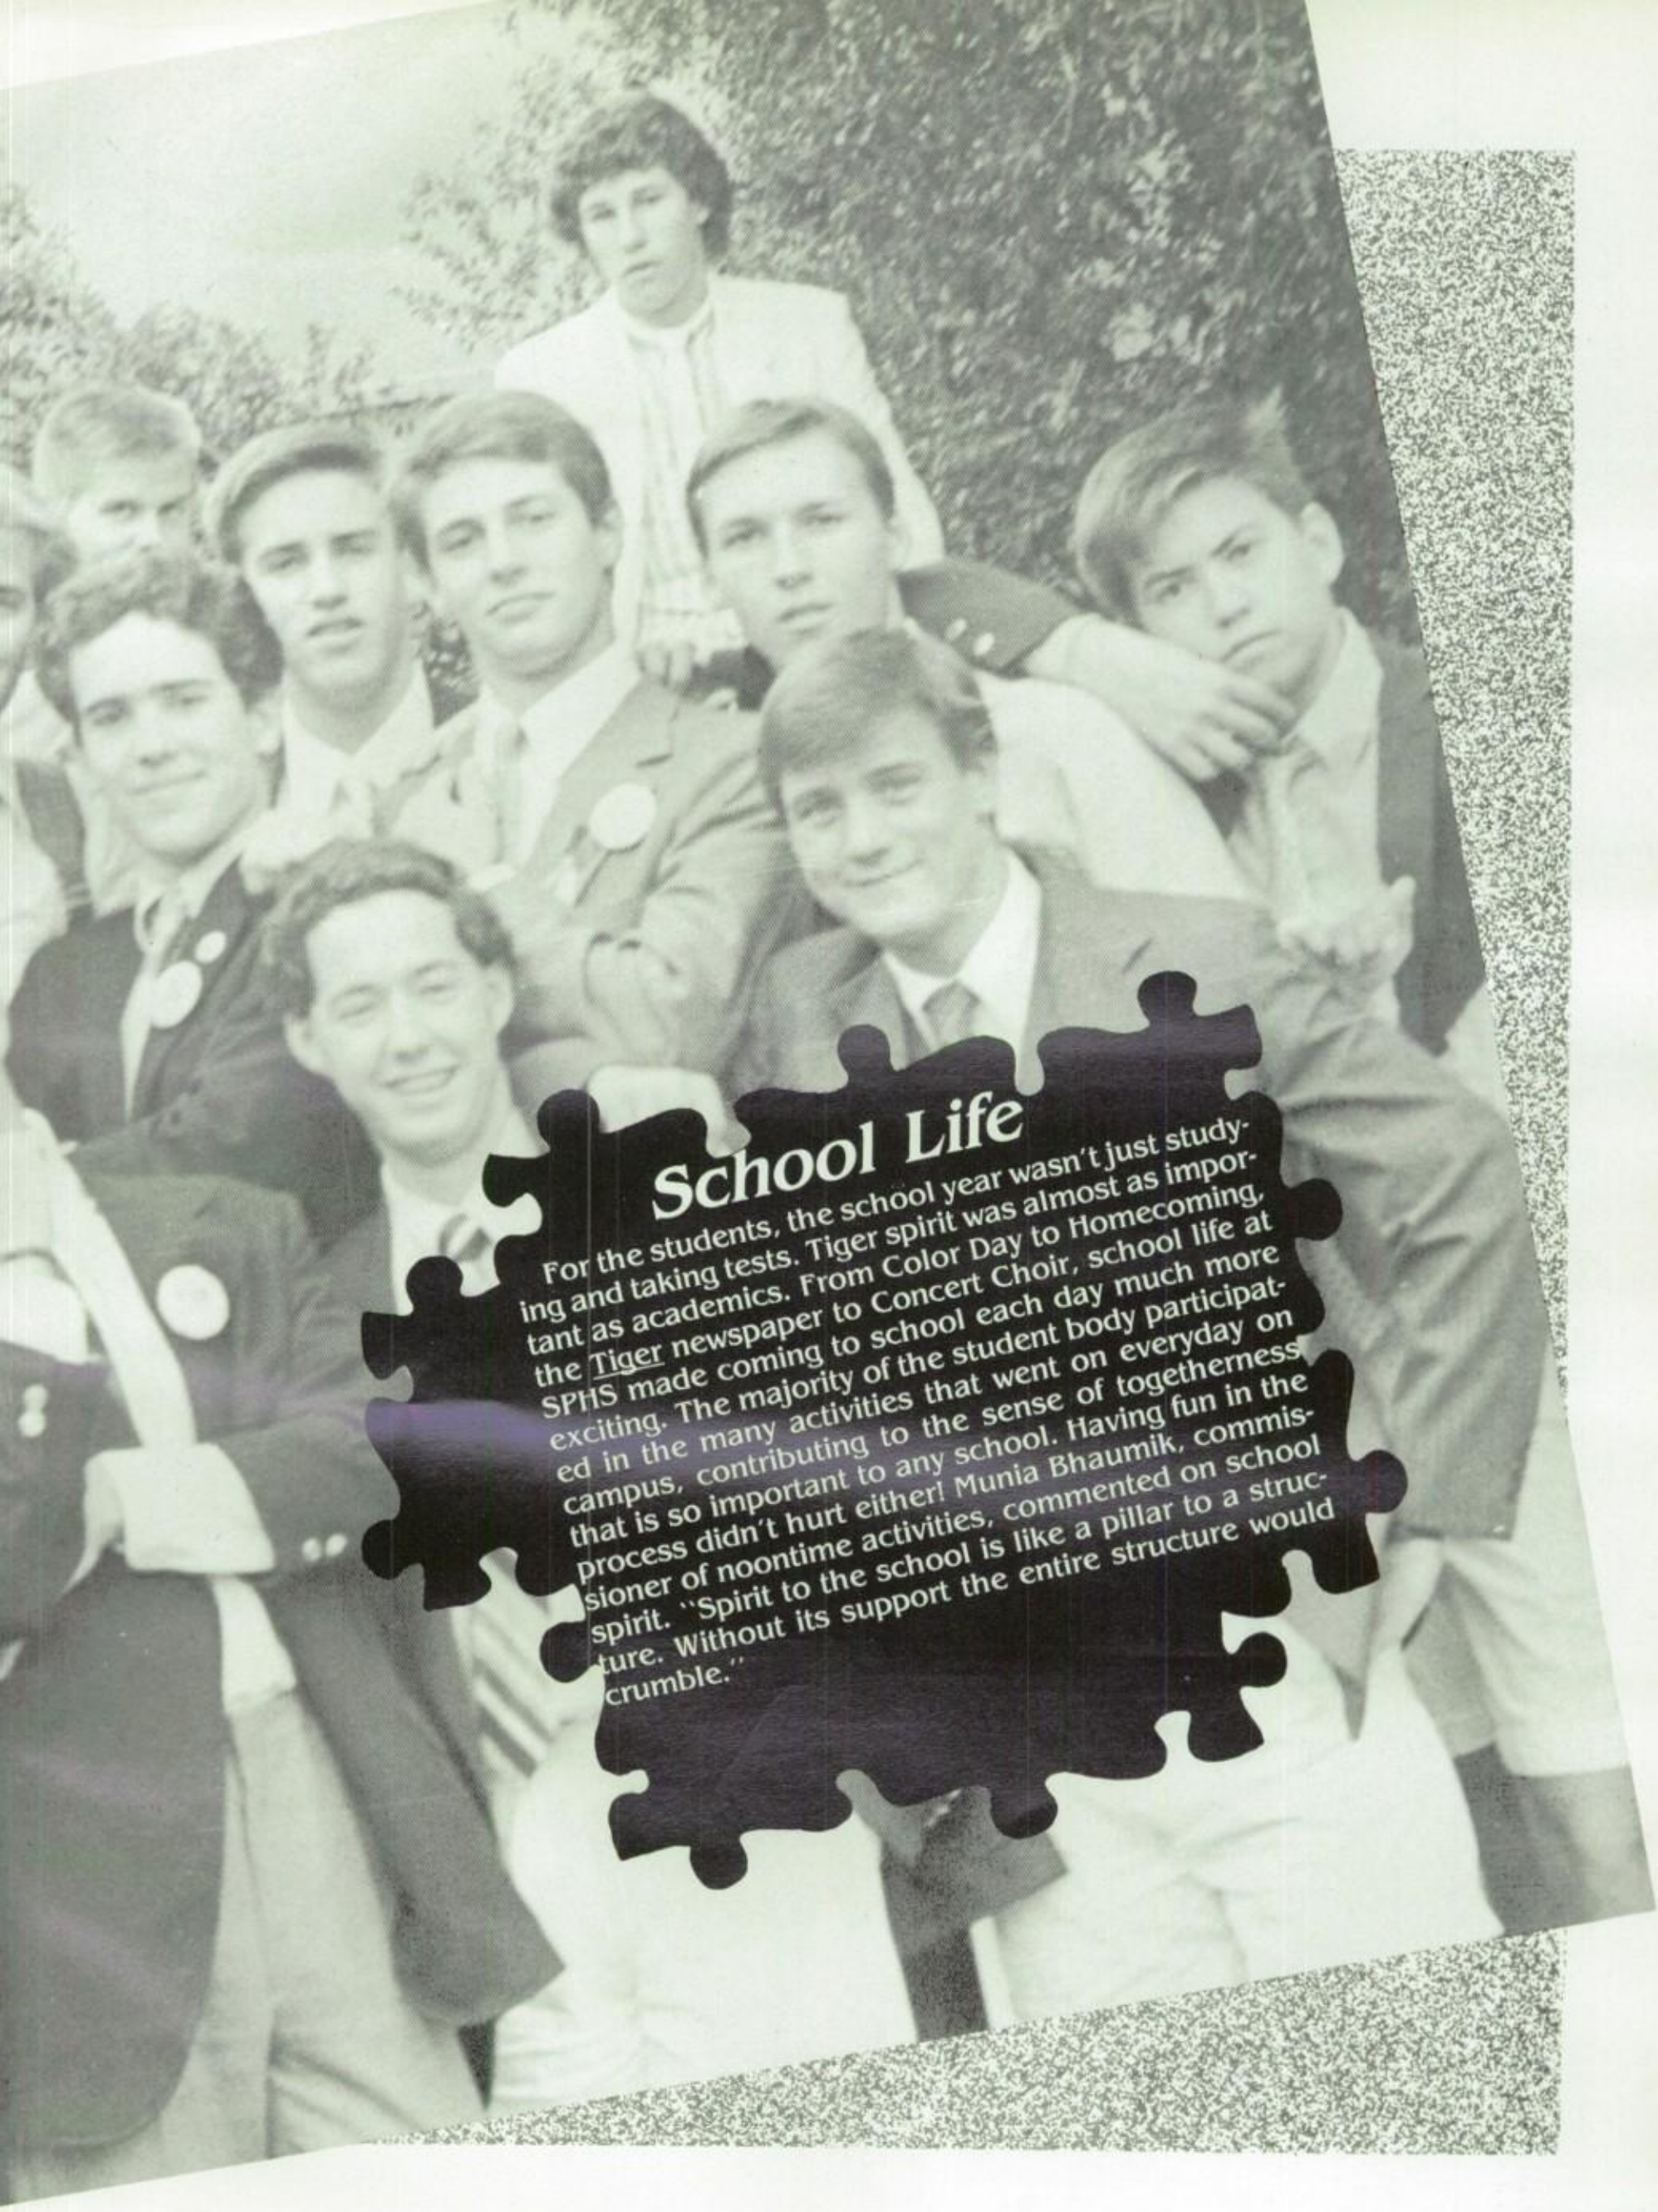
The 1987-1988 school year began, not September 8, but at registration on August 26 and 27. The realization of school starting finally hit the students as they returned to the high school. The atmosphere ranged from disappointment at summer ending to excitement and eagerness felt by the incoming freshmen.

COPA and Leadership again helped in the annual events of registration. The two groups could be seen laminating I.D. cards, helping Mrs. Ikkanda with COPA/SAC sales, or, like Pep, selling refreshments to the students who were waiting in various lines to receive their class schedules.

Ms. van Tamelen experienced her first days as the new counselor as she, Mrs. Salardino, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Geidt struggled with the abundance of programs that had been unfortunate victims of the school's computer.

Altogether, the two days of registration were successful in converting summer beach bums back into students ready to begin yet another year at SPHS.

1. Senior Joey Galloway awaits as Mrs. Van Cleve looks for his schedule.
2. Julie Weng helps put together SAC cards.
3. Senior Cynthia Thompson smiles for her senior I. D. picture.
4. COPA staff members take time out to pose for a picture.
5. Peter Worth and Peter Yee use their sparkling personalities to encourage people to buy popsicles to support the junior class.
6. Juniors Dave Simmons, Victor Martinez and Kevin Briggs go through the various registration stages.



School Life

For the students, the school year wasn't just studying and taking tests. Tiger spirit was almost as important as academics. From Color Day to Homecoming, the Tiger newspaper to Concert Choir, school life at SPHS made coming to school each day much more exciting. The majority of the student body participated in the many activities that went on everyday on campus, contributing to the sense of togetherness that is so important to any school. Having fun in the process didn't hurt either! Munia Bhaumik, commissioner of noontime activities, commented on school spirit. "Spirit to the school is like a pillar to a structure. Without its support the entire structure would crumble."

Go Back To Sleep!

With the start of school on September 8 came the usual routine for SPHS students. After hearing their alarm clocks ring ... for five minutes, they threw their lifeless bodies into the shower. Then, after eating Wheaties for breakfast, they somehow reached the campus by 8:00 a.m. Many of these students still weren't really awake though. They roamed the campus aimlessly with mouths opened and eyes closed. It was the first week of school and no one could expect to find every student full of life. As the year progressed, many, though not all, of the SPHS zombies diminished. One could usually identify those remaining tired souls in first and second period! Other sleep-needy students just took the easy way out and stayed home.

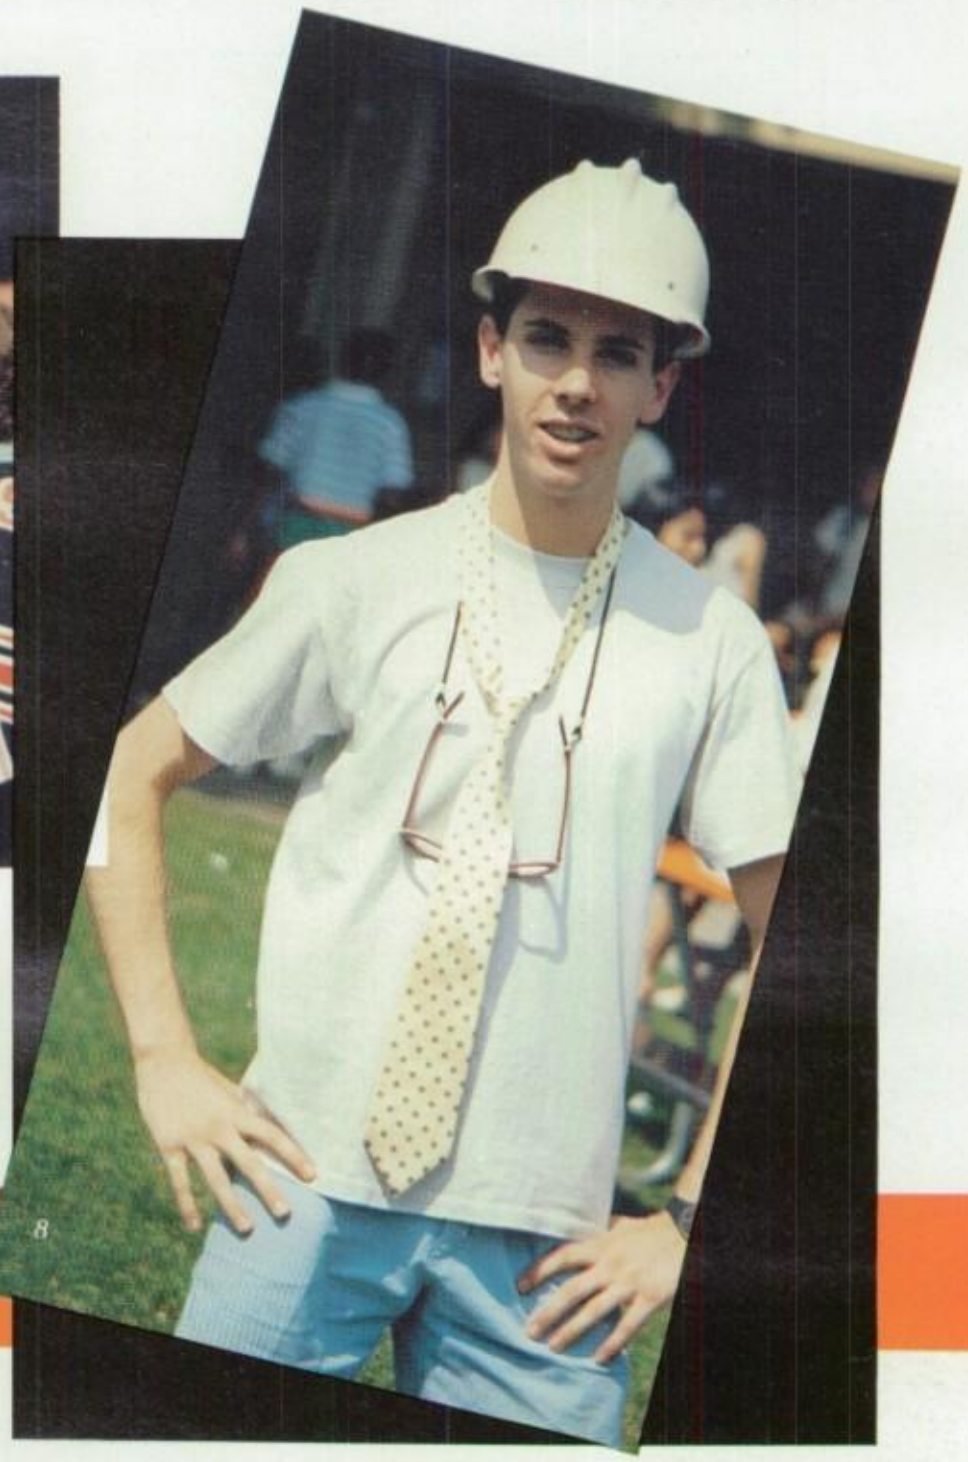
Glasses And Hats With Class



Josh Pruett demonstrates his sleepiness while still being a fashion statement.
Natasha Schorling doesn't understand an assignment and could care less.
Josh Durfee sleeps in 1'st period, probably from having a strenuous workout the night before.
Jill Moses dreams of being stranded on an island with 1000 males.
Chip Edwards dreams of the millions he'll make in the future.
Mike Hemingway demonstrates his camera shyness while Robert Lewis tries to look threatening on Hat and Glasses Day.
Ben Pratt has the Spanish look while looking for a place to sit.
Jeff Gildersleeve shows SPHS that he plans to be a construction worker in the future.

Hat and Glasses Day this year had a tough act to follow. It took place the day after October 1's earthquake. As a result, many students forgot to wear their favorite hat and glasses combination. Others were probably still shook by the earthquake.

Nevertheless, many students participated. Different types of hats prevailed including straw, cowboy, and sombreros. These hats were worn with some very outraqeous glasses. Everything from Tom Cruise Ray Bans to Mickey Mouse glasses appeared on the faces of spirited students. The combination resulted in some strange and unusual looking characters on the SPHS campus. This was a pleasant sight to see though, for it helped to alleviate the tension from the previous day and brought a "quake" of excitement to the school.

Cause You've Got A Friend

SPHS raises a certain breed of people. This year, the school's small size created a closeness among the students. Whether someone had just flunked a test, gotten into a fight, or said "Hi" to the one he or she secretly admired, it felt great to look around a crowd and spot the special faces that always brought comfort. That's what friends were all about. One could always see different groups scattered about SPHS. From the cafeteria, Tiger Patio, and Office area, to the library and Girls' field, one could see friends sharing secrets and good times. These friends, who knew they must someday depart, gave each other something valuable and unforgettable, a piece of their heart. Senior Kristen McGibbons stated, "I'll never have friends like the ones I had in High School," and then gave a little sniffle.

4. Jenny Butcher, Darlet Yee, Julie Bengston, Catie Donavon, Kristin McGibbons, Tracie Jeng, and Jill Moses pose to be Barbizon models.
5. Nicole Floriz, Tina Bengtson, and Marnie Purciel show that freshman have friends too.
6. Michelle Roco holds a rose to symbolize a no thorn relationship with her pal Jenny Levenson.
7. Mandy Pratt and Stacey Leonard look shocked at the sight of the photographer.
8. Teresa Chan and Aaron Britt show they've just brushed with Close Up and are ready for the encounter.
9. David Salardino and Leigh Limon smile while pondering their futures.
10. Tracie Jeng hits James Satragni for looking at another girl.
11. Phil Koorn and Chalon Barnett make a picture perfect couple.
12. Darlet Yee and Jeremy Taylor show off their tongues.

An Attack Of Orange And Black

To those who never knew of it, Color Day was almost scarey. Thousands of students, dressed outrageously in school colors, roamed the campus. It looked as if our school had been attacked by an orange and black army. Students with orange and black hair and faces wore everything from togas and caveman outfits to polka dotted shorts. One group of friends even dressed up as actual tigers with chains and leashes.

The Color Day Assembly this year was threatened to be cancelled if the students were too wild. This did not stop anyone from being loud and rowdy though. As a result, it was decided that next year's assembly would be a double one. Despite the changes, no one seemed to be affected, and the Tiger Spirit prevailed with smiling faces everywhere.

1. Ashley Cunningham and Julie Bengtson dress up as tough cavewomen who like to hold big bones.
2. Karen Frederick shows off her new hairdo on Color Day.
3. Mark Withers and Al Hart show off their figures and their cheerleading skills at the Color Day Assembly.
4. Cayley Louie, Doug Draper, Jeff Nott, and Mike Girvigian drape themselves in togas for the Roman look.
5. Annie Rees and Heather Tolles demonstrate the latest Color Day fashions.
6. Sexy senior french maids take a break from their dirty work.
7. Jim Gibbs lets everyone see he's a real animal.
8. Krisin Gibbs, Jasa Schumacher, and Buffi Tharpe show their spirit by wearing fancy clothes.
9. Junior girls get involved by making a Color Day pyramid.

Lunchtime Lunacies

The bell rings ... doors swing open and bodies rush off campus or out of class to form lines at the food vendors, speed lines, hot lunch lines, and coke machines. What time is it? LUNCH! It's time for SPHS Tigers to relax.

Lunch was a popular time for activities and class competitions, such as the spontaneous melodrama and the lip-sync performances. This year the first annual Leadership verses Pep competition also took place.

"It was a lot of fun and even though it created a rivalry between Leadership (who won) and Pep, it helped to unite the school," said Robert Lewis, Commissioner of Publicity.

Lunch was also a popular meeting time for various clubs who planned upcoming events.

9. Erik Hamasaki shows off his muscles while Jimmy Sheridan and James Satragni prefer to eat their sandwiches.

Pep With Pazazz

Pep with pazazz. That's how it should be and exactly how it was. This year our school never encountered a "dead" cheerleader. Instead, we saw Pep full of life, spirit, and energy. All members were chosen by a panel of judges rather than by the usual ballot system. The ones who were chosen felt their hard work and endless worry had paid off. Head Song Girl, Melissa Chang, stated, "I was ecstatic after being chosen. I felt like I'd won the lottery."

After being chosen though, Pep members weren't aware of the hard work that lay ahead. They had numerous worries from summer practices and fundraisers to the sizing of their uniforms.

Nevertheless, by the beginning of school, Pep was on its feet cheering on athletic teams and showing new moves in the pep rallies. All the long hours of work and soreness had paid off. Jana Bunn, Commissioner of Pep, stated, "I'm so proud of Pep. They have done such a great job."

4. A sheik student leads a parade of Arabian children during the Homecoming halftime.
5. The band marches by to perform for the rowdy crowd.

The South Pasadena Homecoming week was filled with the many sights and sounds which seemed much like an old-fashioned carnival. The bright colors and the infectious laughter of the Homecoming picnic seemed to bring a new dimension of satisfaction to the student body. Sno-cones and cotton candy added to the excitement.

An assortment of activities delighted students, such as a dunking booth, a dart game, and a rambunctious DJ from KROQ playing the latest hits. SP students also had the opportunity to test their physical prowess by attempting to ring a bell with a mallet.

Despite SP's narrow loss to San Marino at the Homecoming game, students still enjoyed the half-time show and end-of-game fireworks. The half-time show moved along with the music of the marching band, capturing the audiences' eyes as three camels and an elephant tromped out across the track. The fireworks trumpeted the finale of a stupendous Homecoming week.

It was a special day for South Pasadena when the royalty of Homecoming week was finally unveiled. The entire school stood in unified reverence of the Homecoming queen and princesses. As queen Ashley Cunningham and Senior Princesses Tracie Jeng and Kristin McGibbons ascended to their seats, the students filled the auditorium with applause and a standing ovation.

The other classes also brought forth their dignity with Junior Princess Kristen Gibbs, Sophomore Princess Erin Weaver, and Freshman Princess Kim Ard. Pep delivered its salute to the royal court by performing spirited cheers and routines.

Banding Together In Harmony

South Pasadena High School was represented in many ways, but none matched the artistic nature of the Marching Band. The Marching Band, symbolizing the spirit of SPHS, provided inspiration musically any time the school needed a lift. Whether at assemblies or football games, the band wove patterns of music sure to excite the students.

Under the tireless direction of Mr. Marvin Neumann, the Marching Band trudged through rain, scorching heat, mud, and puddles as they practiced early mornings for upcoming performances. Yet, the members of the band stayed dedicated and the quality of their playing was always good. As the SPHS Marching Band finished the year, its success could be heard ringing in students' ears.

Orchestrating Euphony

This year, Orchestra produced a euphony of sounds. Sweet tunes and melodies filled the air at SPHS musical events. This was quite an accomplishment for a group organized just two years ago. Orchestra was directed by Mr. Marvin Neumann and consisted of twenty-four students playing instruments ranging from flutes to violins. It was largely made up of freshmen whose talents were greatly appreciated.

Orchestra was divided into two groups this year: beginner and advanced. The beginners practiced second period and the advanced group during third. This division didn't upset Orchestra's performance but instead enhanced it. The result was a great Christmas and Spring concert. Lastly, a highlight in Orchestra's year was a trip to see the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

Jazzy Tunes

A crashing crescendo of trumpet and trombone. A combination of syncopation and irregular beats. A shrill cry of ringing guitar strings.

Then, as the lights were raised and the last note faded away, the SPHS Jazz Band stood up to thunderous applause.

The SPHS Jazz Band continued a legacy of excellence in performance which has been ongoing since the group's beginning. This elite group, with Mr. Marvin Neumann as its director, put together a number of performances for both the community and SP students. Often, many students considered the Jazz Band as the highlight of their assemblies. For many students, it was the ultimate in musical experience.

5. Robert Swarner smiles after receiving a compliment on his great performance.

Concert Choir Never Tires

Like wandering minstrels, the South Pasadena Concert Choir traveled far and near to dazzle their audiences with choral music. Performing at places such as the LA County Fair and Disneyland, the Concert Choir provided musical enjoyment with nine wide selections of songs including simple folk melodies to grandiose productions.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Marybeth Mayzak, Concert Choir brought a happy note to their continuing legacy of excellence. Without missing a beat, the SP Concert Choir left more than just tunes for us to remember them by.

2. Concert Choir members take a break after singing at the County Fair.
3. Kevin Kohler, Mrs. Mayzak, Becky Butcher, and others, practice their music outdoors.

Masterful Madrigals

This year Madrigals, a small performing group that sang jazz-type music, sent goosebumps down the spines of its many listeners. That was quite an accomplishment for a group who practiced during zero-period. It was headed by Mrs. Marybeth Mayzak and all members had to audition before being accepted to this prestigious group. Madrigals mainly consisted of seniors and juniors but also included a few sophomores.

Madrigals performed in many places and for many groups this year including the Renaissance Faire, Knott's Berry Farm, Community Organizations, and at Jazz Night. Also, three weeks before its Christmas performance, all members were required to practice an extra sixty hours. Asked about the group's overall performance, Madrigal Tim Fox said, "Everything is fine until Bill Flanders tries to sing."

1. Stephano Park fixes his glasses which have fallen off from all the excitement in Madrigals.
2. Madrigals sit and listen to the sounds of music.
3. The 1987-1988 SPHS Madrigals.

Colorful Commissioners

Without Commission this year, many of the SPHS activities would have gone haywire. Thanks to the ten energetic, hard-working leaders who formed the Commission, most of the school's events went smoothly. Among the many Commission activities that benefited the school were the Blood Drive, Homecoming festivities, and dances. Darlet Yee, Commissioner General, felt there "was not enough time for all the work to be done."

This year the Commission was headed by Mrs. Gage Jones and met during 4th period. It was a very special class since everyone supported one another when difficult assignments set in. Tom Rogers, Commissioner of Finance, felt that this year's Commission was closer than those of previous years. "We not only work together 4th period but spend time together outside of school," he said. "That's why we work even better together. In a single word he described the key to Commission's success, "teamwork."

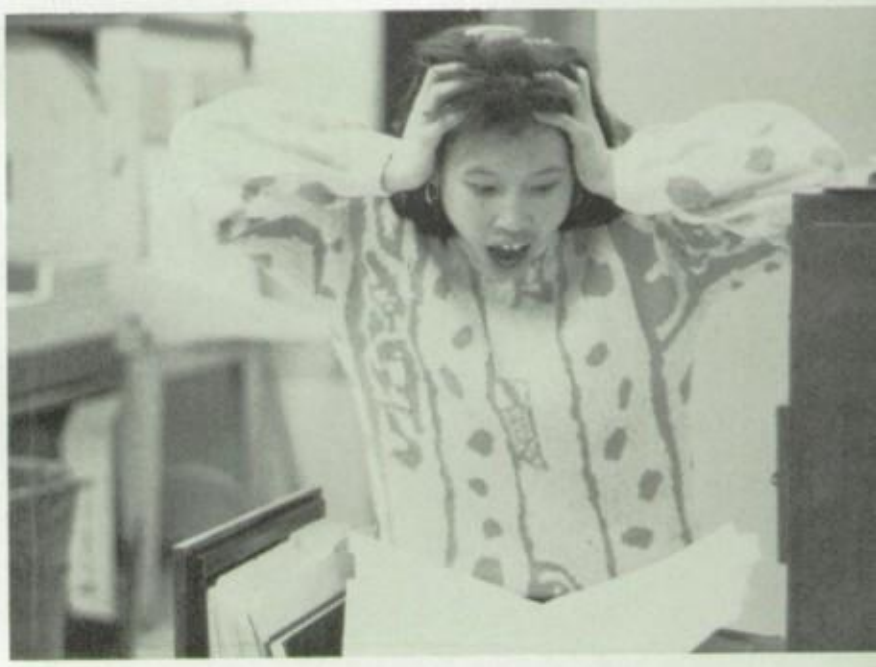
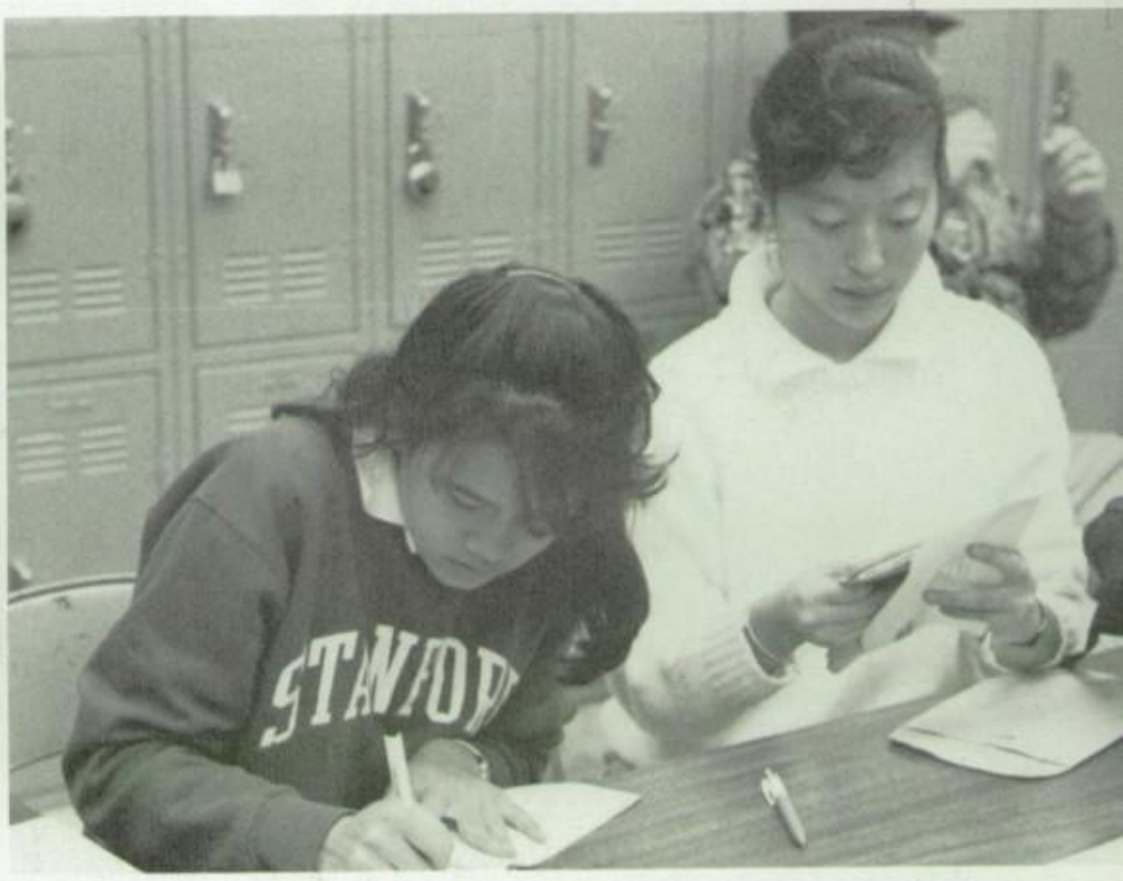
Tactful Tiger

About once every three weeks, SPHS students received a copy of the school newspaper the Tiger. The Tiger informed students of school events, student opinions, and controversial issues of student interest.

Tiger staff members worked hard to research and write stories, design layouts, and take pictures under Advisor Bruce Glenn. They clipped ads, organized accounts, and worked on a computer which they learned to hate. The computer often bombed a whole page or section before a major deadline.

Irene Tang, Editor-in-Chief of the Tiger, said, "It's been a tough year. It always seems as if the Tiger could use more support." Robert Lewis said, "Tiger is looking much better because we're organized. I'm excited about it."





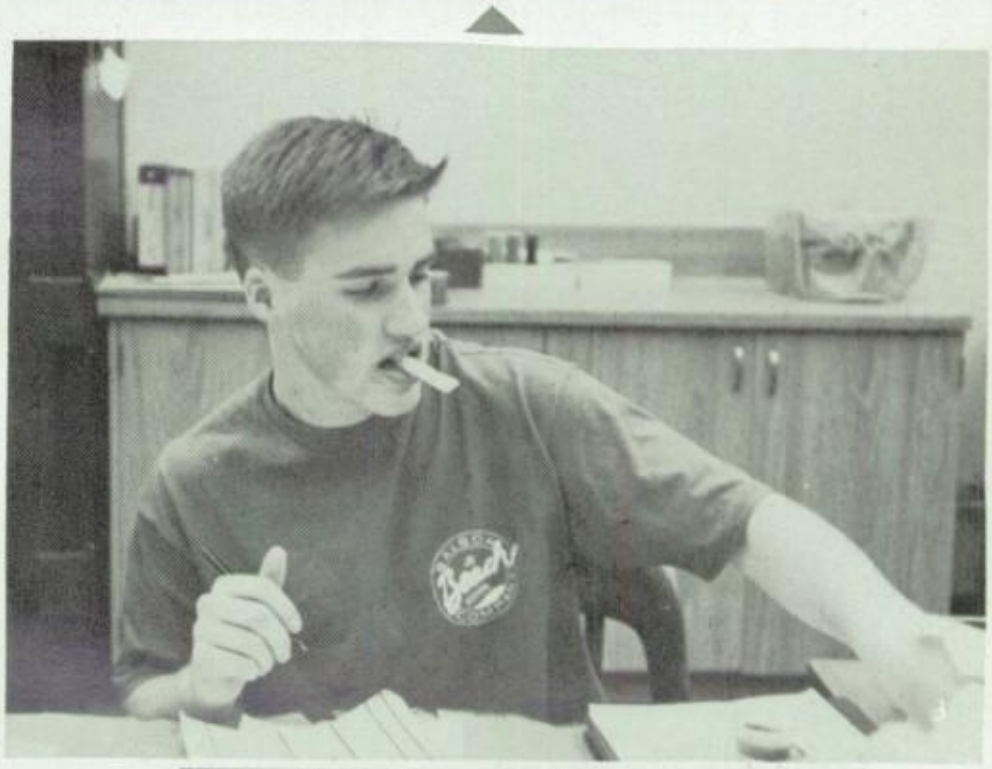
1. Jeanette Chung finds a hairy spider in the Tiger files. 2. Irene Tang tells Bob Lewis, for the hundredth time, that he cannot use profanity in his articles. 3. Kathy Nguyen and Irene Tang prepare the Tiger with TLC. 4. Kathy Nguyen smiles since her deadline is over. 5. 1987-88 Tiger members are: Minh Bui, Peter Yee, Wes Johnston, Darlet Yee, Bob Lewis, Susan Min, Stanley Ng, Irene Tang, Jeanette Chung, Kathy Nguyen, and Essa Hu.

Sizzling Student Bank

The SPHS Student Bank sizzled with action this year. It was responsible for handling all money transactions of the student body. It handled club accounts, sport accounts, and student reimbursements. Student Bank met fifth period and as a major change, moved from room 13A to room 29A.

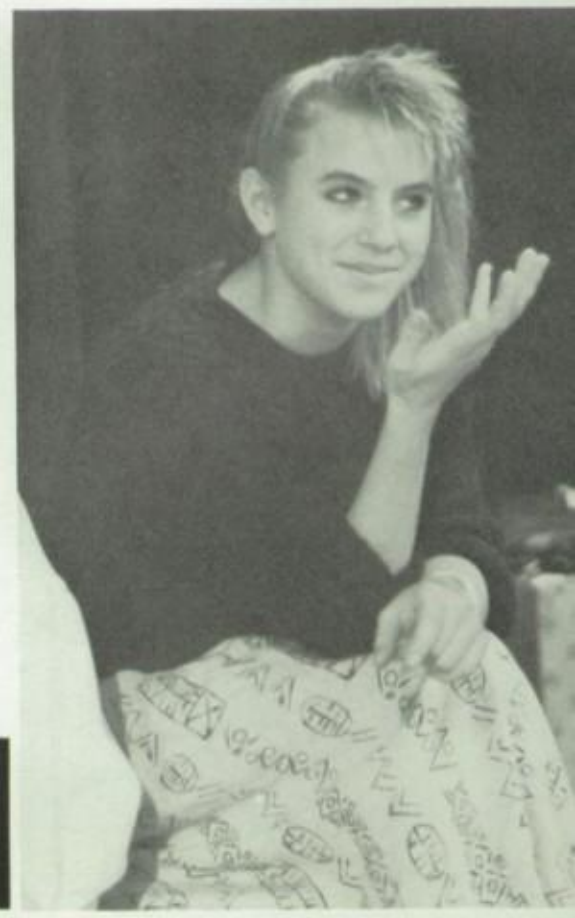
The Student Bank consisted of seven members who performed numerous tasks. These members made deposits, reconciled bank statements, processed checks, recorded data, and performed other student services. They worked quite diligently and economically budgeted their time to make sure their work was completed.

Tommy Rogers, commissioner of finance, said, "Mrs. Ikkanda never gives us a rest. But I like it." Jeff Gildersleeve, in a very proud, cool manner, was happy to say, "The Student Bank is now air-conditioned."



1. Ivan Choi and always happy Jeff Gildersleeve, relax after finishing a hard month's work.
2. The 1987-88 Student Bank members, Rachel Wackerman, Jeff Gildersleeve, Heidi Zee, Ivan Choi, Tommy Rogers, and Mrs. Ikkanda, are one big happy family.
3. Tommy Rogers gives his brain french fry energy to calculate a club account.
4. Heidi Zee and Rachel Wackerman study the files of some bank statements.

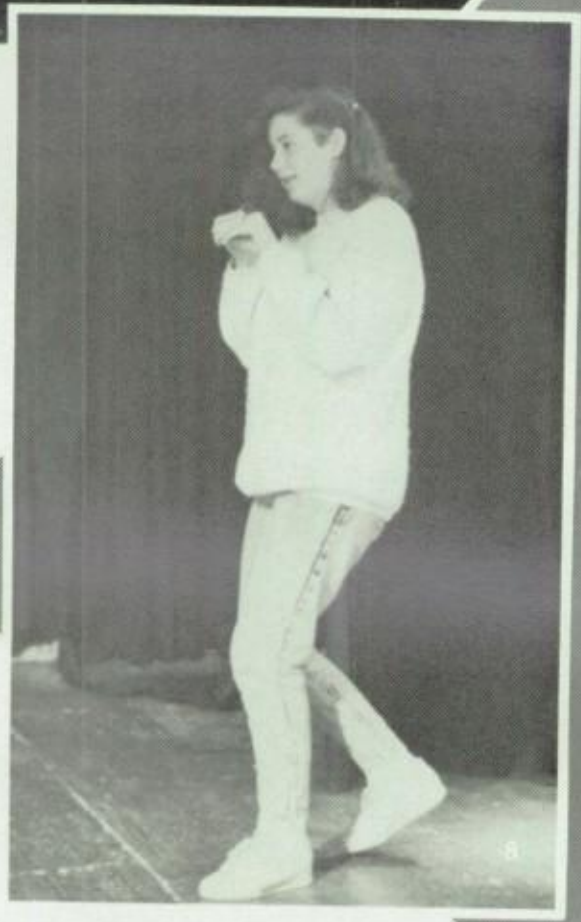
Delightful Drama



1. Annie Rees, Ms. Carol Jones, and Steve Tully demonstrate faces of delight.
2. Krista Daniel is a specialist explaining bone transplants.
3. Tina Riddells is a doctor describing a heart operation.
4. Fifth period drama poses as a mean group of hoodlums.
5. James Robinson, Tina Riddells, and Melinda Tada listen closely to some very intense dialogue.
6. Drama members pretend to be a mechanical, human machine.
7. Melinda Tada is an astronaut describing her moon experiences.
8. Danielle Zahm pretends to be Peter Cottontail.
9. Shanice Wilson shows everyone she can dance.
10. Steve Tully is a marathon runner stretching before a meet.
11. Michelle Roco has trouble concentrating on drama activities.

This year the drama department had the advantage of having a new advisor, Ms. Carol Jones. She brought new ideas and flourishing knowledge to drama. Class warm-up exercises such as "Freeze" and "The Human Machine" were introduced to the drama students. During 4th or 5th period, one could see students moving their bodies in creative, abnormal manners or making crazy facial expressions.

Drama's first production of the year, "A Christmas Carol," received praises from the student body. "I was impressed at the extreme touch of professionalism," remarked senior Billy Calles. The drama department also put a lot of effort into their spring performance. Overall, drama took a lot of time and effort to learn the techniques of dramatization. Ms. Jones' creative energy, combined with the eagerness of her students to learn, made drama an exciting, fresh experience.



Exhilarating X-mas Dance

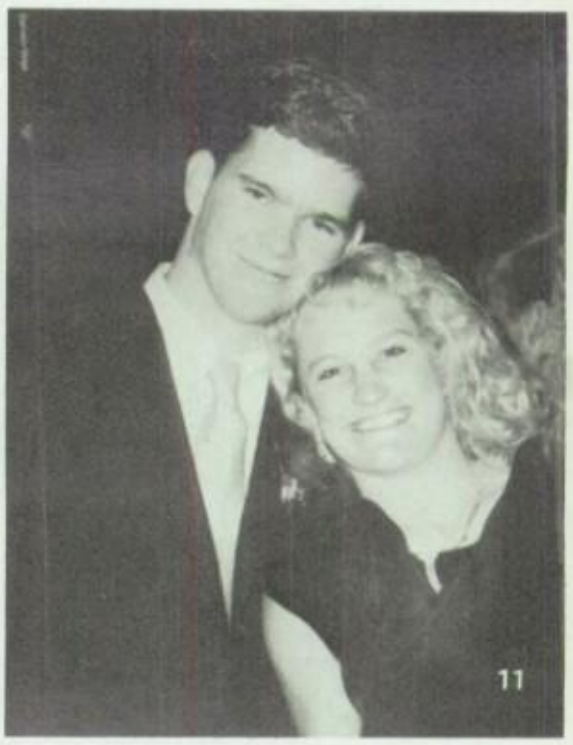
Crazy. Delirious. Engergetic. Vivacious. These adjectives describe this year's SPHS Christmas Dance. The Christmas Dance wasn't decked with traditional customs in 1987. Instead it was held at a night club disco called Marilyn's Backstreet. All couples entering the disco were checked at the door by bouncers for any items that could prove dangerous. Inside the club, all were amazed to see a lively dance floor with crazy lights, a stage, and a big disco ball in the ceiling. Finally, when the music was combined with the surroundings, the effect was an upbeat, wild Christmas Dance much different from the previous ones.

Most couples were pleased with this year's Christmas Dance. Erik Hamasaki remarked, "Jimmy Sheridan really got down. That boy stole the show." Kristin McGibbons, organizer of the dance, said, "Everyone had a blast. People were pumping and grinding to the beat of the music everywhere!"



1. Mark Withers asks Catie Donovan to waltz.
2. Gil Villanueva is pleased to have two women, Nicole Tyler and Ann Rees, by his side.
3. Marcella Wong smiles at the camera while doing Janet Jackson moves.
4. Chris Tang sees his beautiful date.
5. Kathy Nguyen and John Tai are lost in Christmas enchantment.
6. Valerie Tyler is just so pleased that everyone is having a good time.
7. Kristin McGibbons and Doug McCrary are stuck together with crazy glue.
8. Chris Ryan has the best night of his life, dancing with gorgeous Jill Moses.
9. Billy Calles proposes to his date Dioni Rovello, and is pleased with her answer.
10. Melissa Chang, Joelle Johnson, and Staci Chambers say "Forget our dates," to take a picture.
11. Jimmy Sheridan hopes all the fun with Jana Bunn will continue after the dance.
12. Toby Knudsen and Shelly Markel are exhilarated to be reunited.
13. Ingrid Meyer and Steve Hawkins proudly pose before burning up the dance floor.

Boy's Homecoming Hoopla

Boy's Homecoming was an exciting event this year. It began when the Royal Court was kidnapped by 'S' club members and taken to breakfast on a traffic island in the middle of Fair Oaks Avenue. Later, it was celebrated with an assembly and the crowning of the king.

The assembly began with music and routines from the cheerleaders. Next came the procession of the Royal Court, led by Freshman prince, Casey McCann, Sophomore prince, Charlie Setzler and Junior prince Julius Young. Finally came seniors Al Hart, Jimmy Sheridan, and Josh Durfee all in the running to be crowned king of S.P.H.S. Then, the auditorium was filled with suspense as the student body waited the crowning of its king. Soon after, Dana Bozek relieved the tension by setting the glorious crown on the head of Josh Durfee, who reacted by crossing his eyes in utter amazement.

After the crowning, the Royal Court was taken to their seats and treated with routines performed by the Flag Girls and Song Girls. Josh Durfee, when asked how it felt to be king of S.P.H.S. for a day replied, "I 'likesed' it"

Exciting Exchanges

They came from afar, from different countries, and from entirely different cultures. They came to a place well-known and talked about, to live and to learn. They came to America, to South Pasadena, to SPHS, from Sweden, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Germany, and Australia. They were our exchange students, Christian Aberg, Christian Gorfer, Jeanine Evers, Inke Dennert, and Kylie Burrough.

SPHS was fortunate to be home to these exchange students. These special students taught SPHS about their cultures while SPHS taught them about American culture. The result education at its finest, and memories to last an entire lifetime.

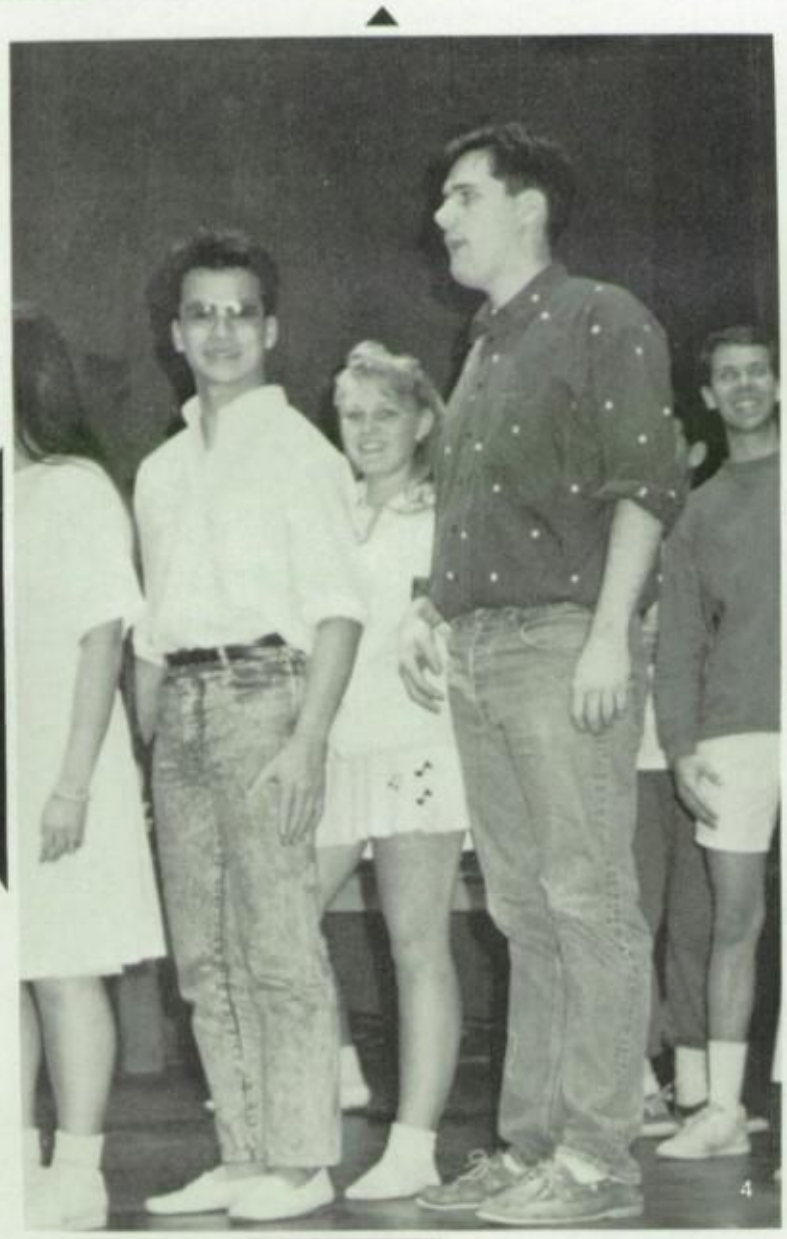
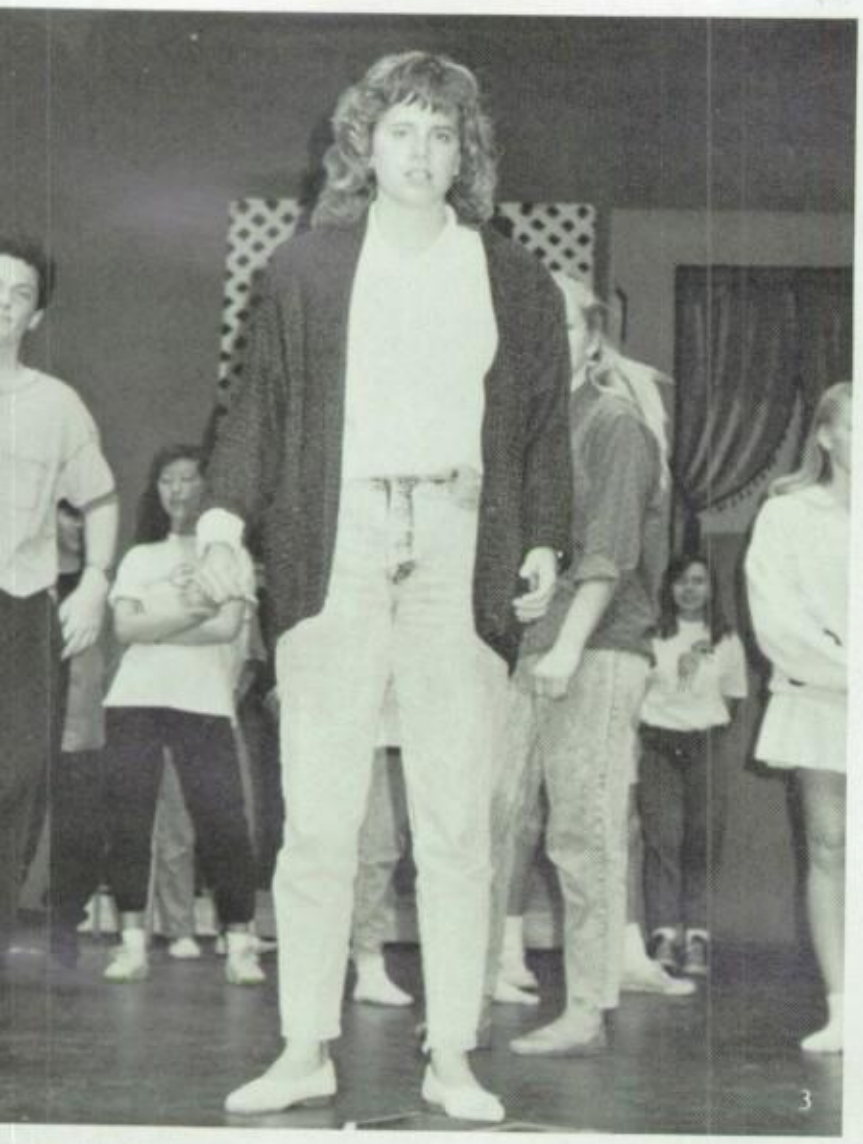
Presenting Pajama Game



This year, the SPHS Fine Arts Department chose "The Pajama Game" for the 1988 spring musical. The play was based on Richard Bissel's novel, "Seven and a Half-Cents" and concerned a conflict between the factory union and the management of a pajama factory, located in a small, midwestern town. Director Carol Jones, SPHS drama teacher, felt it was the best choice not only because of the work involved, but also for financial reasons.

The cast of "Pajama Game," including the leads, Bill Flanders, Jenny Butcher, Pat Sternal, and Julie Whitman, was required to practice about twenty hours a week for six weeks. Many times they gave up their Saturdays for rehearsal or stayed up all hours of the night learning their lines. Although lots of work was involved, Mrs. Jones said, "There was lots of energy when we practiced."

Jenny Butcher, when asked how it felt to be a lead, said, "I feel good inside because for three years I worked my way up, and now I'm finally being rewarded." Julie Whitman's reply to the same question was a little different. She said, "I couldn't believe it. I only asked for a small part!"



1. Sid Sorokin, played by Bill Flanders, asks Babe Williams, played by Jenny Butcher, out on a date.
2. Poopsie, played by Joelle Johnson, cries on the shoulder of Jenny Butcher.
3. Mable, played by Melissa Thomas, looks dumbfounded.
4. Pat Sternal as Hines, Julie Whitman as Gladys, and Boyet as Mr. Hassler, all dance to the number "This is a Once a Year Day."
5. The cast of the "Pajama Game" dance in a rehearsal.
6. Members of the cast of the "Pajama Game" practice their lines.
7. Jenny Butcher dances and sings in the number, "I'm Not At All In Love."
8. Kevin Kohler, Joelle Johnson, and Julie Whitman take a break from their rigorous rehearsal.

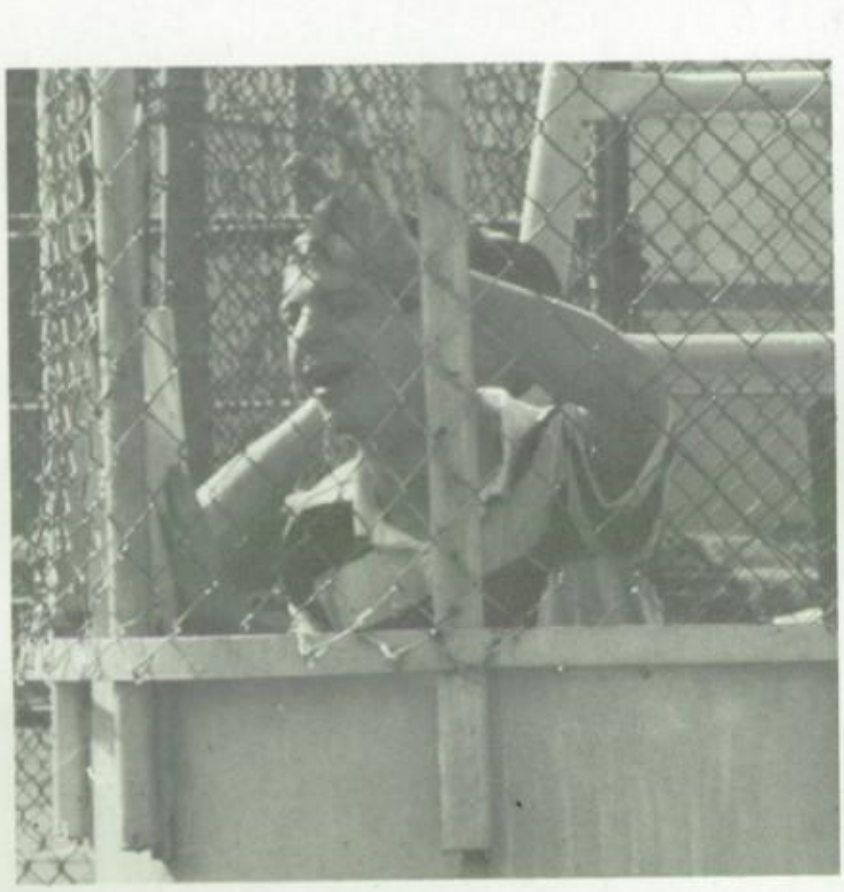
Clubs

School clubs became a vital piece of the puzzle for many students. Because they were involved deeply in certain classes or areas of interest, such as Spanish, students joined the Spanish Club to obtain a greater understanding of the culture. Others found debating or peace to be their niche. Nevertheless, a majority of the students participated in at least one extra-curricular activity, which strenghthened the bonds between SPHS and its student body.

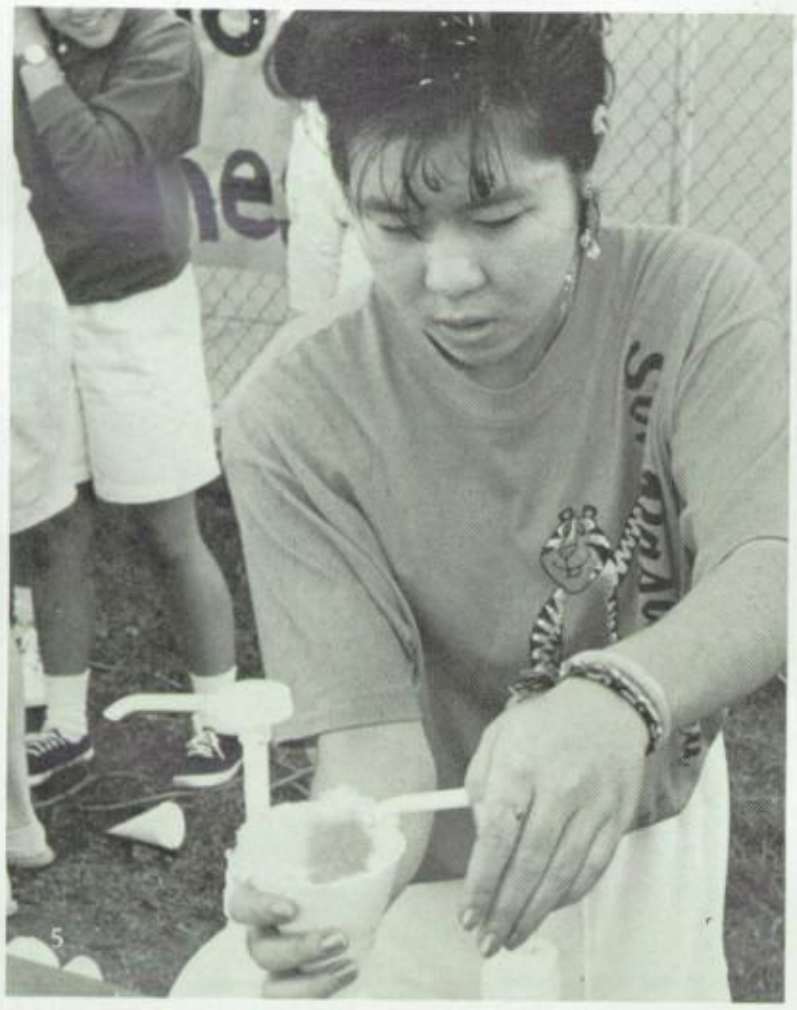
Clubs Highlight Homecoming

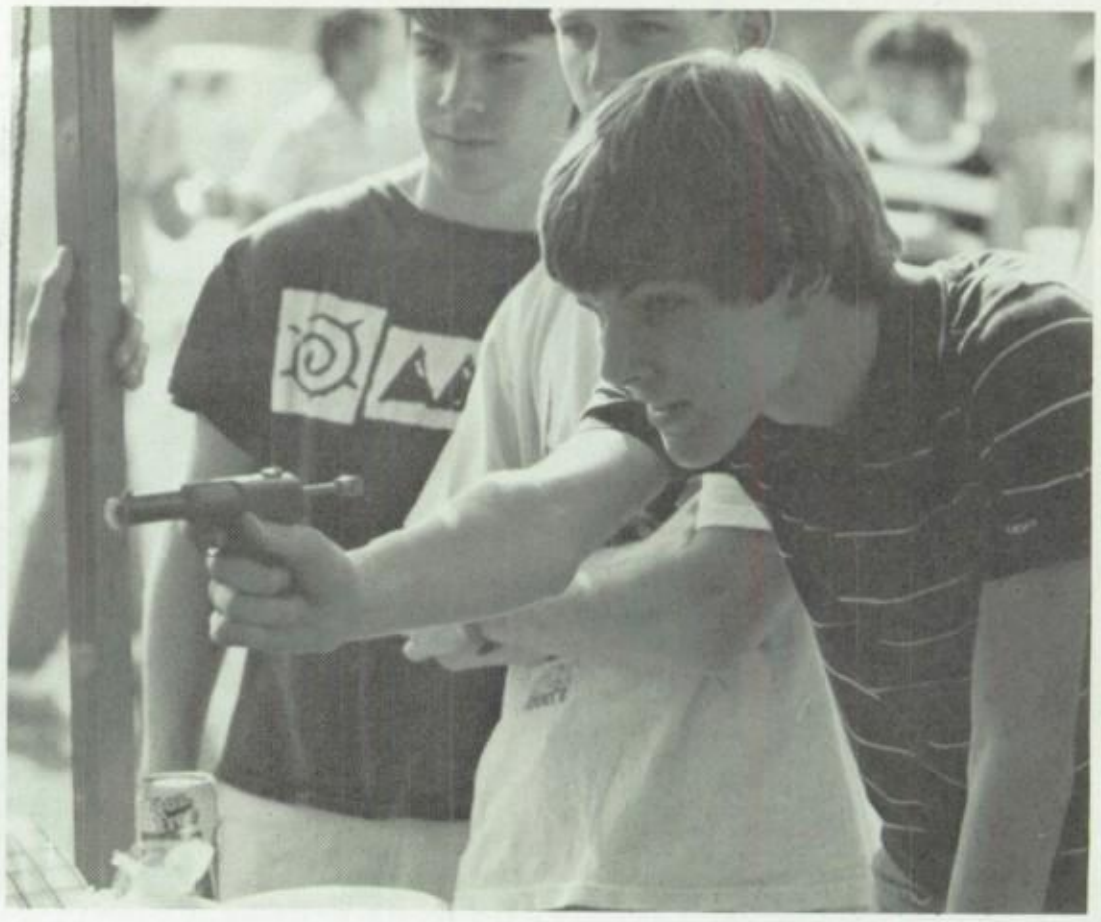
Homecoming '87 appeared to be ordinary at first glance. However, upon closer inspection, one found that there were several differences to separate this year's homecoming from past picnics. For instance, this year's lunch was catered by Arby's rather than In-'n-Out Burger. For entertainment, a belly dancer gyrated to the tunes that KROQ's Poor Man produced. Meanwhile, a magician strolled around, showing magic tricks to students.

All in all, the students seemed to enjoy the Homecoming '87 picnic and as usual, were sorry to see it end.



1. Mr. Papadakis and Mrs. Paris experience one of the many joys of being a teacher.
2. Harry Pham tests his strength as fellow students look on with awe.
3. Josh Pruett gets "refreshed" in the Key Club dunk booth.





1. Ian Sammis takes careful aim as he attempts to annihilate a deadly pingpong ball.
2. Students drool over the delectables at the "S" Club bake sale.
3. Wafaa Eldereiny viciously pounds an innocent nail into the stump of wood.
4. Ken Mersch readies the balloon board for the French Club dart throw.
5. Linh Hua dishes up her specialty: flavored ice.

Sports

Whether a team won or lost during their season, the members were continually putting together their team. Through dirlls, workouts, practice, and sweat, athletes worked to increase their physical abilities, and as a result, tightened the bonds between them. As each season ended, athletes often found themselves without the part of their lives that had become a major piece of their puzzle; however, they retained the memories of working together and created lasting friendships.

Varsity: The True Winners

This years Varsity Football Team began the season with optimism and high hopes. The entire team vowed to fulfill one goal: to become the top contender in both League and CIF. The team's dedication was shown in their summer practices where each member contributed equally in building a strong, outstanding team.

The endless hours of practice and drills paid off as the Tigers entered pre-season play. South Pasadena proved they would be a major force to be reckoned with as they compiled a 4-1 pre-league record. The Tigers showed little or no flaws in their game and entered League play with the highest of hopes.

In their first two league games, SP defeated both Monrovia and Temple City. Their third game against La Canada resulted in a tie and the Tigers carried a 2-0-1 record to their fourth match-up against Blair. Prior to their game, South Pasadena was faced with disastrous news. A fellow team member was found ineligible and the Tigers were forced to forfeit all their wins. Although crushed and disappointed, SP went on to defeat Blair in their fourth league game. In the fifth and final game of the season, the Tigers faced archrival San Marino at home. In what turned out to be an exciting and emotional game, SP fell behind early in the first half but staged an impressive rally in the second. Unfortunately, the Tigers fell short of a victory and lost the final game of the season.

Despite the hardships they faced through out the season, SP competed with spirit and a willingness to win. This spirit and the effort that they put forth helped the Varsity Football team emerge as true competitors and winners.

Sophomores Struggle

Although a small group, the Sophomore Football team had big goals. They had hoped to become a top contender for the League title in the tough Rio Hondo League. During the summer, the Tigers prepared themselves both mentally and physically for the upcoming season.

Despite the efforts of the entire team and key players such as Jay Carlton, Scott Buntyn, and Quarterback Meech Williams, SP was disappointed early in the season. South Pas went 0-5 during pre-league play and looked forward to perform better in the season.

The young Tigers didn't fare well in League play either as they fell to a 1-4 record. The only highlight of the season came with the victory over Blair. Despite their disappointing season, Scott Arai remained optimistic. "This season was a learning experience and because of it we'll be much better in the future."

Top Row: Greg Pierce, Kurt Hughett, Danny Lopez, Chris Subia, Scott King, Lenny Clark.

Despite being young and relatively inexperienced, the Freshman Football team proved that they were not only willing but capable of winning. In pre-season play, the young Tigers defeated Harvard and lost at the hands of a tough Alhambra and Baldwin Park team. SP entered League play with a 1-2 record and soon defeated both Monrovia and Temple City. Their only two defeats came from La Canada and rival San Marino. In addition, South Pas managed to tie a strong Blair team. Although not a disappointing season in any aspects, the young Tigers gave an all-out effort and proved that they would come back stronger than ever in the seasons to come.

Varsity Races Into Third Place

The South Pasadena Cross Country Program has always been known for the unity and closeness among the runners. Although there were always a few runners who stood out, the team as a whole consistently contributed to each and every victory. A perfect example of this unity was this year's Varsity Cross country team. Although they had not performed as well as they had hoped, the Varsity Tigers ended the season with a 2-3 record, a respectable Third place in League. Asked to sum up the season Patrick Lee stated, "Despite the fact that there were many obstacles, we came together in the end." Indeed, during the League Finals, the whole team made an effort to place in the Top Ten. In particular, Brian Nott became the league champ for the second consecutive year. South Pasadena's united effort helped to end their season on a high note.

The Girls Varsity Cross Country team had a good season, considering the many injuries and illnesses that plagued the team. At the start of the season, the team had a great chance of winning first in League and coming in top five in CIF. However, injuries and illnesses prevented many of the girls from running their best. As he reflected on the season, Coach Don Wielenga said, "I'm frustrated and discouraged. Injuries and illnesses have severely weakened our team."

Nevertheless, the girls, led by Captains Kathy Nguyen and Rachel Wackerman, came back strong and consistent towards the end of the season. The team ended up the season honorably in second place in league and went to CIF competition, where they placed eleventh overall.

Three girls from the team medaled in League Finals: Stacey Hoshimiya came in fourth; Jill Turner came in eighth; and Rachel Wackerman came in ninth out of 60 entries. These individuals and many others stood out because of their talents, skills, and ability.

JV: Undisputed League Champs

It has been the same story for the past six years. The JV Cross Country Team came away with its sixth consecutive League title. When asked what made this year's JV team special, John Tai replied, "There was a sense of unity and we had a consistent performance from each member of the team." Indeed, this unity helped the Tigers to stick together throughout the season and come away with victory after victory. The entire JV team contributed equally to the same cause and each member consistently placed in the top five of each race. In the League Finals, Jeff Nott, Andy Gaston, John Tai, Hiroshi Ishikawa, and Maziar Mohandesi all finished in the Top Ten. Their performance throughout the season helped them to become the one and only champion in the Rio Hondo League.

This year's Frosh/Soph team consisted of young yet eager runners. Their lack of experience didn't hinder them from obtaining a 7-1 record and an impressive second-place title in League. The Tigers entered the season with a flawless 3-0 record and continued their domination in League. Their only defeat came at the hands of a strong San Marino Team.

South Pas carried their proud 7-1 record into the League Tournament. In addition to the entire team's valiant effort, John Ko and Dennis Wang both placed in the Top Ten. Their individual efforts helped to seal SP's second place title.

Most importantly, the young Tigers displayed a combined effort in each meet and showed that inexperience means very little where there is a desire to win. Ivan Choi summed up the season best by stating, "We've proved very early that we are going to be top contenders in the future."

Varsity Polo Creates Waves

From the start of the season, the H20 Polo team prepared for what they hoped would be a successful and victorious season. The Varsity team spent hours practicing before and after school to perfect their strategies and plays.

In pre-season play, SP scored victories over teams such as Arcadia and Hoover. In addition, South Pasadena entered various tournaments in which they gained valuable experience and learned how to successfully work together.

This experience proved invaluable as the Tigers entered League play. South Pas immediately established itself as a threat for all opponents as it began recording victories. The highlight of the season was marked by the victory over rival San Marino at home. This along with many other victories helped qualify So. Pas for CIF competition.

The strong efforts of players like Doug McCrary, Andy Watkins, David Lewis, and J.J. Durivage helped to propel the Tigers past early round competition which included Cabrillo, Valencia, and Miraleste. As a result of these victories, SP qualified for semi-final competition against Costa Mesa High. Despite their strong effort, the Tigers' CIF hopes came to an end as Costa Mesa defeated them. 16-6.

Although they were unable to capture a CIF title, SP put forth an effort conducive to their spirit.

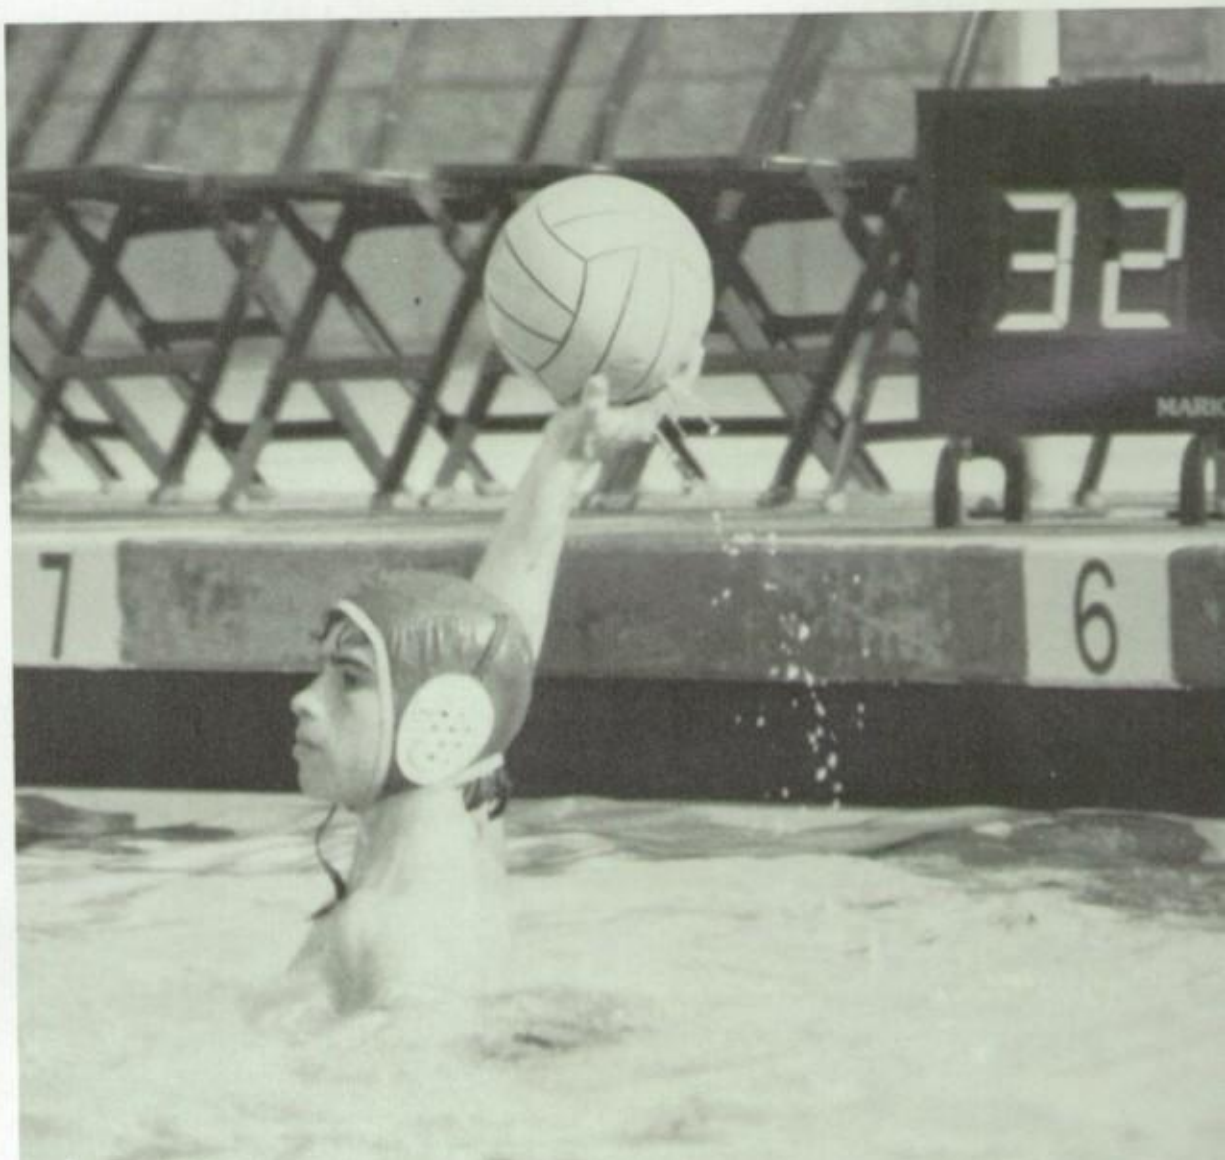
S/F Water Polo Drowns Opponents



Soph/Frosh Water Polo proved early in the season that it would be a winning team in the tough Rio Hondo League. Despite the challenging opponents they faced, the Tigers remained poised and calm; two aspects needed for a successful team. The young Tigers constantly displayed a desire to win and this desire helped them to pyle up numerous victories.

Throughout the entire season, the Tigers gave up only two losses in pre-league competition and went on to defeat all their opponents in League. As a result, SP entered League Finals as the highly favored team. In the finals, South Pasadena defeated La Canada to take the League title. This year's team will undoubtedly form the backbone of the future South Pasadena Water Polo Program.

Young Team Performs Well Together

The Girls Varsity Basketball team did not do as well as they had wanted this season, but there were many achievements for the girls to be proud of. They learned a lot and they definitely improved. Though unsuccessful in their bid for the CIF tournament this past year, the efforts of the players brought them close to a third place standing in league and to the doorstep of CIF competition. Lori LaPoint, co-captain, said, "We may not have had as good of a season as we may have wanted, but we know we did our best."

One major obstacle which the team faced was having a new team. All the starters from last year's team graduated, and the new starters were not as experienced in their new roles, as Tina Nunez pointed out. However, the team did not allow this factor to hinder them too much. The players learned a lot about each other, and this helped them to become a stronger team.

JV Matures Through Dedication

The Girls' JV Basketball team ended the season strongly. They had a slow start, but made a complete turn around in the middle of the season. Coach Gene Barnes described the team as "a team that has heart and character, never gives up, matures well. And the program will be a contending program in the future." Coach Barnes had many positive comments to make about the team because of the commitment and dedication they showed midway into the season, which proved they cared about winning.

Freshmen Show Promise

Although new to the high school basketball scene, this year's Freshmen team showed great concentration and consistency in their play. Led by players such as Mark Watanabe, Todd Strain, and Henry Chan, the entire team gave an all-out effort during each game. They exhibited a form and style not usually seen in such a young team. The team ended the season with an impressive 7-3 record and boasted victories over Monrovia and La Canada. This year's team will undoubtedly carry their new experience into the future S. Pasadena Basketball program.

Varsity B-Ball Dribbles Toward CIF

Unlike the fast-break, slam 'n' jam team of the recent past, this year's Varsity Basketball team reverted to a "patient" offense, picking and choosing their shots. This does not mean, however, that they were any less aggressive. On many occasions, the Varsity squad capitalized on fast-breaks and crashed the boards with zeal.

Led by returning coach, Jeff Klein, and new assistant coach, Gary Goodrich the Varsity boys faced the season with optimism. Several returning players also aided the team, mainly, Jon Keller and James Satragni.

Although this year's team was hurt on occasions due to their lack of size, they tried to make up this deficiency with good ball handling, consistent outside shots, and powerful rebounds. The team was led on the floor by point guard Jon Keller. Their inside game was led by center Bryan Christensen, and forward James Satragni. Another positive aspect of this year's team was the strong bench. Any member could be called from the bench and fully replace a starter. The reserves in addition to the starters contributed positively to their winning cause.

The Boy's squad compiled a 5-5 League record and the victory over San Marino in the final game of League play highlighted the season. With the 42-41 victory over San Marino, the Tigers qualified for CIF. Although they were defeated by Lompoc in CIF competition the Tigers should be proud of starting a new style and form of basketball that will last for the future teams of South Pasadena.

JV's Have Winning Season

The JV Basketball squad led by Coach Fred Cook displayed a winning 6-4 record overall. Their successful season was attributed to the strong play of players such as guards Charlie Setzler and Bryan Cooke. They competed with and defeated several challenging opponents including Blair, La Canada, and Temple City. "A lot of our victories came as a result of our ability to work well with each other," commented Mike Van Sant.

The JV team proved this season that cooperation and teamwork inevitably leads to victories and this new knowledge will undoubtedly make the S. Pasadena Basketball program a stronger force in the future.

JV Turns Things Around

The Girls' JV Soccer team had an outstanding season. The team won most of their games and really improved. The team was also able to overcome problems early in the season. They had to adjust to a new coach, and they didn't have a good preseason, but the girls were able to turn things around. As soon as league started, the girls began playing with skill and determination and were tough competitors.

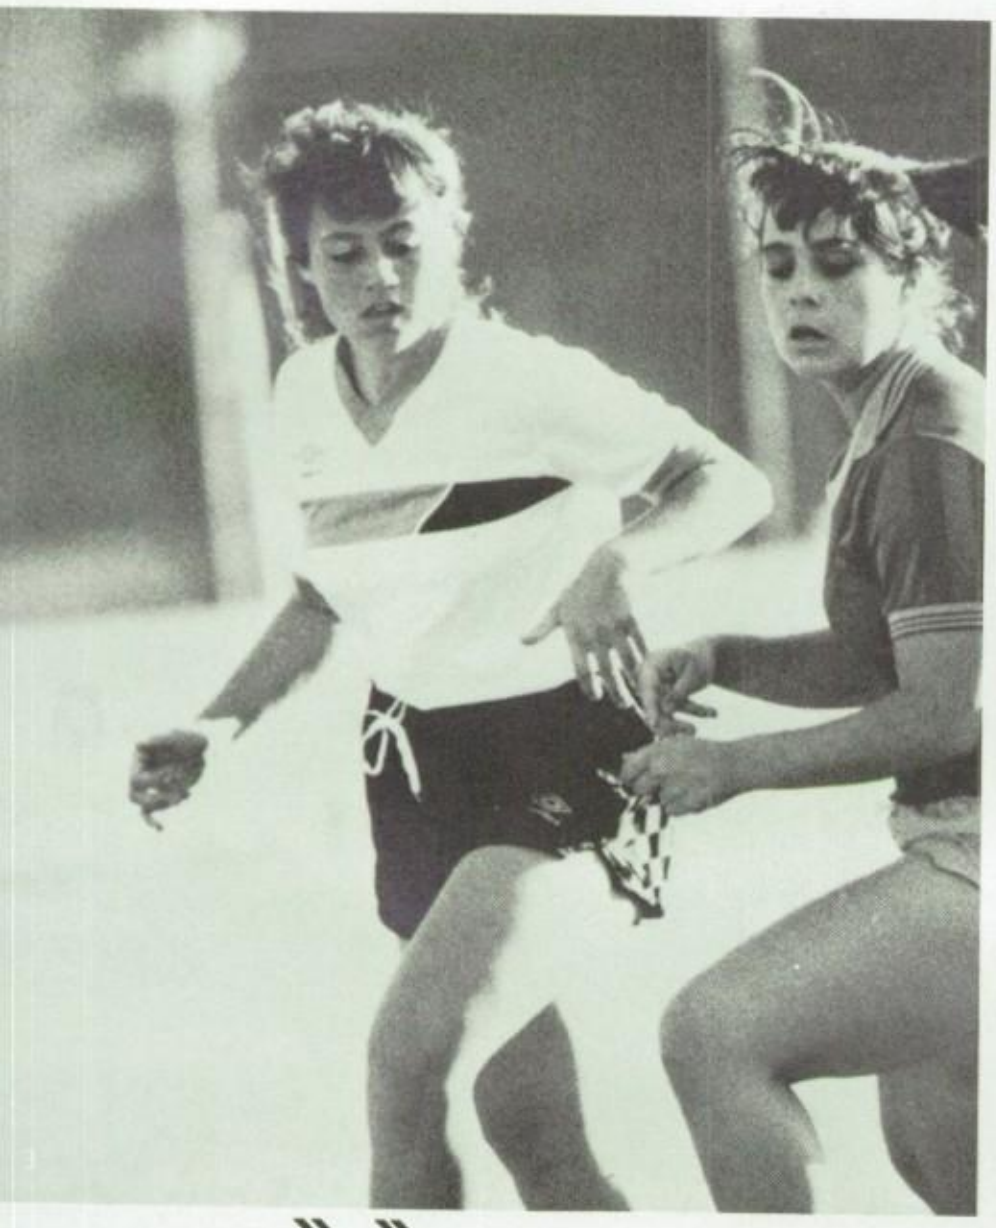
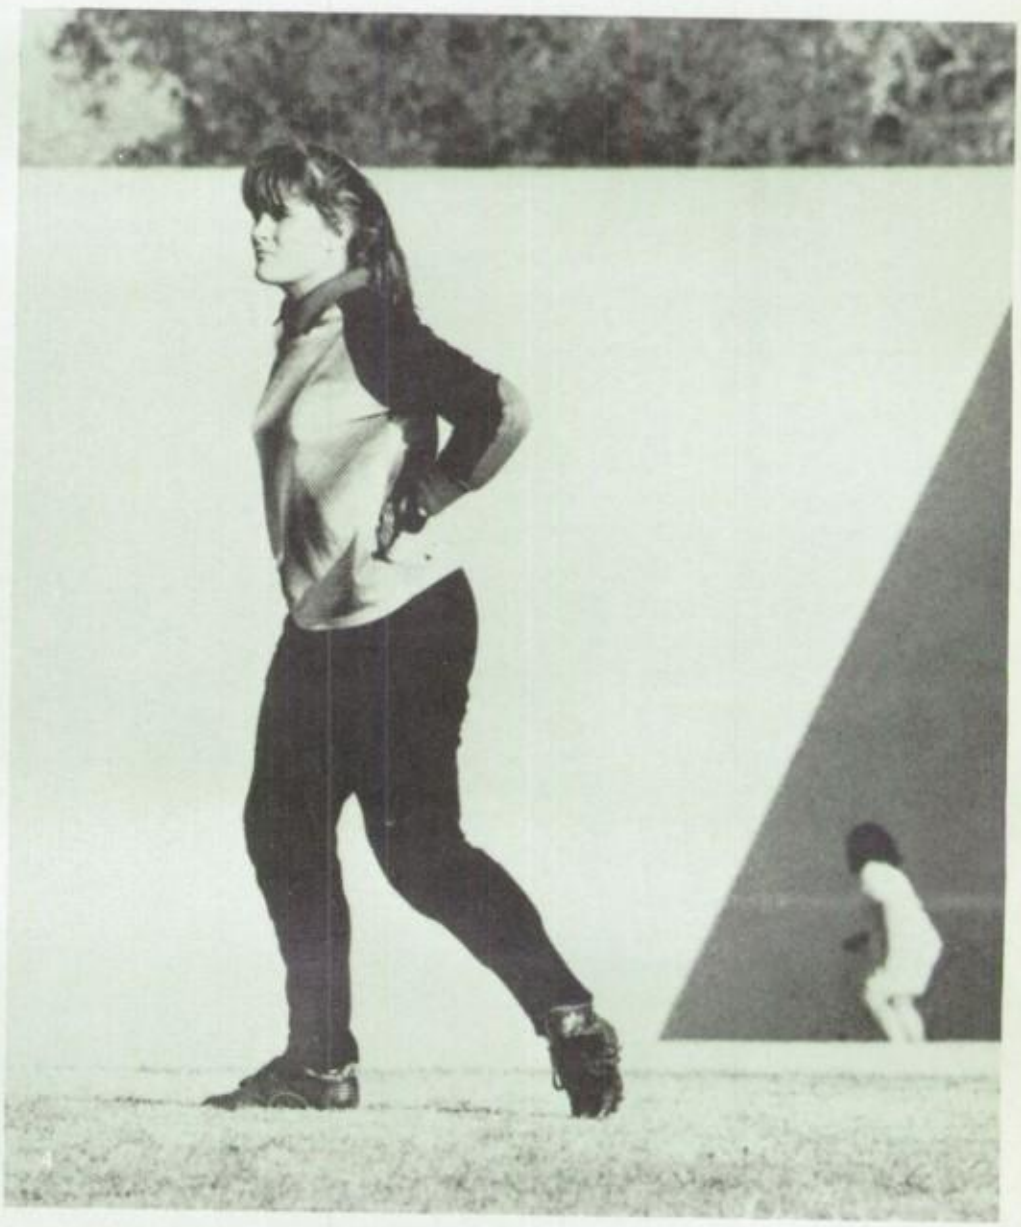
The Girls Varsity Soccer team were Rio Hondo League Champion for the second year standing! This year the girls came on strong with an undefeated league record and shared the title of Rio Hondo co-champions with Temple City. Coach Draluck was pessimistic about his team taking league, but the girls played with their hearts and with the best of their ability. In most of their games, they defeated the opposition by a wide margin. Because of their effort, hard work, and ability, the team earned a chance to go on and do well in CIF competition.

The girls learned new things, gained more experience, and improved a great deal. Each player played with motivation and did her best.

Rio Hondo League Champions!





Varsity Gives Strong Effort

This year's Varsity Soccer team was filled with numerous returning players. Despite this, the Tigers struggled in the tough Rio Hondo League. South Pas was not short of talent but faced tough opponents.

A strong point of this year's team was the strong Tiger defense. Aided by goalie Tim Klein, the Tiger defense made scoring next to impossible. Unfortunately, South Pasadena also came into contact with tough defenses which kept game scores to a minimum. The highlights of the season included two victories over the tough Monrovia Wildcats.

South Pasadena finished the season with a 3-7-3 record. This year's star players included Scott Lee, Robert Lagunas, Jeff Gildersleeve, and Darrin Horn.

JV Kickers Show Strength

Victory was the common goal of this season's JV Soccer team. Led by captain Tim Fox and other key players such as Doug Draper and Sean O'Leary, the Tigers united to fulfill this goal. This unity helped South Pas to compile a 4-3-2 record and score victories over teams such as Blair and Monrovia.

The JV reserve players also gained much needed experience and will definitely lead the future soccer team at South Pasadena. Sean O'Leary summed up the season by saying, "I think we're all proud of how we performed this year."

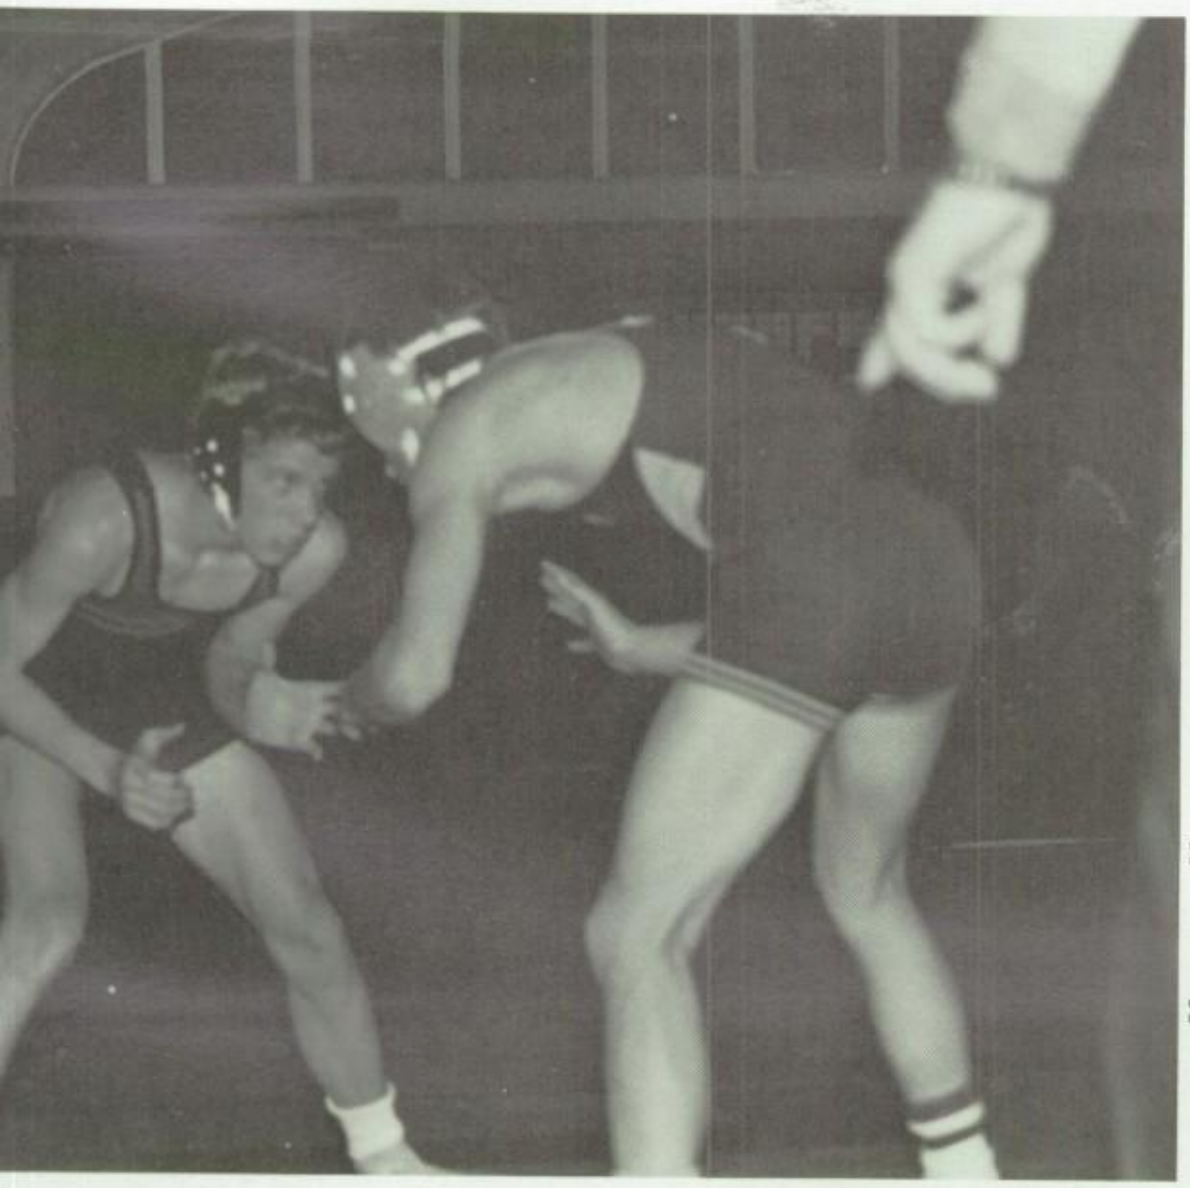
JV's Gain Experience



Although members of the JV Wrestling team frequently moved from the JV to the Varsity level, the team as a whole worked hard to make a mark in the Rio Hondo League. The JV team found it difficult to obtain matches so a majority of their experience came from wrestling tournaments. Key members of the team included Ronny Kwong and Nick Bruns. The JV team finished the season with a 1-4 record in League.

Despite their lack of.matches, the JV squad definitely benefited from their numerous practices and tournaments. "I think this was a learning season for us and the experience we gained is going to help our team in the future," stated Ronny Kwong.

Varsity Struggles

The members of this year's Varsity Wrestling team displayed moves gained from endl hours of practice. Despite losing several wrestlers, the entire squad united to establish a quic and better team. The older, and more experienced wrestlers helped the newer members deve and hone new skills. This sense of teamwork helped the entire team through both victories a losses.

The team was led by returning wrestlers Jim Hirahara and Jeff Nott who provided inspiratio addition to wrestling skills and strategies. Other returning wrestlers such as Jeff Huang and Kwong also contributed positively.

Although everyone gave 100%, the Varsity Boys had some trouble with inconsistenc Although several wrestlers always stood out, the team as a whole couldn't pull off the w Despite this setback, the Tigers managed a 1-4 league record defeating La Canada in the f match of the season.

Varsity Team—Major Contenders for CI

This was an exciting season for the Girls' Varsity Volleyball team. The team experienced tremendous improvements in individual abilities and in team work. This was the first year in many years in which the girls were serious contenders for CIF competition. The team captain, Catie Donovan, said, "There was a lot of talent and this is the best program we've had in the four years I've been with the team."

The team worked through a coaching change at the beginning of the season, but this experience actually had the effect of bringing the team together. The team tied for 3rd in league, but did not compete in CIF after losing a play-off game to San Marino.

JV Sets Up For Future

The Girls' Junior Varsity Volleyball team had a rough, but learning year. The girls had not played together before as a team, and every player on the team, except two, was a rookie. Captain Susan Min, one of the returning players, stated, "The season was not what I expected." However, the team members matured from their obstacles. One key player who matured in ability was Raylene Shirey, who was voted MVP by her team.

This year's JV Volleyball team was composed mostly of juniors and sophomores. Although fairly new and relatively inexperienced, the young Tigers united behind first year coach Tony Jang and looked toward the upcoming season with optimism. "We're a fairly young team, but we have a lot of potential," said Fred Ahn.

The Tigers got off to a postivie start by defeating La Serna and St. Francis early in the season. These victories helped to set the overall tone of this season. South Pasadena fared well throughout the season with only a few exceptions to teams such as Arcadia and San Marino. But more importantly, South Pas gained much needed experience and will undoubtedly be a powerhouse in the Central League.

Varsity Spikes For Title

Although this year's Varsity Volleyball team lost several key seniors, the Tigers had the talent needed to be successful. "We're working to be number one this year," said Jason Hom. Led by returning players Mark Withers, James Jensen, Chris Tanaka, and Jason Hom, South Pas looked forward to some tough competition in the Central League.

Despite their determination and effort, the Tigers had a very up and down season. SP had several impressive wins over St. Francis, Monrovia, and Temple City. Unfortunately, South Pas also had several losses to Arcadia and Glendale. Besides a few losses to some tough teams, South Pasadena had an extremely successful season.

Varsity Swings Into Action

The Girls Varsity Softball team, the defending League Champions, began the season with many young players. Coach Bob Hawkins believed the players improved tremendously since the start of the season. Coach Hawkins proudly said, "We were right up there at the beginning of the season and finished high up in the Rio Hondo standings." The coach also attributed Mandy Pratt, Michelle Edsall, Tina Nunez, and Claudette Contreras with helping the team finish in its high position. Pitcher Carolyn Hawkins, who was all CIF the year before, also had another outstanding year.

JV Plays With Force

The Girls JV Softball team had a spectacular season. The team began with huge victories in the preseason, and ended up as a very strong and improved team. Many players performed at their peak and are setting up for a great Softball program in the future. Lacy Endo, the only returning player this year said, "Even though the team was inexperienced with many new players, there was a really great improvement since last year. This young team will give us a bright future." Two outstanding players this season were Jeannie Hamilton, outfielder, and Pitcher Kim Ard.

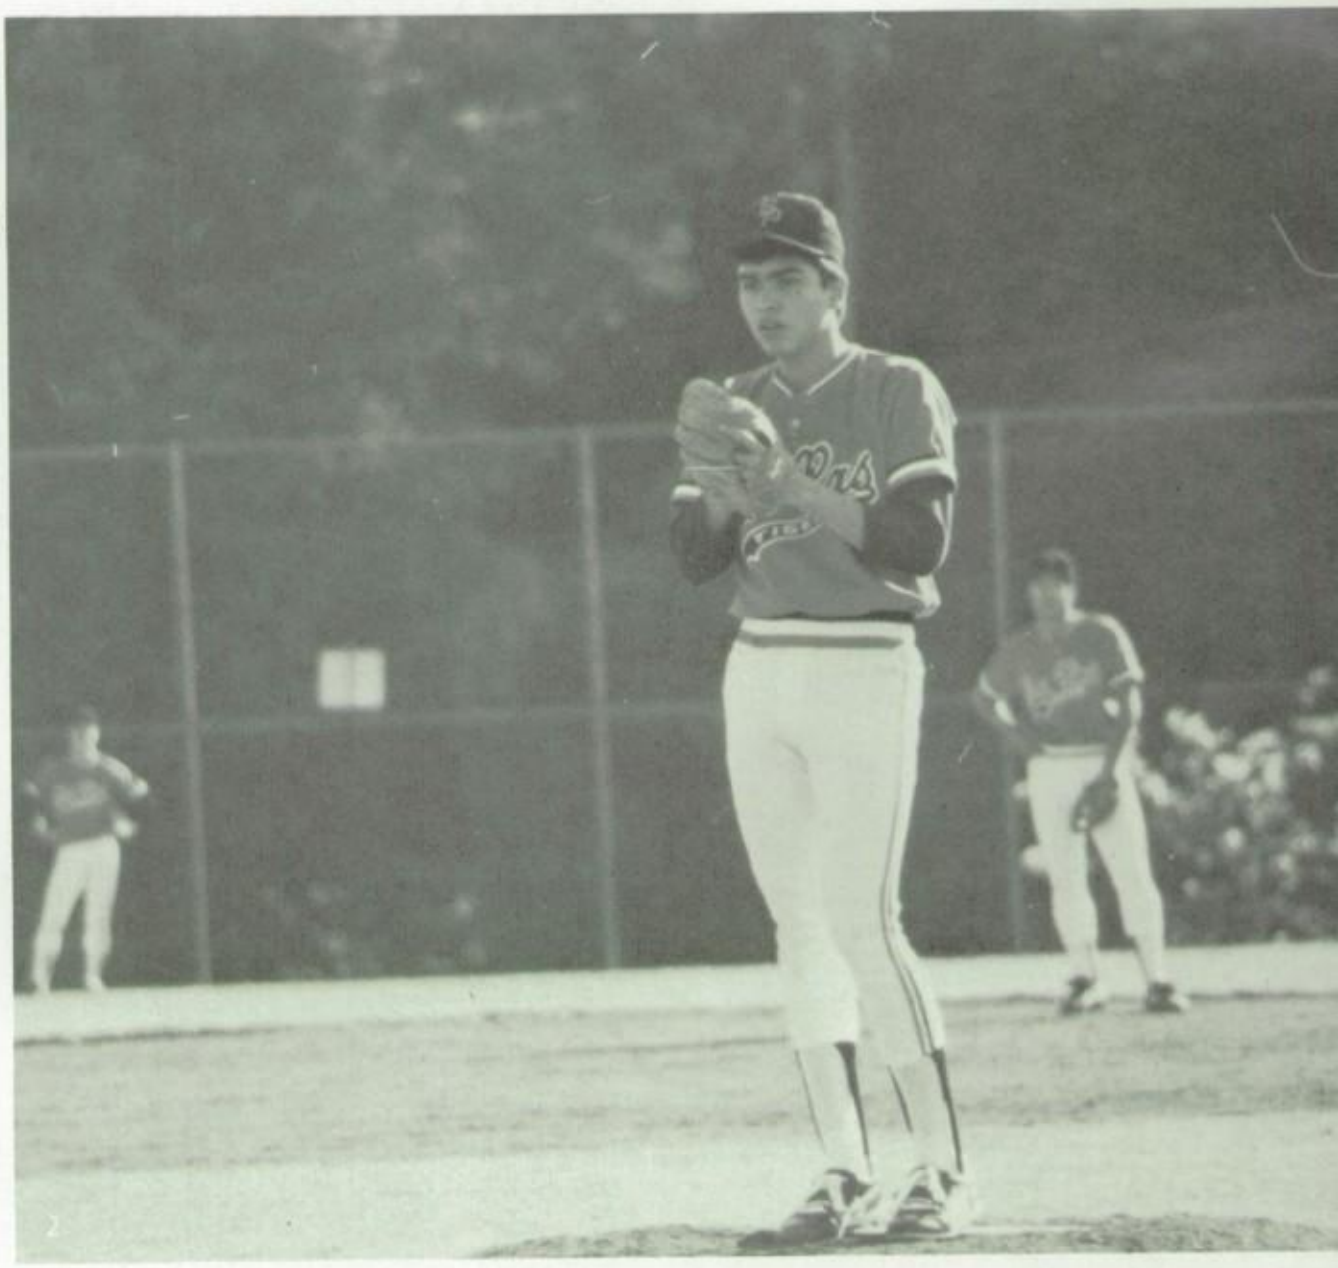
Under the direction of new head coach John Severs, the Tigers united their efforts to place high in League. South Pas faced some stiff competition throughout the season, mainly Temple City and La Canada. Nevertheless, South Pasadena showed impressive fielding and hitting skills throughout the year and displayed their future potential.

This year's standout players included shortstop Charlie Setzler, outfielder Jason Roxby, and catcher Jeremy Beal.

Varsity Strikes Out Opponents



The Varsity Baseball team, led by Coach Ralph Punaro, entered this year's season with one goal in mind: Rio Hondo League Champs. With numerous returning players and top-ranked pitcher Jaime Aguayo, the Tigers knew they had an excellent chance to fulfill this goal.

Early in the season, the Tigers showed their potential by defeating La Salle and Marshall. S.P. also gained valuable experience in the Serra Tournament. South Pasadena displayed strength in both their defense and offense. Returning seniors Scott Lee, Paul Hugasian, Tom Rogers, and John Barnes helped to set the foundation of the team. In addition, several juniors including Tim Klein, Steve McDonald, Ryan McCafferty, and John Worthy contributed to the overall success of the team.

Golfers Show Winning Form

The 1988 Golf team strived to better their previous record of ninth place in CIF. "We have an excellent chance of placing first or second in League this year," stated Tom Schiller. The Tigers knew that with the return of top golfers such as Steve Rogers, Steve Hawkins, Jeff Sanday, and Tom Schiller, this would be a realistic goal.

Early in the season, South Pasadena defeated St. Francis and Arcadia. These victories helped to set the tone for their winning season.

The 1988 Golf season was a productive one for the Tigers. Veteran golfers were able to show off their talent while new golfers gained valuable experience.

Girls Run With Intensity

This year's Girls varsity Track team was forced to rebound from losing many key runners and field event people, who graduated last year. The team was basically new. Coach Randy Stage said, "The girls are young, but talented. The track program will be a strong one in the coming years."

Although this season's Girls team did not do as well as the teams in the past, the girls have a bright future. Coach Stage noted htat some valuable members of the team were Staci Chambers, Tammi Lai, Kathy Nguyen, Rachel Scott, Jill Turner, Rachel Wackerman, and Tamila Williams.

1. As she approaches her last lap, Jill Turner sprints to the finish line.
2. Gracie Hsu leaps high in the air and clears the high jump bar.
3. Rachel Wackerman quickly hands Tammy Lai the baton in the 440 relay.
4. Staci Chambers pumps hard at the beginning of the 330 hurdles.

Varsity Dusts Competition

Because of the numerous events involved in Track and Field, it's hard to look at this year's Varsity Track team as a whole. Nevertheless, this year's athletes contributed and combined their efforts toward victories.

Headed by returning head coach Randy Stage, the Varsity Tigers put forth a strong effort to excel in everything from pole vaulting to distance running. South Pasadena also boasted many returning athletes who brought experience and determination to this year's squad.

A few of this year's standouts included Al Hart (hurdles), John Toro (220), and Daniel Wang (long jump). These athletes provided depth for the team and also served as role models for future Track athletes.

5. Al Hart and Mark Couch concentrate on staying ahead of the competition.

Soph/Frosh Sprints Toward Title

The 1988 Soph/Frosh Track team was relatively new to the Track scene. The Freshmen, especially, had to adapt to the numerous events and rules involved with Track and Field. In addition, the young Tigers had some big shoes to fill. The Soph/Frosh team was a dominant force in the Rio Hondo League with several titles to their credit.

Nevertheless, South Pas rose to the occasion. Each member of the team contributed their full efforts toward one goal: winning. The Tigers struggled during pre-season competition but made up for it during the regular season. South Pasadena scored victories over Monrovia and Temple City. A few of this year's key athletes included Ming Tai, Eric Wills, and Tim Howland.

Led by returning coach, James Aprato, the JV Tennis team looked forward to a successful season. With more than half of their team composed of returning players, the young Tigers worked toward a promising and fruitful year. With such an abundance of talent, Eric Jew was optimistic when he said, "We have a good chance to place in the top two in league this year."

This year's team was led by the top three singles players which included Gary Tang, Adam Nguyen, and Joe Chen. The number one doubles team made up of Eric Jew and Don Tang also contributed positively toward their winning cause. Overall, this year's JV team had a successful season and gained valuable experience which will aid them in the future.

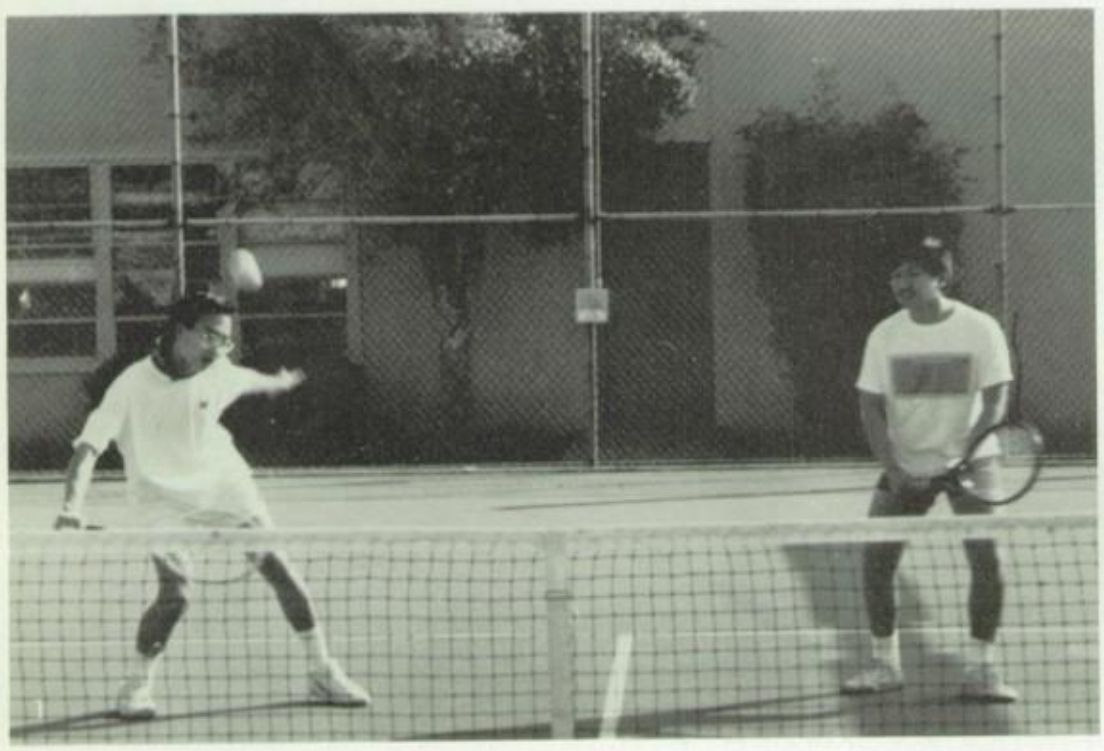
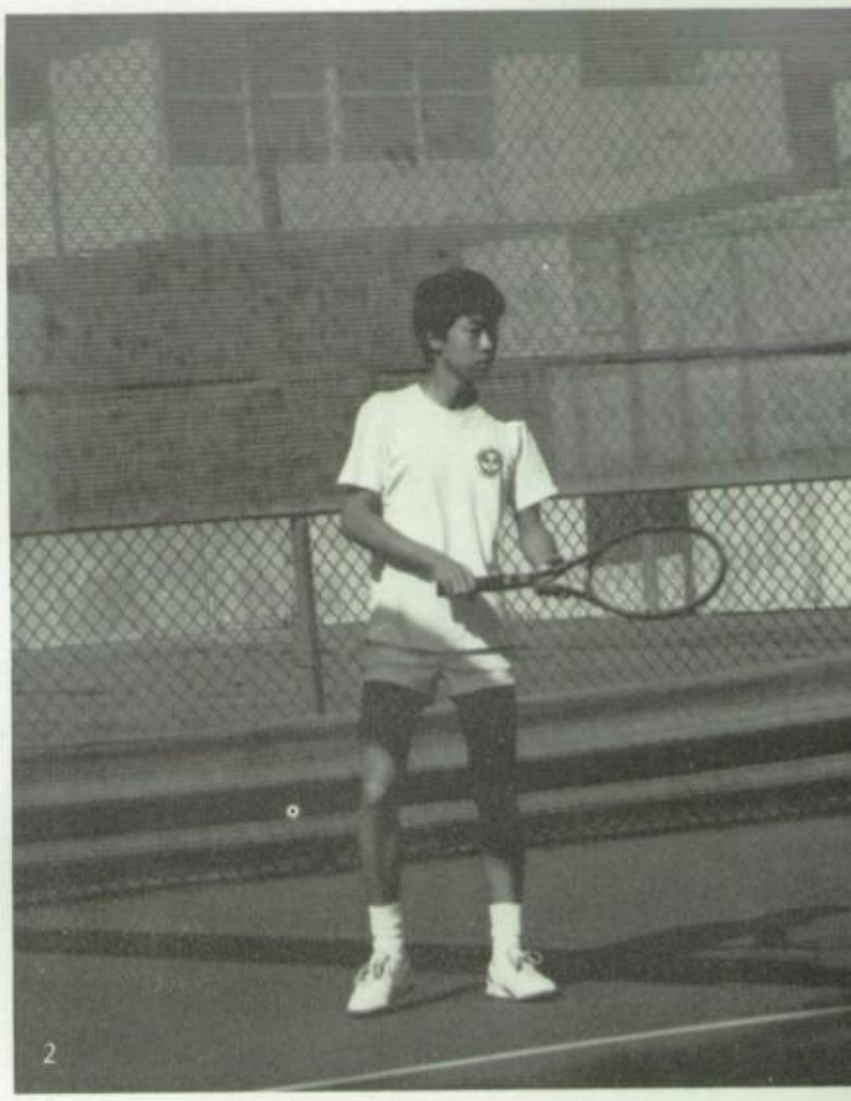
Varsity Smashes Opponents





"We're going to be a strong force in League this year," said Senior Bobby Chen. Indeed with seven returning players, this seemed an attainable goal. The Varsity squad spent hours practicing daily and reinforcing the singles and doubles players. Although the Tigers have consistently ranked Number three in the Rio Hondo League, returning Varsity Tennis Coach Bruce Glenn made it this year's goal to place second over La Canada, and just behind San Marino. "I think we have a really wellrounded team this year. We're strong in both singles and doubles," said Senior Mike Tran.

The Tigers had convincing wins over St. Francis, Monrovia, and Temple City. In addition to the many talented Seniors, the Varsity team was comprised of several promising Juniors, including Stuart Dawe, Eddie Yim, Eric Tong, and Jack Chen. These players will undoubtedly contribute to the success of the tennis team in the future.

Because Tennis is an individual sport, each member of the Girls Varsity Tennis Team experienced her own share of hard workouts, let downs, and rewards. Individuals such as Darlet Yee, Ines LaGrange, Camille Garcia, and Jane Lee showed exceptional tennis ability.

As much as tennis is an individual sport, it is also a team sport. Admiring the team's united spirit, Ms. Connie Foster stated, "I thought the camaraderie of the team was exceptionally high. Everyone worked well with each other, giving a positive experience for each team member." The team came in 3rd in league and represented the Rio Hondo League, along with two other teams, in CIF competition. Darlet Yee also displayed notable performance in League Finals.

The Girls JV Tennis team exuded great promise in their performance this past season. Coach Ralph Punaro remarked, "We finished 3rd against real strong competition and I'm proud of the way the girls showed their competitive spirit. They did a great job!"

Many players deserved to be adknowledged. Among them is Lisa Chang, who's talent brought her the honors of being the most valuable player, as voted by the team. The hard work for Martha Murray was recognized by her team also, as she was voted the most improved player. Jennifer Wood was another player whom the team gave recognition. Her determination and motivation brought her the most inspirational player title. Notably, Tradey Lee was the top single's player.

Varsity Makes Water Boil

This year's Girls Varsity Swim team has shown much promise. The team consisted of very experienced swimmers. These swimmers knew what they were doing, were competitive, and possessed a great amount of skill. This variety of swimmers brought a good mixture to the team.

The team put long hours into hard workouts to reach their goals. The girls had a morning workout before school, a two hour workout after school, and a Saturday workout when they did not have meets. This dedication allowed Coach Jerry Wulf to say, "The girls team made many individual improvements and ended up being a highly competitive team."

Varsity Strokes Past Competition

1. John Clark towels off after his race.
2. Doug McCrary is way ahead of his opponents as he dives into the water.
3. David Lewis takes a breath during the breaststroke event.

The South Pasadena Swimming Program has always been a powerhouse in the Rio Hondo League and this year was no different. With top swimmers like Doug McCrary, Jim Gibbs, J.J. Durivage, and David Lewis returning, the Tigers had an excellent chance to take League this year. In addition to the numerous returning seniors, the Varsity squad also included many talented juniors, namely, John Clark, Murphy McCann, and Steve Clark.

Under the direction of head coach Jerry Wulf and first year coach Fernando Gallud, South Pas made their mark early by dominating Hoover. In fact, the veteran Tigers did a lot of dominating throughout the season. Their only real competition came from rival San Marino and then, the Varsity swimmers performed well. This season was without question an extremely successful one for the Varsity team.

JV Boys Glides Through League

Led by standout swimmers, Joe Abing, Larry Haggquist, and Kieran Thompson, this year's JV Swim Team had a lot of potential. They showed their potential early in the season by defeating Monrovia and Blair.

In addition to the numerous returning swimmers, the Tigers also boasted several talented Freshman such as Casey McCann and Tim Rohr. South Pasadena was under the guidance of coach Jimmy Julian who offered his techniques and talents.

All in all, the young Tigers showed real determination and talent throughout the season and will contribute positively to the future South Pasadena swimming program.

Those South Pas. Nights

It's 9:30 on a Saturday Night and you've already been to all three yogurt shops in South Pasadena. You and your friends don't feel like renting movies, and you're trying to avoid Twohey's for as long as long as possible because you just went there last night.

What is all this you ask? It's a feeling common to many of us - the desire to go out but lack of knowing what exactly to do. Whether it happens to you once a year or every weekend, the question remains the same: What should you do tonight?

So what are you going to do now??

During football and basketball season the vast majority of us attended the after home game dances that were sponsored by various campus organizations. After, or even instead of, many attended parties held by more daring individuals. Some crossed the city limits to view movies in neighboring cities; and many Tigers preferred to stay at home and have people over to watch movies, play Pictionary, or just kick back.

Despite the fact that some way think of these examples as boring, it's a fact that the majority of the students at SPHS ended up doing one or more of these things during the course of their weekend, because it didn't really matter what was being done, as long as it was done with friends.

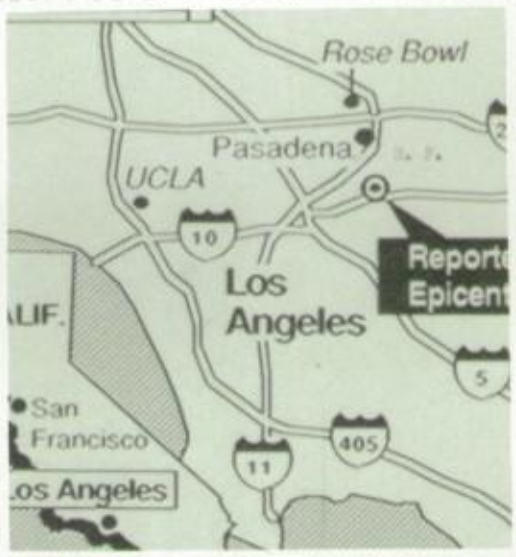
Earthquake Hits L.A.



October 1 was literally "earthshaking." The California earthquake, centered in the Montebello-Whittier Narrows area, registered 5.8 on the Richter scale. Hundreds of aftershocks left Californians shaking for months, causing them to feat that the Big One was coming sooner than they expected.

Football Disappointment

Unfortunate circumstances for the Tiger Football team left everyone with varying emotions. Here is what various members of the Tiger community had to say.

"I don't feel it was fair to the team or students. The team didn't do anything wrong, so why should they be punished?" - Jon Keller, senior

"I feel the football scandal was handled pretty unfairly. I think CIF rules are a little strict concerning the players' eligibility to play and the administration could have done a little bit more to prevent this situation from happening. The football team worked too hard to just have a great season shot down the tubes." - Sean Shire, junior

"I can't put the blame on anyone, but it's terrible and it shouldn't have happened. It sucks that we could have made it to CIF." - Hilary Johnson, sophomore

"It was a sad thing to have happened, especially since we were doing so well." - Heidi Zee, junior

"1st time in 10 years that So. Pas. had a good football team and we were robbed — like thief in the night. I felt like a member of the family died." - James Sheridan, senior (Varsity Football captain)

"Who said it was a scandal? I don't think it was a scandal. It was very unfortunate. I'm sure actions will be taken so that it won't happen again." Ralph Punaro, faculty

Fads And Fashions

South Pasadena students are well known for their great diversity in fashion as well as lifestyle and thought. From ski bunnies to beach bums-bookworms to party animals, all could be found on the SPHS campus, though most seem to be a little bit of everything. Here are just few of the items that could be found on almost everybody at one time or another during the course of the year.

Friendship bracelets on both guys and girls were popular- along with holey jeans. Crystals were worn around the neck, or hung in cars. Short puffy ruffle skirts as well as denin mini's were worn by most girls while guys wore crest ladden rugby shirts and top siders. High topped sneakers became a fashion statement for girls (when they weren't wearing their boots!) Long hair became popular for both guys and girls thus exhibiting the uni-sex styles that highlighted the fashion scene at SPHS this year.

Tigers Forced To Forfeit

The Tiger Varsity Football team was forced to give up its seven wins of the season due to a mix-up with facts about player eligibility. The team was disappointed but received much support from the Tigers and the SB community.

Dow Plunges 508

Black Monday in October, 1987 paralleled the Black Tuesday of 1929. The Dow Jones Industrial Average plunged 22.4%- even more than in 1929. Stock prices fluctuated wildly, signaling a recession and causing Americans to be, more careful about how to spend their money.

Peer Counseling:

Getting By With a Little Help From Your Friends

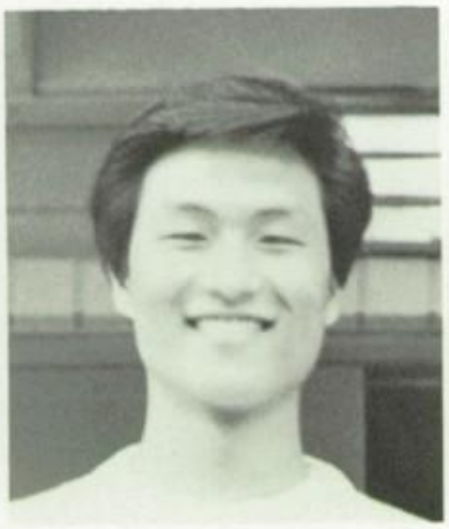
If you were to walk into one of the peer counseling classes taught at SPHS you might be surprised to find an atmosphere quite different from one of a typical classroom. Students would be seated in a circle, either in a chair or on the floor and someone might be describing his emotions at the moment while others listen on.

The scene described is one of a peer counseling class during the process of something called "I feels." In this excercise, each student has the chance to discuss problems, air out bad feelings, or tell about what's new in their life. This is only one of the many communication exercises students may take part in.

The class may pay a game of Scruples one day, and listen to a recovered alcoholic speak the next. Perhaps the great diversity of activities students, and skills learned is what makes peer counseling one of South Pasadena's most popular classes.

The actual purpose of the class is provide students with opportunity to learn listening skills, as well as to communicate their own feelings. Beginners and advanced classes are available, and are guided by Mrs. Rae Luce and Mr. Jeff Cox. These teachers work hard to create a feeling of openness between students and teachers, and because of such active involvement, they chaperoned 12 SPHS students to attend the statewide Peer Counseling Convention held in San Francisco.

Peer Counseling provides an experience not available at many high schools, creates yet another way for students to get to know a side of each other that normally wouldn't be seen. Peer Counseling teaches students to interact constructively with one another and encourages them to help each other out of problems, not force each other into them.



Harry Choi's singing talent won him a place with the All State Honor Choir. Harry, a senior who has been singing "since before he was born," auditioned for the Southern California Vocal Association which performed at Occidental College in February. The SCVA combines with the Northern CA Vocal Association to form the All State Choir. Among Harry's other accomplishments is performing in the musical "God Spell" and singing with Concert Choir.

What is a Typical S.P. Student?

The typical S.P. student displays a wide variety of interests and characteristics. We asked them what they considered a typical South Pasadena student to be like.

"Someone friendly and involved who stands up for his rights." - Karen Fasano, junior

"Levi's — T-shirts — topsiders." - Robert Lagunas, senior

"Obnoxious, very obnoxious." Bobby Henderson, senior

"I see them as intelligent, caring, motivated and involved." - Gage Jones

"They're normal people — nice, friendly; some can be snobs, some can be jerks, but overall they're friendly." - Brenda Holmes, freshman

"Sexy — just kidding." - Katie Ryan, freshman

"How can you . . . everyone's different." - Joe Abing, sophomore

"Well, they love to spread rumors about everyone that aren't true and are none of their business." - Jenna Bruner, sophomore

"There is no typical S.P. student — we're a melting pot." - Marcella Wong, senior

In March, Wendy Chen, a sophomore here at SPHS won the Seventeen Magazine National Concerto Competition. Wendy was well prepared for this competition because of her 2-hour practices each day. Some of Wendy's other achievements are performances at the Victoria Festival in British Columbia, and playing with the New England Conservatory Orchestra. Wendy was featured in the June issue of Seventeen magazine because of her great talents.

A freshman at SPHS, Shanice Wilson is well on her way to stardom. With the release of her first single "Baby Can You Dance", Shanice has become well known as a contemporary singer. The daughter of an Opera singer, Shanice won the Star Search Competition in 1984. Shanice's life was very busy this year as she was both attending high school and traveling around the world premoting her record entitled "Shanice Wilson."

Teachers Protest

South Pasadena teachers protested at schools, the District Office, and at meetings to show their need for community support of their actions, and to ask for changes in policy to be made.

1988 Winter Olympics

Enchantment Under The Sea

The cool night air breezed from outside into a large room filled with excitement. A quick glance revealed the theme of the dance, 'Enchantment Under the Sea', with decorations such as a row boat, a ship's steering wheel, and blue and white balloons added a touch of nautical atmosphere. Music floated to your ears from the next room where couples twisted and grooved to the beat. What other event than ... the 1988 Backwards Dance?

Everywhere you looked people were mingling, dancing and plain just having fun! Pictures were taken in the front room with the choice of two seascaped backgrounds. Couples and friends stood anxious in line to take snapshots from this memorable night. Some who attended chose to dress in semi-formal attire while others tried to capture the spirit of the theme by wearing sailor outfits, lais, and Hawaiian print clothes.

The dance was held at the Arcadia Masonic Temple, put on by Girl's League, and for the first time the Key Club helped in making the plans. The music chosen for the dance was performed by disc jokey Chris Logg. The music, decorations, and spirit of all who attended made the evening one to remember.

Graduation 1988:

A Time To Remember

It is everyone's goal upon entering high school. It is an end — and a beginning. Graduation is a time for rejoicing and a time for reminiscing. Ask any high school student what he looks forward to the most and high on his list will undoubtedly be GRADUATION.

However, not everyone years to leave high school. On the contrary, the mere mention of graduation and college provoked some seniors to recall fond memories of their high school years, such as football games, pep rallies and dances, as well as other memories that may not have been as enjoyable. Such as entering as the first freshman class and having to gain the respect of the upperclassmen.

Nevertheless, as June 16, 1988 approached, SPHS seniors grew sad at the ending of an important part of their lives but looked forward to bright futures.

South Pas. Celebrates Centennial

The City of South Pasadena turned 100 this year. Among the events in March were Ostrich races on the SPHS football field and a cake large enough to feed 4,000. Other activities from earlier in the year included a "Name that Ostrich" contest, musical performances by the various elementary schools, and centennial souvenirs sold throughout the community.

Reflections of the Past

Happy and sad times, mellow or wild times, all kinds of experiences make up the wonderful memories of high school. With four years of high school almost behind them, seniors refelcted on their past years at SPHS.

"Fun, friends, and flexible hours" -Jeff Gildersleeve

"The time spent with friends are one's memories. The time spent studying is the base for one's future. A balanced combination of the two is success." -Ken Mersch

"For me, the triumphs and accomplishments have been so great and the frustrations been so small that I've come to think that this is one of the best schools around." -Jenny Pulskamp

"I remember my high school weekends, most of the time spent grounded because of my grades." -Derek Moran

"Looking back, I remember all the people here and how scared I was a freshman. I remember growing through the years and my friends that stood by me. Looking back, I had fun and will never forget the good or bad times that I had here." -Stacey Theodorou

"I see now that I spent too much time looking forward to this year, never realizing that I would spend most of it looking back on the previous ones." -Jenny Butcher

This Is The Time

This is the time to remember-
'Cause it will not last forever
These are the days to hold on to-
'Cause we won't although we'll want to
This is the time
But time is going to change
I know we've got to move somehow,
but I don't want to lose you now.

Sometime it's so easy to let a day or two slip on by without even seeing each other at all
But this is the time you'll turn back to and so will I
and those will be days you can never recall

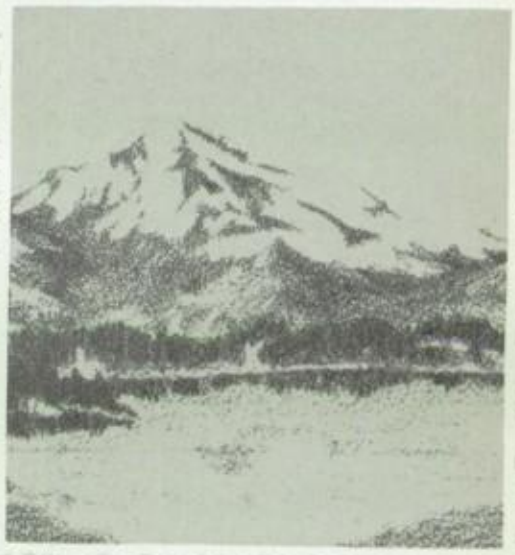
Senior Girls' Sleepover

An old tradition was brought back to South Pasadena High this when a Senior Girls' Sleepover was held in the Boy's Gym. Held on March 26, senior girls and guys met at 9:00 to watch movies, listen to music, and socialize. When the boys were thrown out at 12:00, the girls were able to play games that helped them get to know each other better. Organized by Senior Class Secretary Jennifer Werner, the sleepover enabled senior girls to get together in a relaxed atmosphere and have some silly fun.

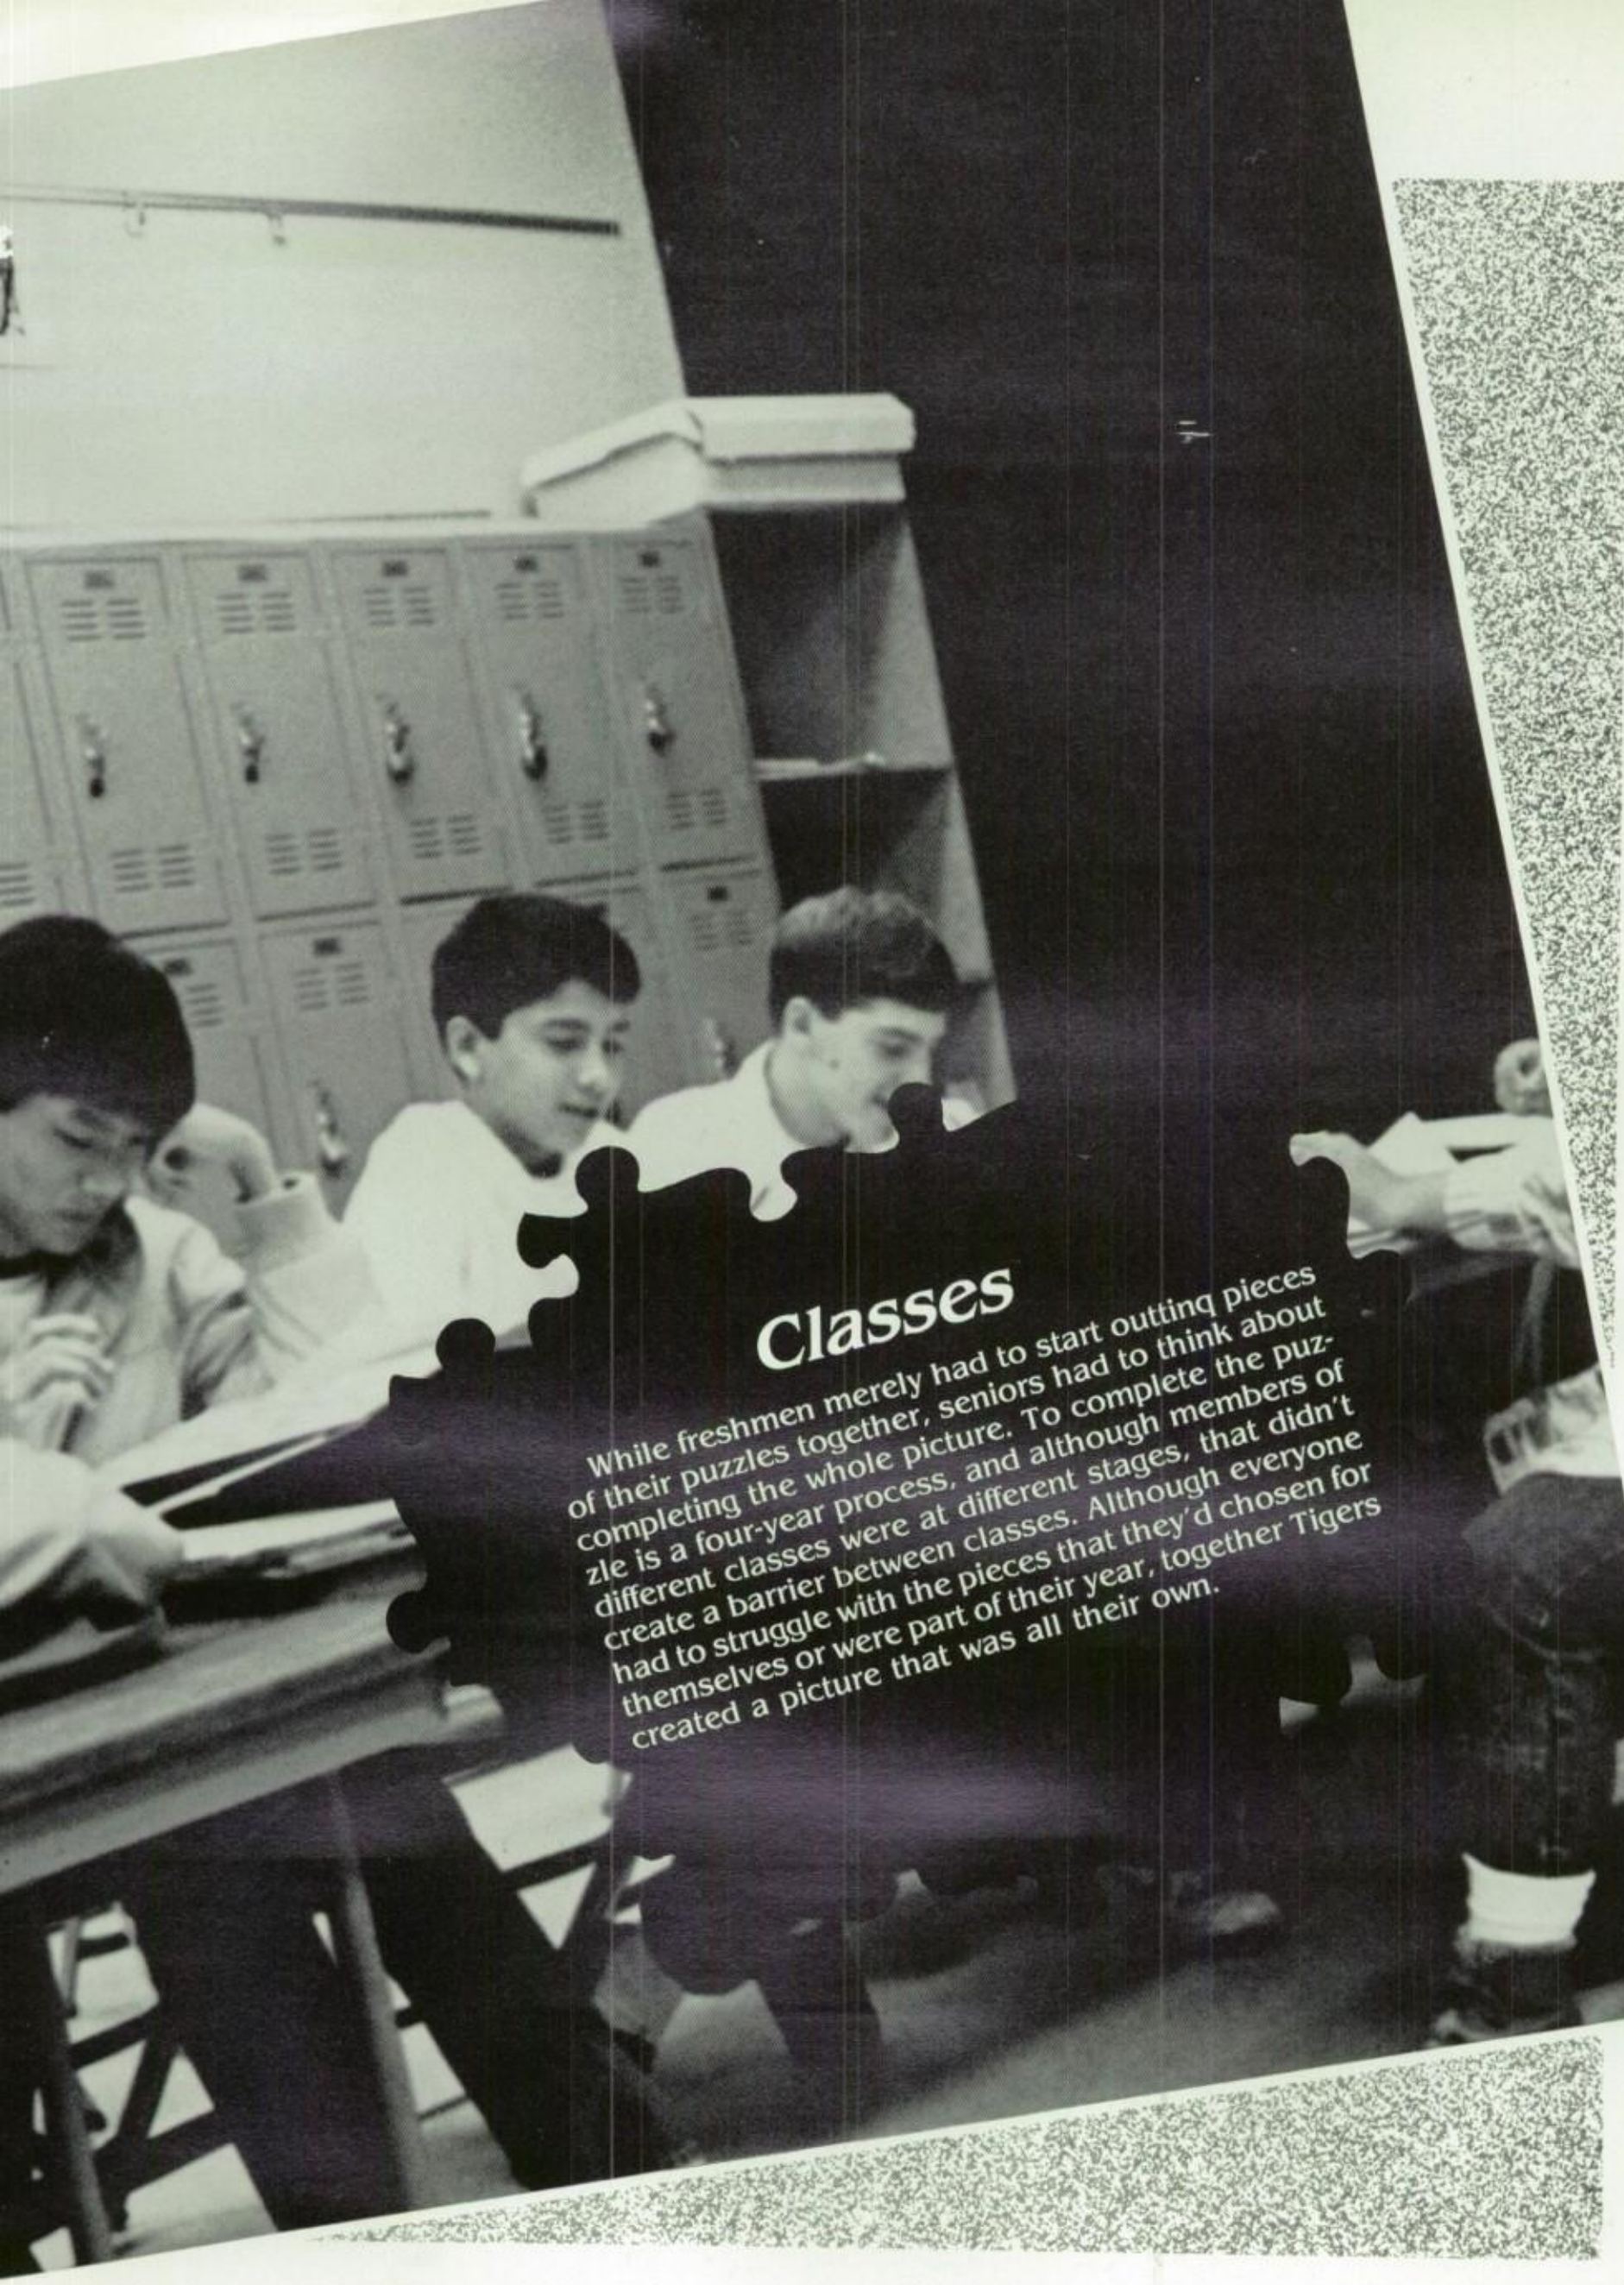
Yosemite Institute '88

Fifty-two male and female seniors made up the spirited group that ventured together for a week of hiking, camping, and enjoying the beautiful scenery of Yosemite National Park. Although at times students felt that the end of the week would never come, all would agree that it was an irreplacable experience.



The Year In Review

It was a year, and what a year it was. The earthquake that turned the city upside down and the hours of seemingly endless earthquake drills that followed. A year filled with assemblies such as the S.P. Christmas Carol and a hypnotist. Michael Jackson made his "bad" comeback, and tigers learned how to "push-it." Oprah Winfrey filled television screens of students everywhere, and the Moonlighting saga continued on (and on and on.) The Trojans made their way to the Rose Bowl, while the Tigers just missed their first chance in CIF play in years. A parking lot was designated especially for seniors, and the school began to sponsor field trips for students again. The Key club opened up it's membership to females and a campus Christian organization was created. The library received a new security system, and the entire Boy's Gym and Roosevelt field were given a makeover. A student forum was created, and Homeroom came and went. It was a year filled with numerous Round Table fundraisers, and the most expensive Prom ever. One hundred and fifty students made the three hour journey to Lompoc to show Tiger spirit and support, while many made the infamous "Farm City" trip to the country. It was a year of music at lunch, and Dating Game's on the Tiger Patio. Students filled out questionnaires and were given computer dates. Tiger Topics married couples on Valentines Day and for the first year produced a video yearbook. This year was a busy one for all. For seniors it was a year of anticipation and waiting, for freshmen it was a year of new beginnings. It was filled with new friends, experiences and feelings for all. Yes, it was a year, and what a year it was.



Classes

While freshmen merely had to start outting pieces of their puzzles together, seniors had to think about completing the whole picture. To complete the puzzle is a four-year process, and although members of different classes were at different stages, that didn't create a barrier between classes. Although everyone had to struggle with the pieces that they'd chosen for themselves or were part of their year, together Tigers created a picture that was all their own.

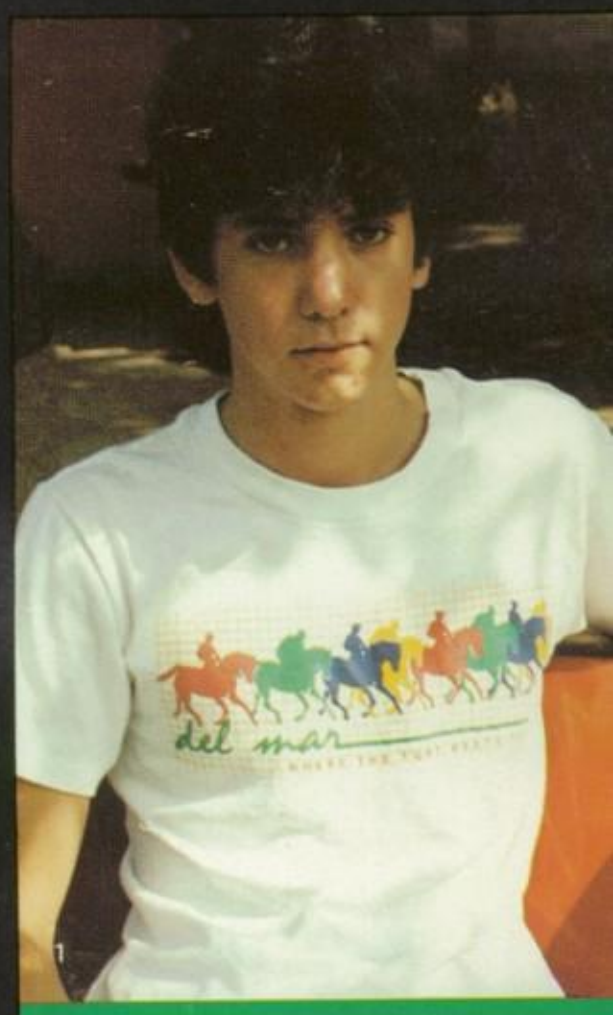
"Hey, you guys! Go to the Ice-breaker Dance!" Those words came from the mouths of Senior Class Officers the first week of school. Right at the beginning, the officers worked together to get the class of '88 off on the right foot. For example, at the start of the year the officers transformed the student parking lot into the elite senior parking lot.

The first major event of the year, Homecoming, came in November. All the officers worked together to unite the senior class and to elicit participation. Dedication and hard work were the key ingredients of the Senior Class Officers in conducting a spectacular homecoming! It took many class council meetings and work days, but it was all worth it!

Later in the year, the officers provided guidance in formulating the Commencement Committee. The Officers made sure all the responsibilities of the committee were met. These jobs included the Senior Breakfast and Baccalaureate.

Finally, with graduation, senior class officers faced their last big challenge. Josh Durfee, President; Mike Hemingway, Vice President; Jennifer Werner, Secretary; and Jeff Gildersleeve, Treasurer, helped to make the senior year a memorable one.



1. "This is not easy," says Josh Durfee, Senior Class President.
2. Jennifer Werner, Senior Class Secretary, listens attentively at a Leadership meeting.
3. "What's going on?" asks Mike Hemingway, Senior Class Vice-President.
4. "Here I am to save the day! Your Senior Class Treasurer, Jeff Gildersleeve!"

Roses Bloom in S.P.

More than eighty girls from South Pasadena High School competed in the Rose Court tryouts this year. In these tryouts, there were four cuts: quarter-finals, semi-finals, finals and then the court was chosen. Five girls from South Pasadena made the semi-finals this year. They were Jenny Butcher, Laura Goglia, Mary Rose Lacson, Jill Moses and Darlet Yee. From there, Laura Goglia and Jill Moses went on to the finals. Although there were no representatives from South Pasadena chosen for the 1988 Rose Court, all the Rose Court participants enjoyed themselves at the Rose Ball. The Rose Ball was held the night of October 2 in honor of the 1987 Queen and her court. It was held at the Pasadena Civic Center. As summed up by senior Alane Chang, "It was an exciting moment in my life that I don't think I'll ever forget."

"Tom and Jane sitting in a tree, K-I-SS-I-N-G.
First comes love, then comes marriage,
Then comes the baby in the baby carriage!"

Remember this rhyme? We used to run around chanting this back in grade school. Things got more serious in high school, though. We often saw couples wandering through the campus looking at one another with starry eyes. They walked side-by-side connected at the hands, arms, or lips.

The couples were the topic of gossip. There were various reactions to these enamoured couples. Whatever the case, the lives of couples played a major role in making a memorable year.

Our True Colors

If someone from another school came to visit SPHS on Friday, October 22, they would get an entirely different view of our school than if they came on the 21st or the 30th of October. Why? Well, think back to that freaky Friday when everyone, we're talking every senior at SPHS, came to school dressed in orange and black. Whether it was in their hair, on their shoes, or on their clothes, the colors were found everywhere. What day was it? COLOR DAY! Being the class of 88's last Color Day, the Senior Class did their best to make it their day. First, they won the spirit points for the assembly. Then they were awarded not just spirit points, but double spirit points for having the most class members dressed in orange and black. Al Hart, Commissioner of Assemblies, summed up the day by saying: "The whole day was a success and was capped off with the victory over Monrovia by the football team!"

1. "Go Tigers! C'mon, you can do it! Let's goooo!"
2. Song girls, Melissa Chang and Staci Chambers tell they're proud to be "Seniorz."
3. Raise your hands, if you're sure!

For the past four years, the class of '88 had worked together, played together, fought together and studied together. In this proximity, friendships had been built, torn down, and rebuilt. With the seeds of friendship planted in the freshmen year, the class of '88 had allowed ample time for friendships to blossom and many strong bonds were formed.

As seniors realized that a time of change was coming, they held on tight to the friends they knew. Many would not see each other for years to come. It was a sad thought for most, but the seniors also knew that many of the friendships built in high school would last forever. For those bonds which would loosen in the years to come, the class of '88 would always have its memories.

With the third year of closed campus in effect, crowded halls and patios were common on campus. As the year progressed, lunchtime became of prime importance; especially to the senior class.

Pep rallies, class competitions, and special activities like a S.P. dating game all served to bind the seniors together. When the class of '88 set out as the first freshmen class at S.P., they knew they would end their high school experience together. The spirit of the senior class was high and lunchtime helped to prove it.

Remember way back when we all had this crazy notion, as little boys and girls, to go off and join the circus? Well, the seniors of 1987-88 were given the chance to live out this childhood dream during Homecoming.

Everything that could be found at a circus, whether it was a clown, a lion, a dancing bear, or even a ticket to the circus, could be found on Senior Homecoming Day. With a theme of "Under the Big Top", the seniors gathered under the big top at lunch. There the noontime activities began. Stunts were performed, prizes were distributed, and much food was consumed.

Hallo! It's Homecoming!

To the freshmen it was new and exciting. To the sophomores and juniors it was fun, yet expected. To the seniors, though, Homecoming Week was their last and consequently, their best.

Every event, from the crowning of Ashley Cunningham as Homecoming queen at the assembly, to the bellydancer who performed to the Arabian Nights theme added to the special feeling of this being the last Homecoming the seniors would ever experience as high school students.

The day was topped off with the Varsity Football game that night. Though SP lost, the atmosphere was still filled with excitement as seniors watched the returning SPHS alumni knowing that next year they would also be watching the game, not as seniors, but as former SPHS students.

It was a sad yet happy day, certainly none of the seniors would ever forget.

It wasn't just an outrageous haircut, an outlandish way of dressing, a matter of different people from different places or mixed beliefs or creeds. For the senior class, individuality was all of these things and more. It was an attitude towards life.

"We believed in ourselves as individuals and wanted to show everybody that we were different," said senior David Lewis. All in all, the senior class was a diverse group made up of all walks of life.

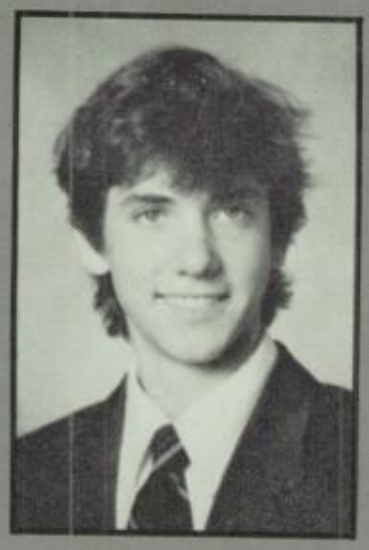
Weldon Fair Play Award

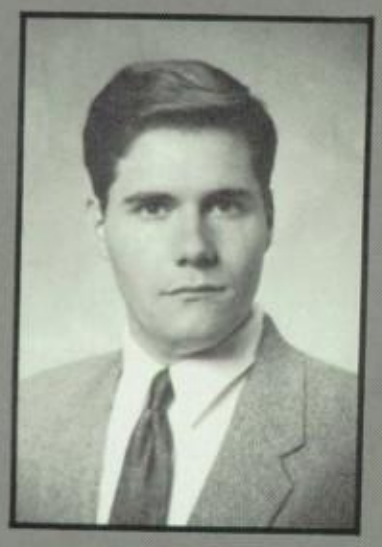
Jennifer Lynn Butcher



Joshua Michael Durfee

Robert Porter Lewis

Kathy Khanh Nguyen



Patrick Bernard Sternal

One of the highest honors an SPHS Senior can receive is to be awarded the Weldon Fair Play Award. This year six seniors were chosen by their peers and the faculty for this honor. These seniors were noted for their outstanding academic excellence, extracurricular involvement, and magnetic personality. These distinguished individuals were awarded a gold pin, a certificate, and were given the honor of having their name engraved on the Weldon Fair Play loving cup. The Weldon Fair Play Award recognizes these six notable seniors from the Class of 1988.

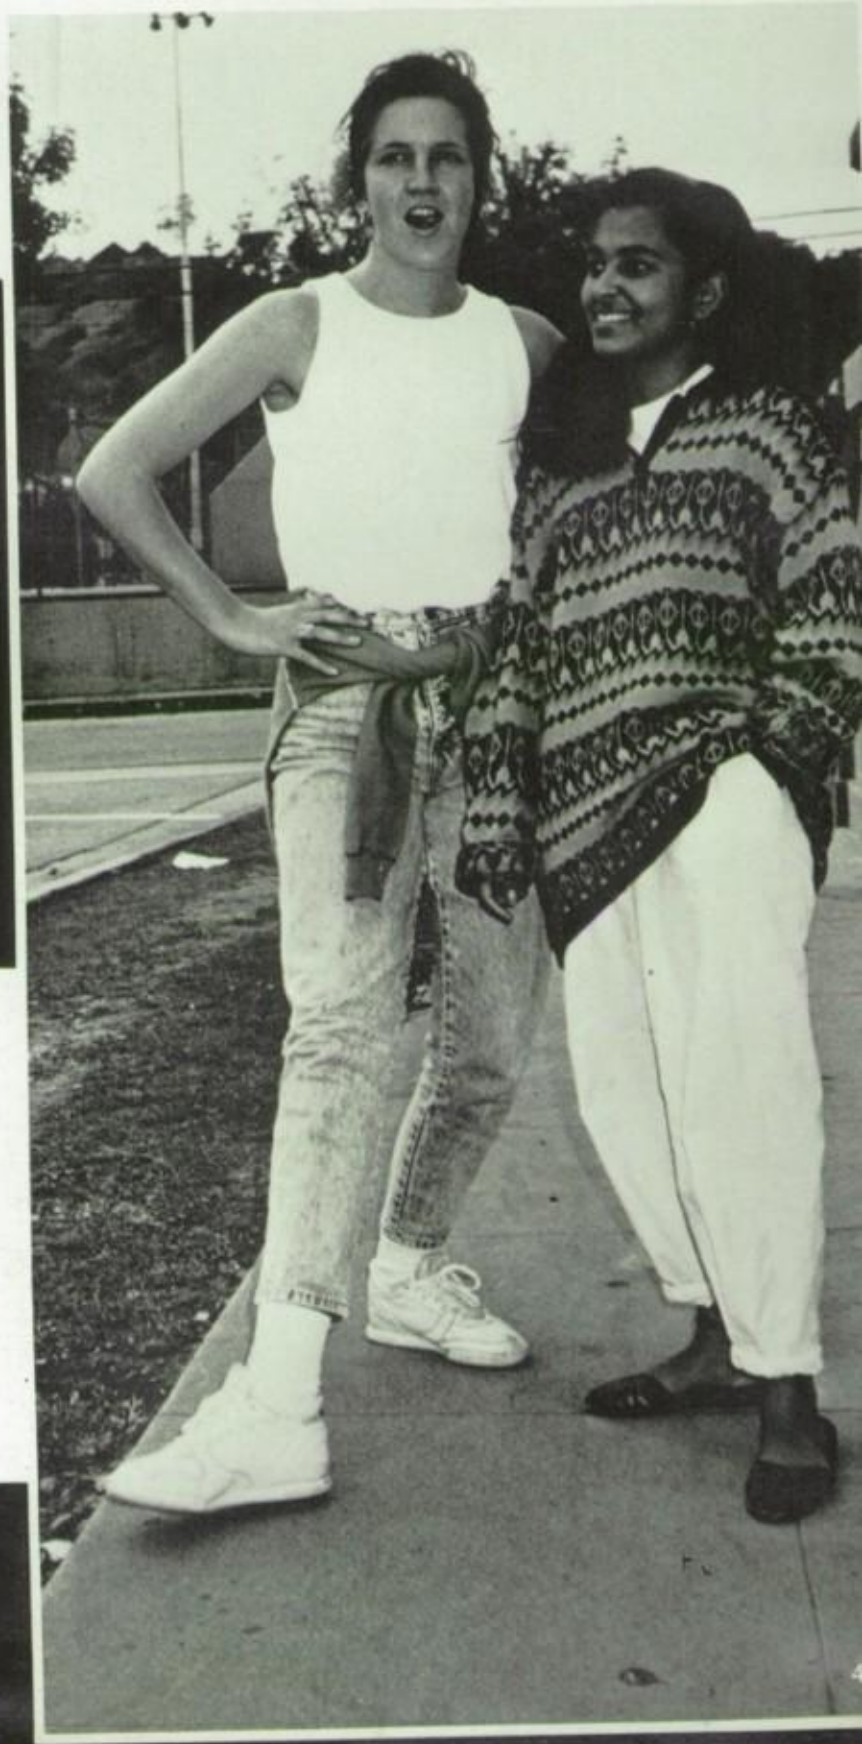
Darlet Mei Lam Yee

National Merit Finalist

In their junior year the class of 1988 was required to take the PSAT. Sutdents who did extremely well qualified to compete in the National Merit Scholarship competition. After achieving commended status, Jeff Fehervari and Kathy Nguyen were announced as finalists. Congratulations on your achievement!

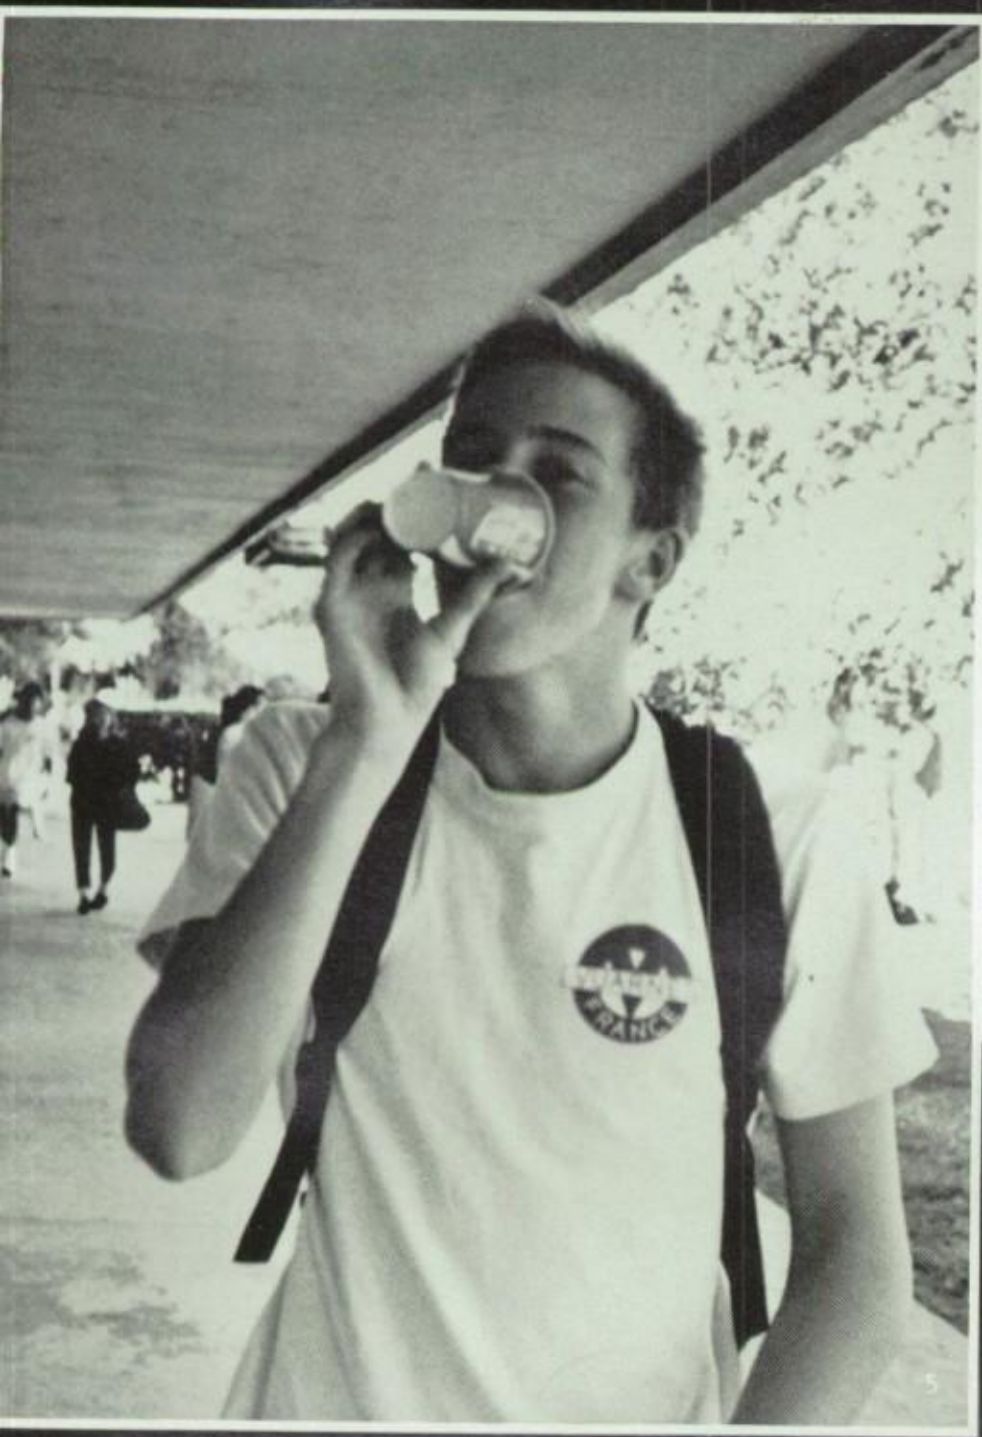
National Merit Finalists: Kathy Nguyen and Jeff Fehervari.

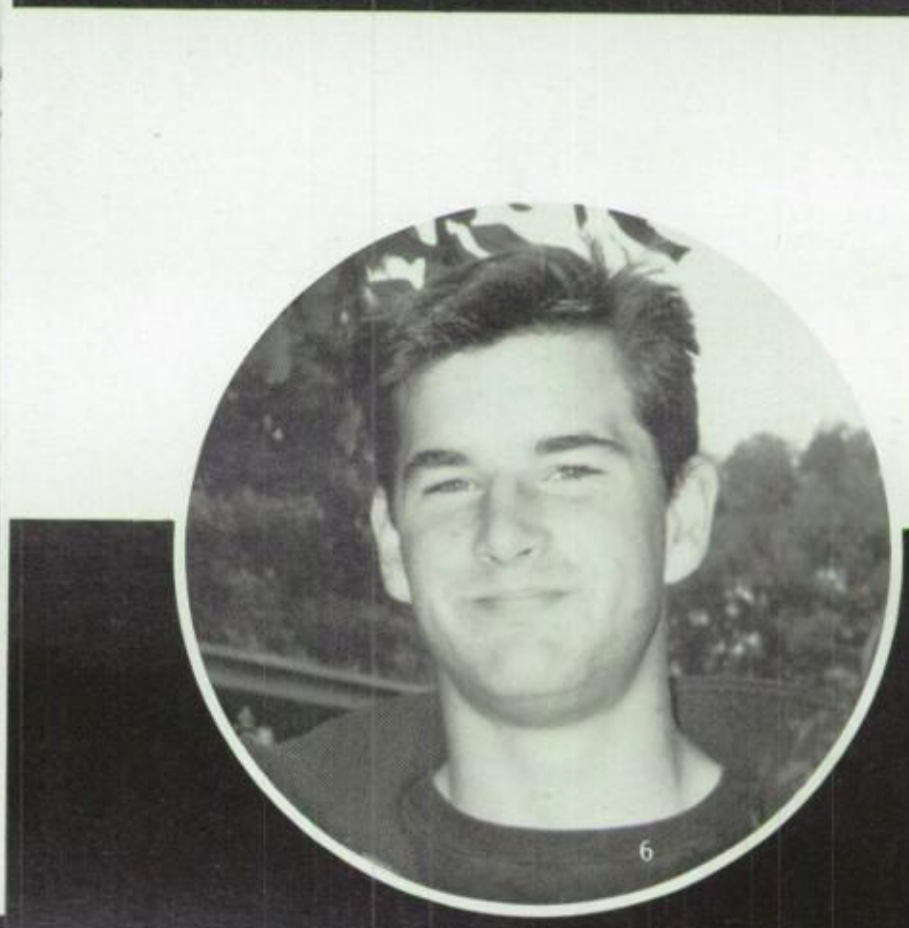
Juniors on a Tune of Harmony



Juniors started their year on a tune of harmony. They greeted each other with smiling faces; and as past friendships were renewed, new friendships blossomed.

It was every junior's destiny to face new challenges in their critical year of high school. Despite their new courses, the juniors found time to participate in school activities, such as sports, clubs, and fundraisers with great enthusiasm and energy.





1. Robert Castro and friend are staring at a freshman.
2. Kit Bellamy is happily relaxed on her hammock.
3. Valerie Tyler, Brian Sturzenacker, Stacey Foley, Carol Hawkins and Tracey Walker are a happy bunch.
4. Jennifer Brandin is telling Munia Bhaumik about her wonderful day at school.
5. Murphy McCann enjoys the great taste of Coca-Cola.
6. Aaron Britt pauses to smile for his girlfriend.
7. Jenny Liu, Tara Akashi, and Rita Wong show their pearly whites.

Back to Back in Orange and Black

1. Sascha Lutter, Jennifer Garcia, Gabriella Anorve, Chrystie Vaughn, Shelley Pinn, Jennifer Brandin, Danielle Beebe, Claudia Martinez, Jennifer Flora, Mindy Lizardi, and Jennifer Ard are Tiger Cavewomen.
2. The Junior Class show their spirit during the Color Day assembly.
3. Laura Chow, Sue Yokoyama, Jennifer Norling and Nisha Ganatra show their tiger spirit and friendship.

As Color Day 1987 came around, the Juniors came back to back in orange and black. Juniors wore everything from simple orange shirts and black pants to more spunky and electrifying outfits.

Throughout the Color Day Assembly, it was no surprise to the other classes that the spirit of the Junior class was so high. "We were finally able to show our true spirit," said William Chang. Indicating that the Juniors have come together as a whole.

The Junior Class of 1987-1988 was fortunate to have such a dynamic group of officers. At the beginning, the Junior Class was searching for two elusive and seemingly unattainable goals: money and spirit. Yet, at the year progressed, the junior class officers took command of the problems and led the class of 1988 to success.

Raising money became of prime importance to the Junior officers as they struggled to sponsor one of the most expensive proms in recent years. One goal of the officers was to keep the overall price of the prom low. They succeeded with a barriage of fund-raisers for students and community members. The junior class officers were determined to pull off one of the best JuniorSenior Proms ever.

Juniors Walk Of Fame

The stars of the junior class made their acting debuts Homecoming Week as they participated in Hollywood Day. Junior Homecoming was characterized by unique and eye-catching decorations based on different Hollywood movie themes. The Tiger Patio was transformed into the Mann's Chinese Theater for one day. Other patios boasted horror themes and Western buildings. A walk of fame ran through the school from end to end with names of every junior at SPHS. All in all, the famed Hollywood Day provided an atmosphere of festivity and excitement as Junior Homecoming opened the Homecoming Week.

Many juniors have knocked over the barriers of U.S. History and exploded into chemistry with such scientists such as Einstein. U.S. History is one of the most difficult courses that juniors must pass to meet for graduation requirements. One assignment that they were given by Mr. Grillo was to visually memorize the faces of many historians. Yes, a challenge it was. Potions in motion in chemistry was always an experience to students who had a desire to work with chemicals and learn theories discovered by our forefathers. In this course the students worked with sulfur, a odor that they will never forget.

Juniors were a class of their own. They were a diverse and unique group of people. The Junior Class has put forth a lot of energy and effort to make its year a successful one. Many juniors have begun the process of preparing for the future. They have begun by taking time out to investigate career opportunities and colleges. As the Junior Class Editor, I extend best wishes to the Class of 1989 and for a successful future.

The 1988 Senior/Junior Prom began in the slow month of March with preparations made by the junior Prom Committee. Its duties: to plan the theme, organize decorations, put out a newsletter, and most of all, create a gnawing excitement in the student body. And all was done . . . in an "elegant" fashion.

The Prom Committee decided to pay the added cost of having a disc jockey and a band. Money was also no object in the purchase of many decorations such as balloons, streamers, bows, flowers, and blinking lights. Publicity for the gala occasion reached a feverish pitch and the students responded with a successful sale of tickets.

The glitter and glamour of Prom night was brought together at the Biltmore Hotel in downtown Los Angeles on April 30th. It was a night of dining and dancing amid the "elegant" background of one of the most prestigious and renowned hotels in Los Angeles. The ambience, further enhanced by the many decorations hung by the Committee, was simply breathtaking. And as the Prom drew to a spectacular close, the night had just begun.

Leaders of the Pack

Enthusiastic and hard working are words that described this year's sophomore class officers. President Sheri Bunn, Vice President Aaron Sherinian, Secretary Jason Turner, and Treasurer Rachel Wackerman started the year off with a bang.

Together they threw a sophomore social at the beginning of the year. They organized class competitions, Homecoming, class council meetings, and fundraisers. The sophomore class itself mirrored their officers all the way with outstanding participation and spirit.

Along with Sophomore Class Adviser Mr. Gordon Suzuki, the officers worked very hard to make their sophomore year the best it could be. Through fundraisers such as selling T-shirts, selling Halloween grams, and the Sophomore Dance, sophomores were able to see how dedicated and hard working their officers were.

Sophomore Class President Sheri Bunn reiterated the dedication of the officers by stating, "The officers had high hopes for a great year. They worked hard and showed a lot of spirit."

With a Little Help From My Friends

Friendships united the sophomore class in an unforgettable way. Everyone felt a sense of belonging.

As new friendships blossomed, old friendships remained strong and intact. Friends supported each other, comforted each other, and just had fun. A friend would always be there for you, listen to all that you had to say, and see only the good things in you.

Sophomores bonded together as a result of the friendships. These bonds were strengthened by the school year itself. Friends helped each other in surviving Asian Cultures' stress, finals week, and the PSAT. They helped to make the year a memorable one. Everyone "gets by with a little help from their friends."

Somewhere Over The Rainbow Is . . .

"We're off to see the Wizard, the wonderful Wizard of Oz." Indeed, the sophomores were off to see the Wizard. This year's Homecoming theme, "The Land of Oz" was very successful. The Commission judged the sophomores' decorations to be the best of Homecoming Week. The Tiger Patio was decorated as the Emerald City, while the campus itself was decorated with flowers and lollipops.

One was clearly able to see the high spirit and "togetherness" of the sophomore class through Homecoming. Many sophomores showed their school spirit by dressing up for their theme. The costumes ranged from "Dorothy" to "The Yellow Brick Road". Munchkins, The Lollipop Gang, flowers, and witches were also seen strolling around campus. "Togetherness" was displayed by the activities at lunch. These activities included a tornado spin, in which dizzy contestants tried to walk around cones, and a four-legged race. Sophomores also enjoyed refreshments such as ice cream, punch, cake, and lollipops.

Say You, Say Me

"One of the things I enjoy most about our school is friendship. Friends at SPHS always seem to stand by each other strongly through tough times. Without friendship, it would be impossible to survive."

Harold Kim

"Diversity and SPHS are basically synonyms. It's this unique quality that I like best about SPHS. The incredible sense people have regarding their own individuality adds so much to our school. Because people openly recognize this, we are an amazingly close class, close community, and school family . . . and remember . . . families are forever!"

Aaron Sherinian

"What I like best about SPHS is the people-the faculty and students. The faculty is always there to help me in every way they can. The students are very remarkable and give the school a friendly atmosphere. I hope everyone realizes what a great school SPHS is!"

Jennifer Beedon

This year's sophomore class showed diversity and maturity. Sophomores had different morals and values. Some sophomores were geared more toward the academic side of school, while other sophomores were actively involved in extra-curricular activities. Of course, there were those sophomores that were involved in both. Despite this diversity, the sophomore class was very closely-knit and unified.

Maturity was revealed through the sophomores' attitudes toward school. They were aware that college was approaching and that they would have to start preparing for it. When asked what they liked best about SPHS, the following six sophomores displayed admiration and respect for the people who make SPHS the great school it is- the students and the faculty.

With all the controversies and setbacks, we've somehow taken them into stride and used them to make the level of spirit higher. The feeling in the atmosphere of this school is really indescribable."

Sang-Youn Cho

"SPHS is a very unique school. It's really small, but I like it that way. You're familiar with so many faces, and you can't walk down the halls without seeing someone you know. It really makes you feel comfortable."

Jenna Bruner

"The best thing about SPHS is the wonderful assortment of people. As a student attending SPHS, I've had the opportunity to associate with the most interesting and diverse bunch of people. I really enjoy meeting a variety of people with different interests."

Sophia Louie

We'll Be Together . . .

Involved was one of the many words that described the sophomore class. Sophomores wanted to become as involved as they could in school activities such as class council, aides, and clubs. They wanted to become better acquainted with their fellow classmates, as well as assist their school. Activities conducted outside of school such as community service were also performed.

Getting involved gave sophomores a sense of achievement and a better perspective of the world around them. As Tommy Blanchard summed up, "Involvement is what high school is all about. Involvement changes your thoughts and therefore the world around you. Making things easy during high school is a sign of weakness, while trying a little bit of everything can only make you stronger. Involvement is feeling needed and needing something."

We Do What We're Told . . .

For most colleges and universities, the sophomore year was the first year that "counted." Sophomores were well aware of this fact. They studied and tried to do their best in all of their classes. Sophomores were seen studying in the library, in the patios, and of course in study halls. Some sophomores were preparing for long-term assignments, while others were quickly glancing over material before a test. No matter what the assignment was, most sophomores budgeted their time wisely, and were on top of their schoolwork.

Some of the challenges that sophomores encountered were the PSAT, Asian Cultures, and physics. Taking the PSAT allowed sophomores to plan for their academic career. Asian Cultures was a very unique class. The class involved keeping a box full of note cards, and taking careful notes. The tests were very lengthy. Physics was also an experience. It involved many equations and a logic that was sometimes illogical. Despite these challenges, sophomores survived, and thus learned a little bit more about themselves.

Be Yourself Tonight

I, Me, Myself. Individuality was colored by the sophomore class by different accessories. Hats, shoes, hair one was able to see the out of the ordinary accessories as they were displayed by sophomores who wanted to be noticed. Sophomores were trying to make a very simple statement, "This is me." These people added to the already diverse sophomore class, as well as to SPHS as a whole.

Besides those individuals who openly displayed their individuality, there were those that wanted to be "noticed" in a different, more subtle manner. Sophomores came from all walks of life from surfers to punkers. Yet, all of these sophomores were bonded by a simple concept: they were themselves, and they always would be.

2. Ronny Kwong's hair style displays his individuality.

As the sophomore year came to a close, the sophomores anticipated their junior year, the first year they would be considered "upperclassmen." They also had planning the prom to look forward to. Although it was sad leaving the sophomore mode of life, sophomores knew that it was time to move on to "bigger and better things." They were maturing. Friends and family would always be there for advice and support in the future. The memories, good and bad, would always be in the minds of the maturing sophomore class. This layout is dedicated to the memories of being a sophomore in the 1987-88 school year at SPHS.

1. The class officers exchange ideas before a class council meeting.
2. Tony de Cardenas sits down to tie his shoe.
3. Sophomores help each other on an English assignment.
4. These sophomores will be friends forever.
5. Kelly Snow and Natasha Schorling enjoy Homecoming activities.
6. Jay Carlton smiles for the camera before getting into Asian Cultures.
7. A group of friends pose for the camera at lunch.

FRESHMEN ENCOUNTER . . .

The Freshmen Class got off to a roaring start as they began their year filled with a mixture of both anticipation and anxiety. Anticipation was due to the exciting aspect of high school life: Color Day, Homecoming, clubs, and lunchtime activities. Anxiety was due to the newness of high school life: new teachers, a different campus, and a new atmosphere with different people.

Most freshmen were positive in their attitude toward high school. They enjoyed the freedom of numerous privileges and the inspiration that a change of pace and environment brings-something they were not used to at the Junior High School.

Freshmen Henry Chan said: "I am really looking forward to these upcoming years . . . I feel that the Class of '91 will grow in these years."

1. Jason McFarland and Justin Veach enjoy brunch together as they study their cafeteria food.
2. Kerry Edsall steps into the beat of high school life during brunch as she heads toward her friends.
3. Walking to class, David Hsia studies his Latin homework while Richard Steele observes him curiously.

OFFICERS EXEMPLIFY ENTHUSIASM

President Henry Chan, Vice-President Mike Ahn, Treasurer Ivan Choi, and Secretary Denise Ravatt served the Freshmen Class as they dedicated themselves to promoting spirit and memorable class activities. Officers held a Frosh-soph dance after the football game in September and together decided their Homecoming theme would be Jungle Day. They also planned fundraisers like Pizza Night and candy sales.

In addition, the officers had high aspirations for their class. They wanted to get off to a good start in high school as a class and encourage their classmates to be involved. Vice-President Mike Ahn put his feelings simply: "I hope the Class of '91 will add to the spirit of S.P.H.S."

1. "At first high school was tough, but after you get used to it, I'm glad we're going to be here for three more years"- President Henry Chan
2. "I'm looking for love in all the wrong places ..."- Vice-President Mike Ahn
3. "This is going to be a heck of a four years"-Treasurer Ivan Choi.
4. "The next four years are going to be hard, but I think I'll live. It'll be fun"-Secretary Denise Ravatt.

Freshmen Homecoming:

Jungle Day was the wild Freshmen Homecoming theme which turned out to be so successful. Many Freshmen showed an elaborate display of costumes. They came dressed as Janes and Tarzans, bananas, natives with face paint, human trees, zebras, lions, and safari people.

The noontime activities included a tricky obstacle course complete with water buckets, oranges, bananas, and a lot of exciting competition and inter-class teamwork. On the patios Freshmen set up scenes depicting monkeys hanging from vines of ivy, a pig being roasted over a spit, many tall trees, many huts, and lots of bushes.

What was most impressive about the day, though, was the enthusiasm and wide participation among the Freshmen Class.

1. Demetrio Williams and Henry Chan comment and observe the noontime activities with amusement.
2. Paige Durivage takes part in the noontime activities with excitement while Joanne Vanderwall chooses to be calm.
3. Anthony Aguilera watches Ruth Baskett as she smiles to the camera among her friends.
4. Layla Wells, dressed as a jungle woman, shows her "wild" spirit.
5. Dennis Wang and Jason Patterson exhibit their elaborate homecoming costume.
6. Sasheen Montano enjoys her Hi-C drink while watching the noontime activities.

What is a really good friend? That question was asked to several freshmen. All of them agreed that friends were an important part of their school lives. Here is what some freshmen value in friends:

-"A friend is someone I can trust. Also, it is someone that I know would help me if I really needed it."

-Sasheen Montano

-"Friends are nice people who don't tease you, except jokingly. They're also fun to be around."

-Todd Yamanka

-"A friend is someone who is loyal, honest, and trustworthy. Also, a friend is someone who is funny and can make you laugh."

-Tina Bengston, Ursula Kubal, Marsha Wong

-"Friends are people you can borrow money from, go places with, and get in trouble for fun."

-Jim Kunz, Pat Frye, Jason Johnson

The Freshmen spirit was lively and far-reaching. Their enthusiastic involvement in Color Day, Homecoming, Beach Day, noontime activities, and at sporting events proved the Freshmen Class to be very committed and vivacious. One freshman said that "my spirit has changed from last year; I have so much more." Another freshman said that she enjoyed being part of class activities and showing her class spirit.

The Class of '91 proved to be a strongly spirited and unified class. This spirit and unity will carry them through their high school years with many valuable and lasting memories.

For Cheerfulness!!!

The animation of the Freshman Class showed itself in their involvement and cheerfulness. Cheerfulness was important to the freshmen because it made the rough spots of the year like finals, Mondays, long lunch lines, and rainy days with minimal shelter easier to deal with. Their smiles, laughter, and energy all contributed to a lively first year for not only themselves, but for the other classes as well.

Academic

Academics were an important part of high school life because they were the most challenging, most important, and most time-consuming part of the school day. Freshmen were given the opportunity to take many new courses not available at the Junior High School. Such new courses included French, German, Latin, and Spanish. Other courses also included journalism, Peer Counseling, swimming, photography, and European History, all newer classes available to Freshmen. All of these classes were available to enrich and enhance the academic life of a freshman.

Finals week was also a new part of their academic life. For most Freshmen, finals were terrifying because they had never experienced intense two-hour testing periods and the amount of studying required for success on the finals. However, finals were getting the freshmen ready for the type of tests they will be taking in college.

The first year of high school is perhaps the most memorable. This is because high school is such a new, and at times, exciting experience. There were many activities that the freshmen could be involved in like clubs, noontime activities, athletic events, pep rallies, and sports teams. Other important aspects of the freshmen year were being with friends, meeting new people, and becoming involved. These pictures hopefully depict most of these precious memories that could only happen during freshman year.

1. Freshmen boys discuss the hottest issue and the latest fads during lunchtime.
2. The entire Freshman Class united together dur- the Color Day Assembly in the Boys' Gym.

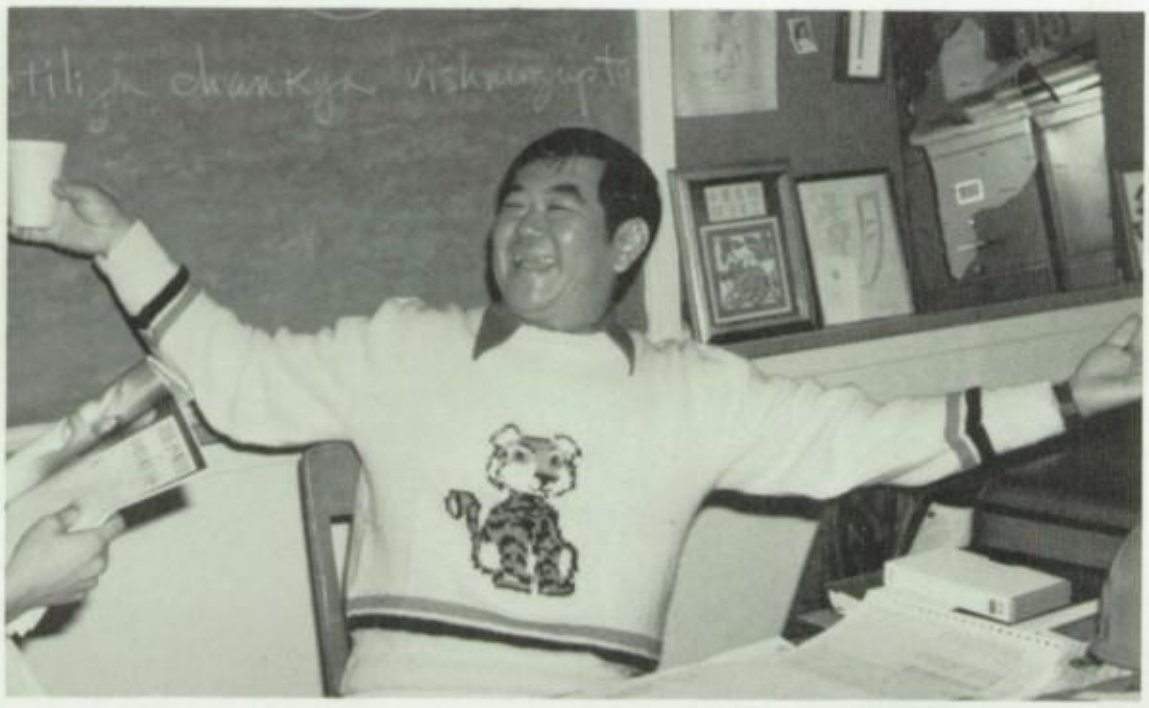
Faculty

The faculty and staff of SPHS were important elements in helping students put their puzzles together. Counselors guided students in their choices of classes and college, while each teacher helped the students in certain courses, such as Algebra, Biology, or English. The jobs of the teachers were not restricted to teaching. Many acted as advisors of clubs and other extracurricular activities. Let's not forget the aides, secretaries, cafeteria workers, and janitors. They kept the school running smoothly.

Give Me A Break



Support From The Board

1987-88 School Board Members: Mrs. Joan Sturkie, Mr. Bob Smiland, Mrs. Susan La Combe, Dr. Louie S. Joseph, Mrs. Yvonne Pine, and Mrs. Ellen Hervey.

The South Pasadena School Board was the sounding board of ideas for SPHS students and members of the community. Although the meetings were open to the public, the high school students were primarily represented by Commissioner of Internal Affairs Patrick Sternal. Five other members completed the board: Bob Smiland, Joan Sturkie, Susan La Combe, Ellen Hervey, and Yvonne Pine. They were assisted by new superintendent Dr. Louie S. Joseph.

The school board began the year dealing with such issues as trying to establish a more effective and open interaction among the schools and the community, and making a commitment to improve classroom instruction. The board also looked into improving the compsition and creative writing programs of the District's schools. All in all, the school board had a successful year in improving the high educational standards of South Pasadena schools.

Leaders Of The Pack

With the beginning of the 1987-88 school year, the administration looked forward to improve its relationship with the students. The year began with the addition of homeroom. Designed by vice-principal Jack Smith, homeroom was a step to improve communication between the school and the students.

The year also began with a change in the citizenship system. A new program of satisfactory and unsatisfactory ratings were used instead of points. A satisfactory status was to be maintained or a student's eligibility for extracurricular activities would be jeopardized.

Though the past school year was challenged with many problems, principal Ben Ramirez, along with vice-principals Phyllis Miller and Jack Smith, continued to work hard to keep South Pasadena High School a pleasant place to learn.

Help On The Way

Mrs. Nora Paredes Giedt

Ms. Janet W. Miller

Every student at SPHS went to see his counselor at least once this year. It seemed like at least a hundred times to the counselors though. Even with the addition of new counselor Mrs. Victoria van Tamelen, the counselors were always busy trying to keep up with all the requests of the students.

About two months into the school year, counselor Ms. Janet Miller was promoted to the job of South Pasadena District's School Psychologist. This meant that Mrs. Nora Giedt, Mrs. Terry Salardino, and Mrs. van Tamelen had to double their efforts to deal with the workload.

Never complaining about the hard work, the counselors kept to their promises of meeting with every student who needed help to ensure a problem-free student body.

Heads Of The Class

The faculty members at SPHS were devoted to giving quality instruction to the student body. Even though some teachers had to teach challenging honors and A.P. courses, they tried to make the learning fun for their students. Mr. Goto for example, showed off his unusual way of lecturing about Asian Cultures to a new batch of sophomores, while Mr. Ukropina displayed his talent of carefree teaching to Advanced Algebra students.

Some teachers also took the time to participate in extra-curricular activities. Mr. Cuccia and Mr. Klein were responsible for SPHS's great football and basketball teams, while others like Mrs. Ercek and Mr. Penn were advisors of campus clubs.

Dress For The Job

The teachers demonstrated their enthusiasm and camarderie with their strong participation on Homecoming Day. Their dress-up theme was "What I Would Be If I Wasn't A Teacher." Many teachers came up with creative and original ideas. Mr. Ring for example, dressed up as a lumberjack, while Mrs. Huber showed off her professional baseball outfit.

During the lunchtime picnic, some teachers displayed their Homecoming spirit by being the victims of the sponge toss booth. Because of the success of their dress-up day, the teachers proved to the student body that they too can have fun and show off that wonderful Tiger spirit.

Mr. Papadakis has second thoughts of being a victim of the sponge toss.

Problems Being Solved

Teachers were always willing to help students with their academic problems. If a student had a problem with a certain concept, his teacher always tried to make time to give a little extra help. Some teachers even offered special study sessions at night to help students prepare for tests.

Peer Counseling classes, headed by Mrs. Luce and Mr. Cox, taught students how to handle the problems of their friends. This class enabled students to help their peers arrive at resolutions independent from those of their families.

New Faces In Old Places

Despite a cutback in funds this year, SPHS still managed to hire six highly-qualified new teachers. The science and math departments received the services of Mrs. Valerie Huber, Mr. Jeff Klein, and Mrs. Margaret Kwong. Mrs. Huber, the computer science instructor, had experience as a former ROP teacher of computer applications. Mr. Klein played a dual role as Marine Science teacher and boy's basketball coach. Mrs. Kwong accepted a teaching position in algebra as she moved from Monterey Hills elementary school. The English department was boosted with the return of Mrs. Candy Taylor and the addition of Mrs. Carol Jones. Mrs. Jones filled a vacancy in the drama department as well. A student teacher, Ms. Jackie Halpin, joined the SPHS faculty under the tutelage of Mr. Peter Grillo. Ms. Halpin also was the new Pep advisor.

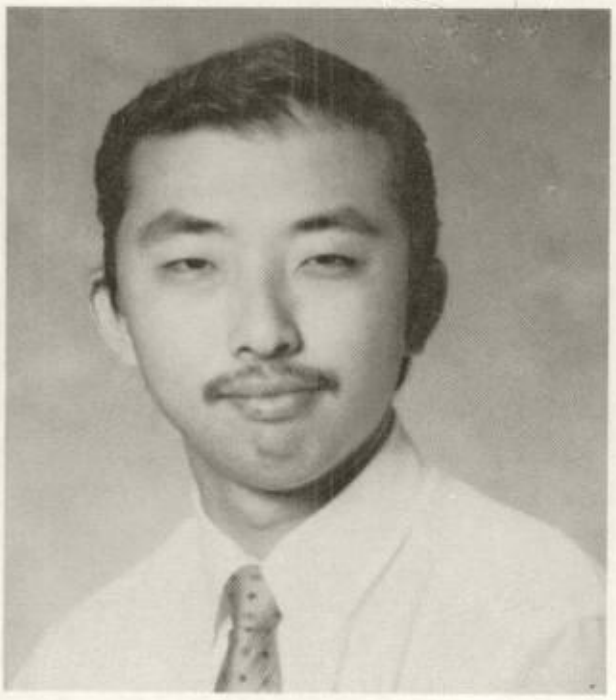
Aides Lend A Hand

Mrs. Glo Agustini



Mr. Bruce Mitsui

The tedious task involved with being a teacher was much assisted by four hard-working instructional aides. These behind-the-scenes individuals alleviated the work that needed to be done in the Special Education Department. The ESL program had the skills of Mr. Bruce Mitsui, who helped Mr. Lee teach english to students who were learning the new language for the first time. Mrs. Glo Agustini and Mrs. Anna Mumper were invaluable assets to Mrs. Alcocer and Mr. Suzuki in the special education classes. The two were responsible for giving students the little extra help that they needed. The job of tutoring individuals on certain subjects was taken by Mrs. Mary Lou Riddells.

Office Offers Assistance

The office at SPHS was always buzzing with excitement. At precisely 7:30 every morning, the windows opened, allowing the students to obtain admits for their absences. The office staff was responsible for handling numerous phonecalls, preparing the daily bulletin, processing admits, taking care of student attendance, making counselor appointments, and processing student transcript requests. They also have to give assistance to the administrators and teachers who needed a little extra help. Without the office personnel's hard work, the high school would not have been able to function as efficiently as it did.

Sources Of Information

Mrs. Foulger helps out on registration day.

Whenever a student needed information on colleges, scholarships, or test dates, the first place they went to was the SPHS Career Center. Mrs. Nancy Logg, Mrs. Helen Gonzalez, Mrs. Barbara Wright, and Mrs. Sue Boegh were responsible for scheduling the many college speakers and posting job opportunities for juniors and seniors. The four ladies also helped classes like Economics and SOS obtain many guest speakers throughout the year. The career center also provided ROP and Work Experience courses that gave students the opportunity to learn job skills.

The Library proved to be the "information center" of the campus. Mrs. Sandra Lujan, Mrs. Sharon Van Cleve, and Mrs. Gretchen Foulger were all very helpful in encouraging the use of the library as a source of information. Mrs. Lujan expressed her feelings that the purpose of the media center was to "provide a pleasant physical setting for students and staff to work with materials purchased to supplement the sc-ool's curriculum."

Service With A Smile

Because of the closed-campus policy, most SPHS students had to stay on campus during lunch. That meant that both the maintenance and cafeteria staff had to work harder to keep the campus clean and the students and staff happy.

The cafeteria staff provided a variety of nutritious foods for students at brunch and lunch. Not only did they have to serve the food, but prepare some of it as well. The staff also utilized vending carts to make the students' access to the food easier.

The custodial staff was responsible for keeping the campus in tip-top shape. They worked long, hard hours before, during, and after school to make sure that the campus and classrooms were in proper order.

Although the maintenance and cafeteria staff's efforts usually went unnoticed, they provided SPHS with good, dependable service.

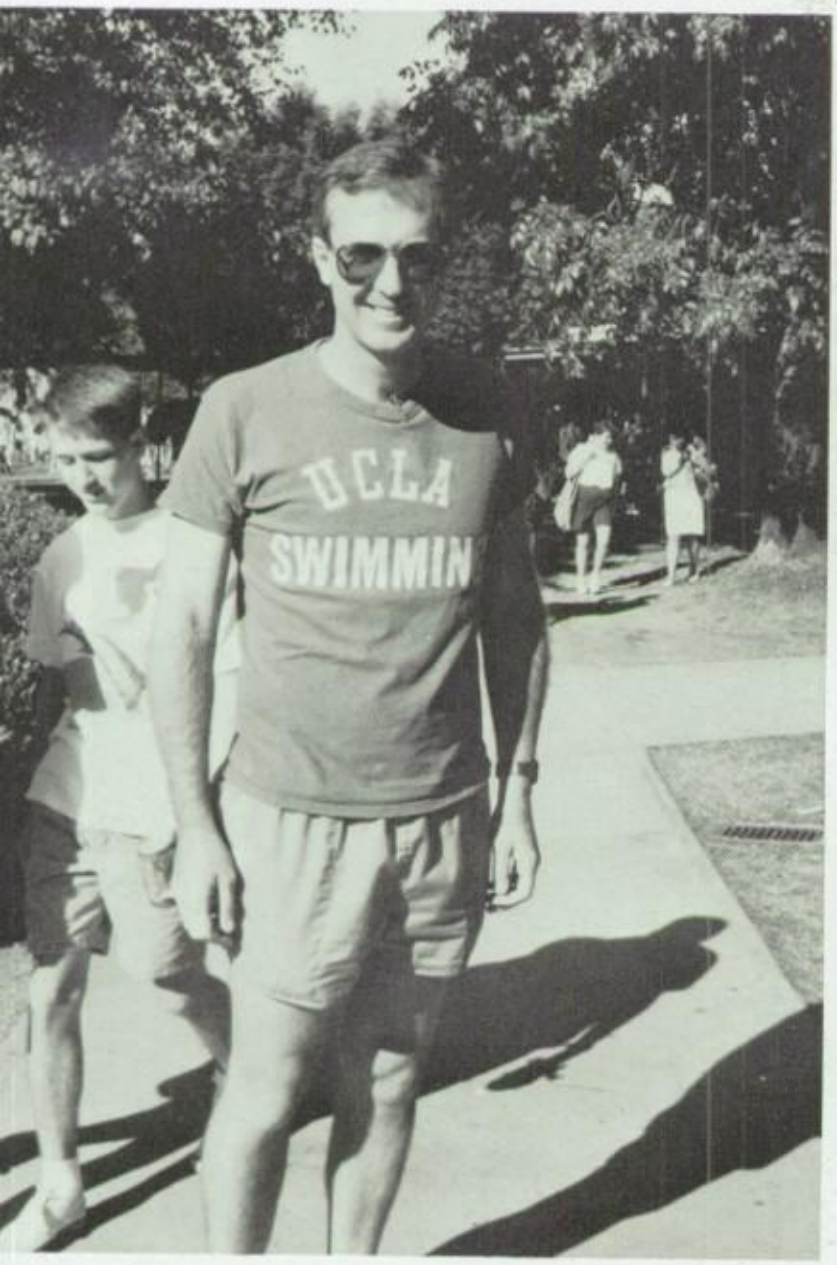
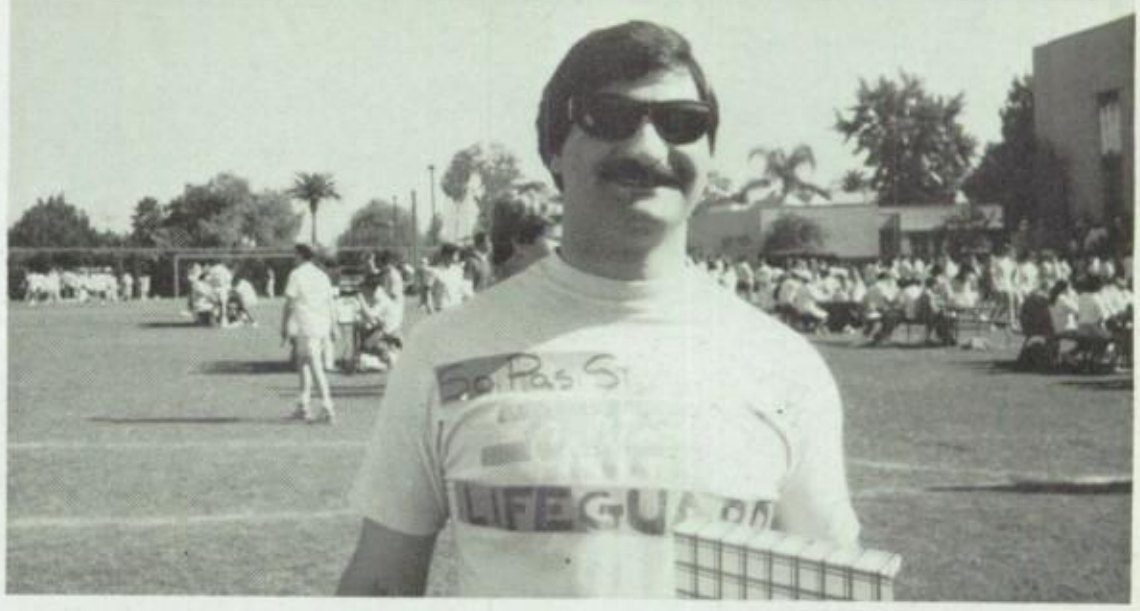
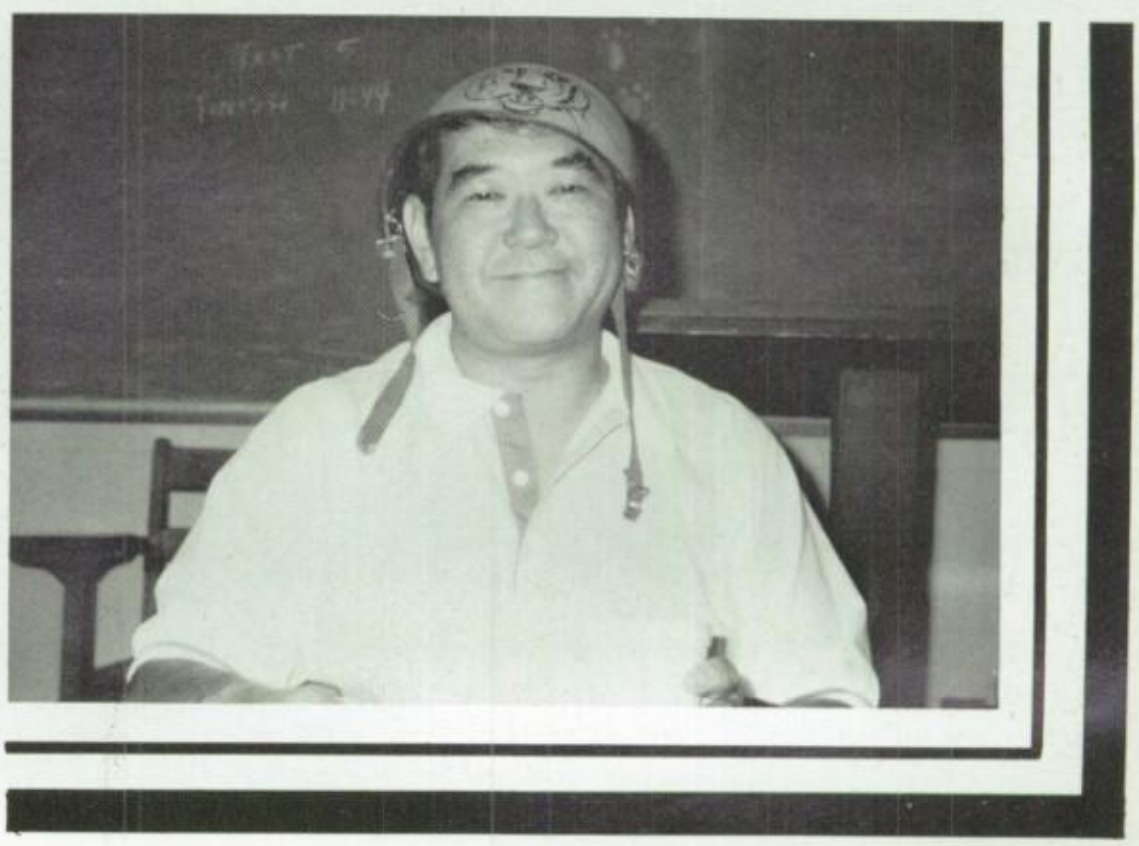
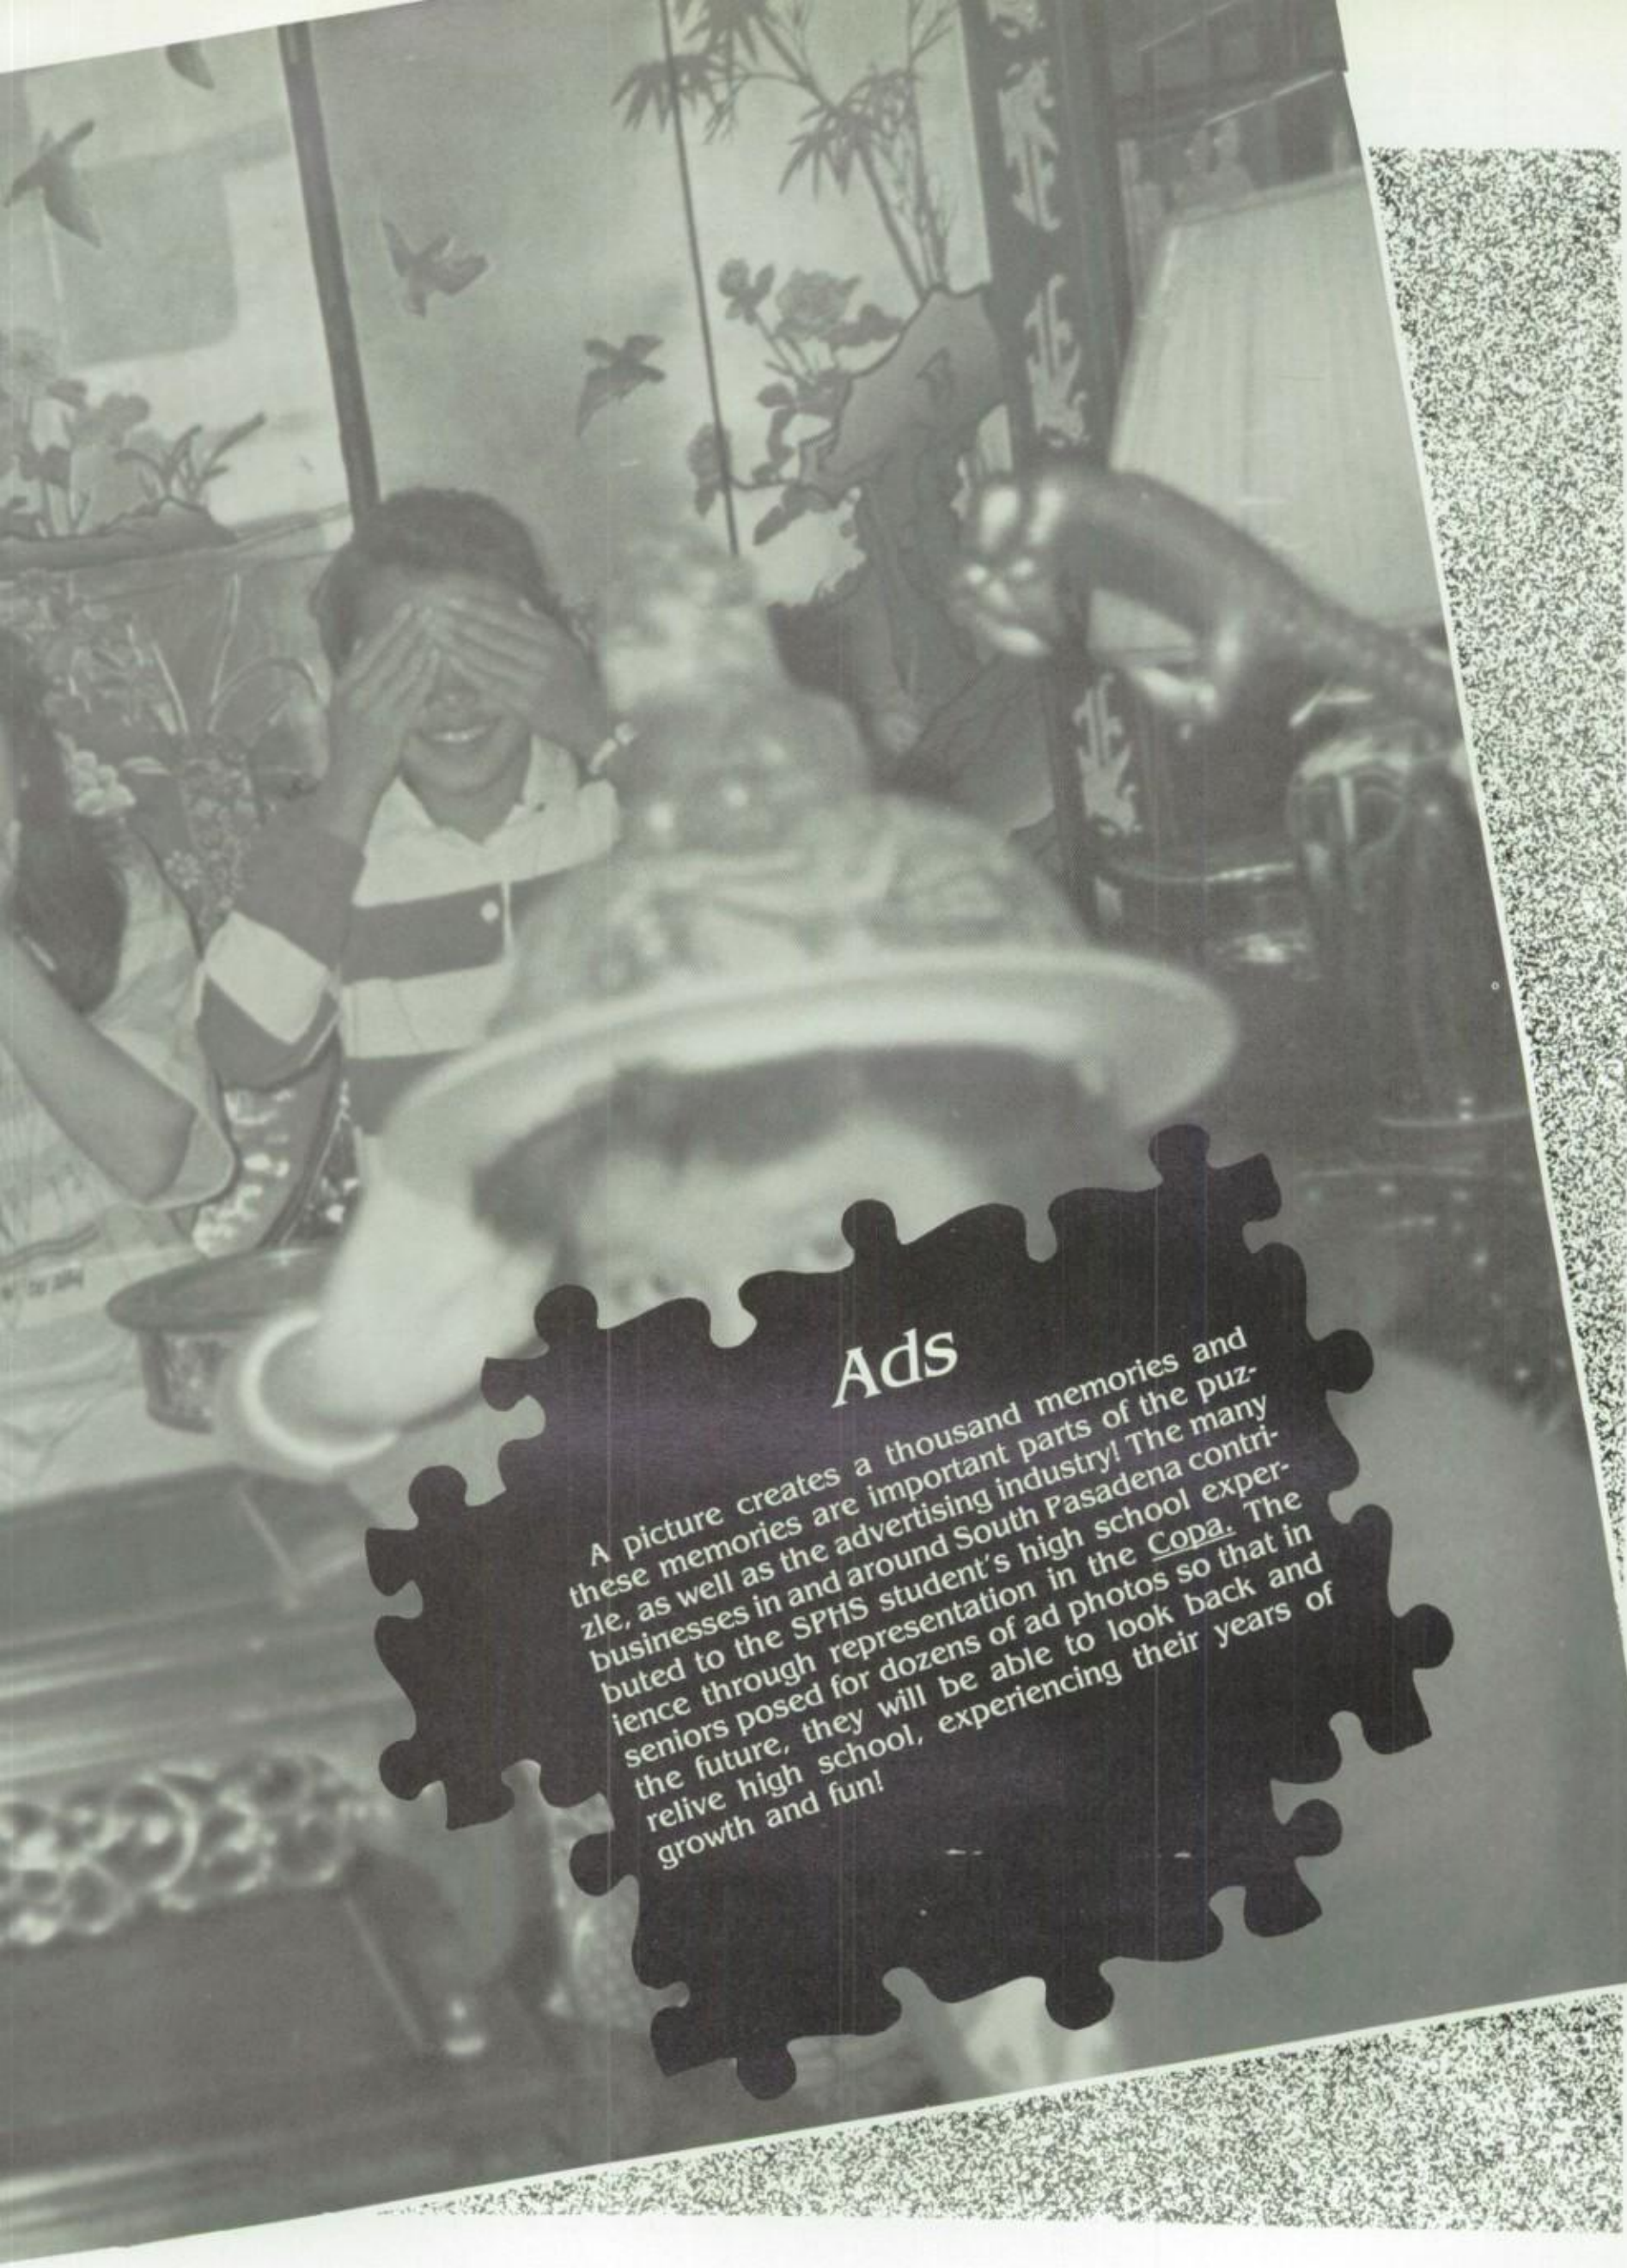
A Year To Remember









Ads

A picture creates a thousand memories and these memories are important parts of the puzzle, as well as the advertising industry! The many businesses in and around South Pasadena contributed to the SPHS student's high school experience through representation in the Copa. The seniors posed for dozens of ad photos so that in the future, they will be able to look back and relive high school, experiencing their years of growth and fun!

One who'll lend as quick as he'll borrow,
One who's the same today and tomorrow,
One who will share your joy and sorrow,
That's what I call a friend.
One when you're gone will miss you sadly,
One who'll welcome you back again gladly,
One who, though angered, will not speak madly,
That's what I call a friend.
One who's been fine when life seemed rotten,
One whose ideals you have not forgotten,
One who has given you more than he's gotten,
That's what I call a friend.
I love you all. — Camille

Faithful friends are hard to find, everyone is one of a kind.
There are some good things in life that fall not away with the rest. And, of all best things upon earth, I hold that a faithful friend is the best.
I want to thank all my friends for being so supportive through these four years. You guys mean the world to me and I love you all!!!!

"The glory of friendship is not the outstretched hand, not the kindly smile, nor the joy of companionship; it is the spiritual inspiration that comes to one when he discovers that someone else believes in him and is willing to trust him with his friendship"

To our dismay, Staci was snowed in in the mountains on the weekend of our food fight. As you can see, she's pretty upset about the whole thing.

Life is a puzzle; Time is the picture; People are the pieces, and feelings create the color. Throughout high school, I've been piecing my puzzle together. A piece with two heads, called the mess of Minds; a piece with three heads, The Three Pigs; a 'peace' of gossip; a piece of a flower; a blind piece of KOR; a piece with six heads that fly, called Flags; a piece of fungus, a.k.a King Cobra; a piece of gentle loving innocence; a piece of loving raisins; and last but not least, a piece of my reflection that has been with me through it all. Life is a circle of feelings

Your feelings go in a cycle of repetition; at one time you're happy and others you're sad. Now, I am both. My face smiles knowing it is time to grow and mature. Yet the glass eyes produce crystal tears of feeling knowing that I must let go of time. Thank You all, my friends. I love you.

Sincerely -Jules

. . . and then there were none.

With the graduation of the class of 1988 comes the end of an era from South Pasadena High School. The end of the Fox family era that is; an era that has spanned 17 years of the Fox Family actively involved in myriad activities at SPHS.

Amongst the many activities, honors and awards the Fox kids were involved in at SPHS are the following:

1 Weldon Award winner, 2 Junior Class Presidents, 3 American Field Service participants, 3 Key Club presidents, 1 Commissioner of Internal Affairs, 1 Varsity Football MVP, 4 Varsity Tennis players, 2 Varsity Track members, 2 Copa de Oro Sports Editors, 1 Homecoming Princess, 1 Junior Class Vice President, 1 Tigerette, 1 Junior Varsity Track member, 3 Junior Varsity Cross Country members, 1 Junior Varsity Soccer member, 2 California Scholastic Federation members, Kiwanis Club scholarship, Womens Club scholarship, Girls League scholarship not counting the numerous hours spent in volunteer activities throughout the community.

Thanks South Pasadena High School for the challenge and opportunities, but more importantly, thanks to MOM and DAD, we wouldn't have done it all without your support and guidance.

IN HONOR OF OUR MOTHER, MAMA JO, AND IN MEMORY OF OUR FATHER, WILLIAM, WE SAY SO LONG SOUTH PASADENA HIGH SCHOOL . . . THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES.

Flowers grow and bloom together
Reaching out to sun and sky
In wind and rainstorm still they blossom
Each one fragile, yet somehow
Nourished, strengthened by the others,
Drawing beauty from their life.

To all my friends: Wasn't that really what it was all about? We've grown so much since those freshman days-it's hard to believe that I've known you all for less than four years. You've taught me so much about trust, understanding, and feelings. The memories we've created so much more than that- they've helped us become the people we are today. I want to thank you all for the enormous support you've been to me, and your willingness to share the joy of a smile and pain of a tear. I know you guys understand what I'm saying, you always have. Thanks for showing me what true love really is. -We're in for a lot of new and exciting things-make the most of it all. You all have what it takes to be everything you want to be and more. Believing is magic. Take care. I love you.

This is the place where we must sever
You go thousands of miles my friend once forever
Like the floating clouds we drift apart
The sunset lingers like the feelings of my heart

Lisa,

This class had (Ref. #1)
been one of the more interesting classes I've had all year. Between Marcus, Danny, and Joe,
oh Don't forget Albert, and Jose. I feel like I'm in a whirlwind of Guys. Well the time has come to let you know how much I care about you. And I really do Lisa. Good luck with Marcus! And have a good summer.
Remember, to always ask if he has

Hiya,
I'm really glad you went in to this class. I needed some extra help. Otherwise I have a very busy
summer. Next year
